WET GOODS SEIZED
PHILADELPHIA—Apparently the big fight in Chicago will not be so wet as some folks expected. Customs officials say that much of the $2,000,000 worth seized here on the steamship Palau was destined for consumption when it was turned over to the government. 9-12-27

After being let a wench at the altar many a young bride finds that she has been sold.

She was wearing a bridge gown that evening, but I can't see why it was called a bridge gown, for in bridge you are only supposed to show your hand.

THE NAKED TRUTH
A rolling stone gathers no moss. They repeat this with motion and flourish.

That tell me you come across with a reason why rolling stones exist?

When the heart desires to grow old along with the rest of the physician, it's apt to lead to a lot of darn foolishness.

When it comes to making yourself unpopular there hasn't been anything discovered that beats telling the truth all the time.

Some people are like price tags—you have to know what the discount is on what they say.

One thing about confessions: It takes only one of them to make a bouquet.

The girls are taking courses in home management, but husband management, they understand without instructions.

When a girl warms up to a fellow he thinks he has her "knocked cold."

The girls are trying to figure how they can reduce. First, but find out that first they would better try to reduce their bills.

In early youth we are taught to "love one another." Later we learn to love one's self.

So many women in fishing for a husband make the mistake of trying to hurry the sucker into biting.

"You mind your own business, Hiram! This is last year's catalogue."

AT THE THEATERS

Sets Record With $250,000 Haircut

Men are bewailing the ever increasing cost of tonsorial embellishment and the gnashing of teeth can be heard far and wide every time the barber adds another cent to the price of a hair cut, but how would you like to pay the premium on an insurance policy for $250,000 for a single haircut?

The largest policy ever written for five hundred feet of film negative was the policy purchased by Jackie Coogan Company to cover the hair-cutting scene in the little Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer star's latest picture, "Johnny Get Your Hair Cut."

The shearing of the famous Dutch Bob took place after noon of the film had been completed. A huge sum had been expended on the production up to that moment, and a large cast of players on full salary pending the outcome of the hair cut. Had anything gone amiss in the hair-cutting scene, it would have meant that Jackie's hair would have to grow out again—a process which would have consumed another month with the overhead on its dizzy upward flight.

The story conceived by Gerald Beaumont and produced under the personal supervision of Jack Coogan Sr., mirrors the passing of Jackie Coogan from boyhood to manhood. The transformation of the version's famous child star is amazing. Rans the Dutch Bob, Jackie is the symbol of American boyhood. "Johnny Get Your Hair Cut" is showing at the Colonial theater for the last time today.

One of the most fascinating of pictures promised for a local showing is "The Secret Studio," which is scheduled to appear on the screen of the Arcade theater today only.

This latest Fox feature is a romance of artists and models of the Latin Quarter of Greenwich Village and is directed by Harry Beaumont, creator of "Handy," a sensational film of the last season.

Oliver Hudson, who helped to make his Fox in "The Love" came repeated her success in the stellar roles of "Three Bad Men" and "Country Beyond."

play the leading part of Rosemary Merton, a thrill-seeking flapper. This is a new characterization for the actress, but her previous work in "The Love" has shown her in a different light.

Kenneth Harlan is cast as the lover, while Marie Fox, who has been playing the lead in the Van Hise comedies, has the role of an artist "nanny." This is a new type of role for the fun-making Fox, but again the critic cannot but be impressed admirably in the part.

Not only an interesting story, but laughter and thrills and high suspense are promised in "The Secret Studio."

One of the interesting as well as funny Will Rogers (that, this time "Humour Comedian in Berlin") will be shown and also the Paramount comedy "French Fried."

who rides the family pride, Colleen, to victory on a race track and at the same time rides into the hearts of her audience with her beauty, liveliness and sympathetic portrayal of her role.

Charles Morton is her lover, while J. Farrell Macdonald and Tom McGuire, who, with Ted McNamara, as the groom, brought merriment and laughter from the audience who witnessed the first showing of this wholly and unqualifiedly delightful picture. Don't fail to see this happy film. We promise it will cure the worst fit of gloom.

A comedy and a Paramount News that is sent here direct from New York, are also being shown.
