COST LESS

than "cheaper" overalls because they give more wear

You're willing and glad to buy an overall that will give you longer wear. Yet it's hard to tell the difference between overalls, as they're all blue and look about alike But here's a test that will settle the point of longer wear for you.

Toss the ordinary overall on the scales and read the weight. Then place the same size in an Oshkosh B'Gosh Overall on the same scale. Watch the indicator go past the previous mark, one—two—three—four—five—yes, sometimes six or seven ounces!

That's the story! Heavier denim has larger, stronger threads and more of them to the inch, hence it wears longer and gives you more for your money.

There is no other overall that will weigh as much as Oshkosh B'Gosh! There is no other overall that will wear as long or actually cost as little. These are not idle statements. We will gladly prove the former to you in our store. You can prove the latter by trying an Oshkosh B'Gosh in actual service. That's the final test. Remember, "they must make good or we will."

Lesser Shares Attracting Bulk Of Buying Today

NEW YORK, Sept. 21 (AP)—Low priced shares attracted the bulk buying in today's stock market. The absorption was especially large in certain of the rubber, public utility, motion picture, oil, packing and chemical issues.

The movement of prices however was not altogether up. Intervals of weakness occurred in some of the motors. International Harvester, Dupont, Baldwin, Allied Chemical, Texas Gulf Sulphur, General Railway Signal, American Smelting and some other stocks which commanded big speculative following. Manhattan Electrical Supply was hammered down 4 points to 49, a new low for the year and Foundation Company dipped to its minimum figure for 1927.

Railroads fluctuated in a confused manner. New York Central, after weakening early, ran up briskly to the highest level in 25 years.

The closing was firm. Goodyear, which advanced 5 points to a new top for the year and such specialties as Park and Tilford, Otis Elevator, Dunhill, Abraham and Straus, National Distillers, which improved 2 to 5 points featured late trading. Total sales approximated, 2,250,000 shares.

Chicago Shops in Bathing Suits; Makes Beach Garb All-Day Attire

CHICAGO (AP)—It has been a cool summer, but the Chicago bather has been more ubiquitous than ever.

Pretty girls in scanty costumes perhaps with a kimono or slicker hanging loosely from the shoulders, are not street novelties, though the stranger may gasp and gaze.

On a warm day, along the north and south shores of Lake Michigan and even near the loop, bathers of all degrees of age and form may be seen on the streets, taking tea, or going to market in creations of two pieces, a piece and a half, just one piece, or what have you.

Among other things, Chicago advertises itself as "the world's largest summer resort." Mile after mile, well kept beaches fringe the thickly populated residential districts from the southern to the northern limits of the city.

And its citizens live up to the slogan by enjoying the summers in much the manner of those who seek the freedom of isolated summer resorts.

The accepted procedure, when one wants to go bathing, if he lives near enough to the lake, is to don beach costume in his apartment and walk or ride to the water.

Bathing-suited men, women and children ride the busses with as little concern as if they were fully clothed. Young matrons, coming back from the lake, park bathers' cars at the apartment and go to market before changing to street clothes.

It is not unusual for bathers to drop into restaurants clad only in the one-piece suits they wore at the beach.

Motoring in brilliant-hued beach costume is a regular thing, and a man wearing plus-fours and carrying a bag of golf clubs attracts as much attention as one whose sun-baked neck and legs are bared by a bathing suit.

Farm Pointers

If lambs are to be born strong and vigorous, a moderate amount of exercise is necessary for the ewes during the winter. This can be obtained by scattering their roughage over a field and allowing them to work back and forth over the field while eating, or by feeding some of the roughage some distance from their shelter. If winter pastures are used, no other arrangements are necessary.

Successful training of horses requires great patience, gentleness, and firmness. A horse should be trained to think there is no limit to his power to do the things required of him, and that he has no power to do that which is against the wishes of his master. Never try to make a horse do something he cannot do. It may make him balky. Do not work a colt after he is tired. Always, if a horse cannot do, or cannot be made to do what is asked of him, make him do something else. So long as he is not allowed to do what he himself chooses, he will consider man his superior and master.

In making butter the proper time to stop churning is as soon as the butter granules are the size of wheat or corn kernels. When churning is continued until the butter forms in large lumps it is impossible to wash out the buttermilk. Too much buttermilk in the butter injures the keeping qualities.

When silage is fed to cows immediately before milking the odors of the feed may be imparted to the milk. If fed just after milking, however, the silage odors will have passed from the cows' bodies before the next milking.

In regions of extreme winters it is advisable to winter bees in cellars rather than outdoors. In such climates the bees are compelled to generate sufficient heat to overcome the severe cold. This calls for the expenditure of much more food and vitality than are required when they are kept in a good cellar during the months of extreme cold.
