THE HIGHEST ROCK: Hear my cry, O God; attend unto my prayer. From the end of the earth will I cry unto thee: Lord, Lord, the rock that is higher than I. Psalm 61: 1, 2.

Canadian authorities rule that "owners of yachts may drink liquor on their vessels." Apparently following an immemorial right—or rite.

The Magazine of Wall Street appears this month with a feature article on the industrial growth of the Pacific coast. No section realizes more than the coast itself how great the industrial development has been, but there is great value in magazine articles such as this in focusing attention on the west. Incidentally, the growth is shown graphically by comparison of 1925 with 1900. At the beginning of the century there were 125,000 wage earners and 410 million dollars worth of manufactured products. In 1925 there were 413,000 wage earners on the coast producing 3,455 million dollars in manufacturing. Nothing emphasizes the importance of industrial development more forcefully than that.

Admiral Magruder may have to follow the trail of Billy Mitchell. He is due for a call-down for his recent article in the Saturday Evening Post which has been interpreted as too critical of the navy department. Maybe it was. Navy rules are navy rules and discipline must be upheld. If you are on the inside and you know something that you think should be known on the outside, you are prohibited from so doing unless you cease being on the inside. That's good for discipline but maybe not so good for the country at large. The admiral must choose between his job and duty as set by precedent and his conception of what should be. He can say what he thinks and be a citizen or he can keep his mouth shut and be an admiral.

Fight pictures were seized in Chicago as they were about to be taken—so the owners unblushingly declared—to Canada. The government prohibits transportation of the pictures between states—or at least there is a law against it—without much chance of actually enforcing it. A set or two will be taken by federal agents and dozens of sets will be missed. If the same record is set as in previous fights, the pictures will be shown in nearly every state in the country. Which leads one to wonder why the regulation in the first place. The radio told the world all about the fight. It was perfectly lawful for many-wounded descriptions to cross all state borders on the air and over wires, but the pictorial description is wrong. Federal control over such things should either be expanded or curtailed. The present system is out of balance.

ANIMAL MUSIC CRITICS

It was really a bright idea to have that Philadelphia orchestra go to the zoo and play for the animals. Much may be learned from animals. The more you meditate on the effects produced, the more respect you are likely to have for the brute critics. Their manner of expressing their criticism was simple and crude, but effective.

First honors go to the elephant who, chained within 30 feet of the orchestra when it played a jazz piece, deliberately filled her trunk with muddy water and blew it all over the players, driving them off in disorder. That happened to be an Asiatic elephant. Who can say what an African elephant would have done?

Second honors go to the monkeys. They were filled with alarm by the preliminary tuning and were excited by the jazz, but when good classical music was played, they quieted down and gave evidence of thorough enjoyment.

They seemed easily to distinguish good compositions from formless noise. They showed marked differences in their various instruments. The drum frightened them. The saxophone enraged them. The violin soothed them. When the bass viol was played, they gazed at each other in bewilderment, and clung to their bars and blinked their eyes and scratched their heads, trying in vain to understand. Humans can sympathize with that attitude. Many of us have tried in vain to understand the bass viol.

PRICES STEADY; TRADE IS QUIET

Apple Receipts Are on the Increase—Butter And Eggs Unchanged

PORTLAND Ore. Sept. 26 (AP)—Portland's wholesale fruit and vegetable market opened this steady with Saturday's quotation, steady with Saturday's quotation.

Apple receipts are on the increase. A load of Hiram, Washington extra fancy and fancy combination paces Winter Bananas apples were offered at $2.75 per box.

Best local tomatoes were toppling at 75c.

Peaches and grapes were continued in plentiful supply at unchanged prices.

Butter and egg quotations on the daily exchange are unchanged from Saturday. An easier feeling in the local butter market is indicated by new surplus offerings from country creameries which have been practically off the market through the height of the harvest season.

The day's trade in country dressed and poultry was quiet during the early morning to establish definite price ranges. Quotations were standing at Saturday's levels while meat receipts were heavy.
