New Town

For over thirty years this company has operated a lumber mill in Union county. For over thirty years it has provided gainful occupations for an entire small community, has paid taxes, has maintained a payroll of no small dimensions, and has taken its part in the community activities and progress of the city of La Grande.

No one can have greater pride in the growth and progress that has been made in La Grande and Eastern Oregon than the officers and employees of this company.

After a generation of industrial life in what might be termed a "suburb" of La Grande, with convenient timber supply exhausted, the moving of the mill to a new site close to other timber holdings was necessitated. The new mill is still within Union county, though it is much farther from La Grande---an old industry in a new location.

As it built a town three decades ago, so it has built a town today---a new town and a new name---"Pondosa." The mill is already in operation, the hotel is finished and in use, many houses are occupied. Lumber piles in the new yard are going up.

The Grande Ronde Lumber Company and its personnel has always considered itself a part of the La Grande community. We hope it will be possible to continue to be---to continue to have a part in community life, to aid in community progress, and to share the pride in community accomplishments of the future. Union county's future possibilities are great. We have confidence in their gradual and profitable realization.

We cordially invite visitors to make the drive to the new mill and to the new town of Pondosa to inspect the operation in detail.
