Wolf, Coyote and Bobcat Under Ban

JUNEAU, Alaska (AP)—Cooperative efforts similar to those between the federal government and western states have been developed between the federal and territorial governments in Alaska to control predatory animals, which annually destroy thousands of dollars worth of livestock, wild game, and birds.

The territorial legislature, at its last session, appropriated $10,000 to the undertaking. R. K. Stewart, of the U. S. biological survey has been detailed to Alaska to develop methods for control of wolves, coyotes and bobcats.

Operations started as early as 1923 have had a gratifying benefit, officials say, in the destruction of gray wolves through the use of traps and poison.

Disarmament is O. K., but we favor a large army for Rumania to keep the sob sisters away from little king Michael.

AT THE THEATERS

Thrills Galore Promised In "Dixie Flyer"

Imagine, if you can, a fight on a rising drawbridge in which the loser goes plunging, unconscious, into a rock-strewn river! Imagine a runaway railroad car headed straight for that open draw! Imagine a fight on a speeding train, to participate in which both the hero and the heroine had to make a death defying leap against almost insurmountable odds! Imagine all of these things, and you still have but a faint idea of the many kicks which "The Dixie Flyer" possesses.

"The Dixie Flyer" is showing at the Colonial theater Saturday only. It is a Trem Carr production, directed by Charles Hunt, with a strong cast of popular favorites headed by Cullen Landis and Eva Novak.

"The Show" With Gilbert Has Mystery Plus

Mystery plus mystery—that is the formula on which Tod Browning built his latest production. And—the sum total is heart throbs.

He took the strangest of settings—the interior of a Budapest "Palace of Illusions," with headless heads, ghosts, mermaids and other strange things created by magician's optical illusions; coupled this outre location with a striking mystery in his story—and out of it evolved one of the sweetest love stories ever told on the screen in "The Show," playing Sunday and Monday at the Colonial theater.

The famous director of "The Unholy Three" used his bent for the mysterious in life as a setting for the art of John Gilbert and Renee Adoree, of "Big Parade" fame, in the new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production. He placed them in the most eerie locale one could imagine—a mystery sideshow on the border of Budapest's strange underworld. Gilbert is a barker in the sideshow. Miss Adoree is the Salome dancer.

He then works out a story so dramatic—so astounding, that the audience is left gasping at its sheer audacity. He makes it actuality—hammers home the truths in life with a trip-hammer intensity. The drama fairly lives.

The cast includes Lionel Barrymore as "The Greek," sinister gangster leader; Edward Connelly, who has one of the greatest roles in his long career as the old blind man of the story; Gertrude Short and Andy MacLennan.

John Gilbert reaches an intensity of emotional acting that is little short of genius, and Miss Adoree has one of the most effective roles she has ever played in the Browning production. Browning has given the world "The Unholy Three" and others—but "The Show" casts a new light on his uncanny grasp of the drama.

NOTICE—Mrs. P. S. Robinson will take pupils on the violin and piano at her studio on 1404 4th St. (two blocks from high school). Credits given high school students. 8-31-1mp

Berry and Hatton Teamed In Arcade Film

Wallace Beery and Raymond Hatton, the inimitable comedy team, who have convulsed audiences throughout the world with their antics in "Behind the Front" and "We're in the Navy Now" are back once more in what has been acclaimed the funniest farce of their careers "Firemen, Save My Child." It comes to the Arcade theater on Monday for a three day run.

"Firemen, Save My Child" is declared to have hit a new high water mark in laugh films. With the same director, Edward Sutherland, and the same scenarist and comedy constructor, Monty Brice, who made the previous Beery-Hatton vehicle, a riot of uninterrupted laughter has been brought to the screen.

This quartet—Beery, Hatton, Sutherland and Brice — who have been aptly termed the "Four Horsemen of Hilarity" began their work together in "Behind the Front." It ripened into a greater success in "We're in the Navy Now." In "Firemen, Save My Child" with all four possessing an understanding of the work of the others deepened by their previous association, they are said to have attained the heights.

After twice appearing in federal government uniforms, Beery and Hatton decided to become municipal in their choice of costume. In the plot of "Firemen, Save My Child" and it is a comedy with a plot—they found an ideal vehicle. So they donned the blue of the fire fighters, with the same difficulty at finding uniforms which fit that beset them in the army and navy pictures and find themselves literally catapulted into a series of side-splitting adventures in which they succeed in all but wrecking one town's entire fire fighting system. However, they prove themselves heroes in spite of everything, involuntary heroes, but heroes nevertheless.

Tom Kennedy, who was their pet menace in their previous pictures, again makes life miserable for Beery and Hatton as the fire captain; Joseph Girard, who also appeared in the previous Beery-Hatton farces, is the dignified fire chief. Josephine Dunn, petite, blonde, beautiful graduate of the Paramount Picture School, supplies the love interest with Walter Goss, another graduate of the school as the juvenile.

Menjou Is Pantry Monarch At Star Sunday

Coming to the Star theater Sunday for a two day engagement is Adolphe Menjou's latest Paramount comedy-drama "Service for Ladies."

In this production, the sophisticated Menjou of "Sorrows of Satan" departs from the philandering roles that have characterized much of his work in the past. In his place is a serious, earnest Menjou, who, in the character of Europe's most celebrated head waiter, loves an American heiress.

Behind the scenes in an exclusive Paris hotel and winter sports in the Swiss Alps constitute the settings. We see intimate glimpses of the hotel and restaurant profession, glimpses that by their faithfulness and sympathetic understanding have won for Menjou the distinction of being the only motion picture star to be awarded an honorary membership in the International Geneva association, an organization composed of leaders in the hotel and restaurant fraternity.

In the scenes laid in the Swiss Alps, Menjou appears in a guise different from previous characterizations. Temporarily the evening clothes of former roles are replaced by sports wear. Menjou is seen as a skater of unusual ability in one of the most brilliant ice carnival sequences ever filmed.

Playing the leading feminine role opposite the star, is a new leading woman, Kathryn Carver. Miss Carver's face is well known to the American public as Harrison Fisher's "Ideal American Girl". Thus she was characterized by the celebrated artist and as such she posed for a series of head studies.

Others who appear in the cast are Lawrence Grant, Charles Lane, Sally Blane, Marian Ivy Harris and Lotus Thompson.

"Koko's Kane" one of the Out of the Inkwell comedies and the latest Paramount News make up the balance of the program.

Cheer up, everybody, and look forward to the holidays. Christmas and New Year's Day both fall on Sunday this year.
