GRANDE RONDE VALLEY

COVE!

No single community in the Grande Ronde valley outside of La Grande contributes so much to the wealth and progress of Union county as does Cove. It is the fruit and berry center of the valley and grows the choicest small fruit exhibits of any community in the west.

Cove offers a wealth of opportunity to the prospective investor or home-maker. Situated in the most beautiful and picturesque part of the valley, it leaves little to be desired either in beauty or natural resources. Back of it are the mountains from which comes the cool, sweet water for the extensive orchards below. At its feet is the famous valley of the Grande Ronde with its farms and orchards marked off like squares on a checkerboard and its eight towns and cities all in view.

A community of 400 people, Cove is surrounded by a thickly populated area cut up into small fruit and vegetable tracts that are probably more highly productive than any other land in this section of Oregon. Cove cherries are famous wherever choice fruit is known—in all world markets—and the beautiful berries, fine prunes, pears, and apples, with varied vegetable crops, give a variety of horticultural activity.

Cove, although a fruit and berry center for years, is actually just beginning its development. New orchards are being planted each year and there is prospect of extensive settling of small tracts and the importance and possibilities of fruit growing becomes generally known.

In community advantages Cove offers adequate school facilities, good churches, a fine system of macadam streets and connecting market roads and highways, a progressive community spirit—all that pleasant living could require. One of the unusual features is the famous Cove Swimming Pool, fed by natural warm springs—a recreational treat for people from all over this section, winter and summer. Cove is a good place to live.

This wonderful outdoor pool is fed by warm mineral springs. The water comes out of the ground at 84 degrees and flows in such volume that it changes the pool every 7 hours; 8 different health giving minerals are present as shown by analysis conducted by the state chemist. Picnic grounds are available near the pool. Come and bring the family where all can enjoy themselves.
