

WALLOWA PERSONALS

WALLOWA, Ore. (Special)—C. F. Harmon and wife, of Leap, were Enterprise visitors the first of the week.

The attendance at the county fair, which has been in progress during the past week, has been quite limited from this end of the valley. A few have come up for the afternoon programs on two or three days, but state that they did not get much enjoyment due to the cold stormy condition of the weather.

Giles Plasse was at his ranch in the hills the first of the week, and a few acres of oats he has there.

M. A. Peterson was sick a few days during the past week of an attack of the "flu." He is reported to be somewhat improved at this time.

Some seedling of fall wheat remains to be done in this section of the county yet. While farmers have been unable to work at harvesting the crops, the soil has been too wet much of the time to permit a good job of seedling fall wheat. However, a number have finished during the past week, and state that the grain is germinating rapidly.

A. V. McAlexander and James Lundquist left the last of the week for a few days deer hunt in the mountains south of Lostine.

Mrs. Neal Baker, who has been sick for the last several months, and who underwent a major operation in Portland, is reported to be improving quite slowly.

Elmer Osborn and Glenn English, who are farming the J. H. Haun ranches in the hills, have been busy seeding fall wheat the past several days.

C. F. and Ann Harmon, of Leap, were Lostine business visitors Tuesday.

Elmer Osborn and wife, of Parsnip Creek, were visitors here the last of the week. Mr. Osborn states he has more than 200 acres of fall wheat to cut yet, and that the yield being received from a field on which he was cutting before the recent rains is running 45 bushels per acre.

Mrs. Steek and sons and Earl Burroughfield were visitors here Friday.

George Cussins and Irvin Gastin have been busy the past several days helping Ed Bell re-shock his wheat.

L. W. Minor was an Enterprise visitor a few days the past week, attending the fair while there.

A number of hunters were out the first and second of the month after Chinese pheasants, which do not appear to be as plentiful this season as in former years.

Douglas County Endorses Highway

ROSEBURG, Ore., Oct. 5 (AP)—

At one of the most enthusiastic mass meetings ever held in Roseburg a group of more than one thousand Douglas county citizens last night endorsed the Umpqua highway road project and appointed a committee composed of prominent Douglas and Coos Bay men to work for the completion of this road, which will follow the Umpqua river from "Diamond Lake to the sea," according to the slogan adopted. The road connecting at Diamond Lake with roads from Bend and Klamath Falls will give an east and west connection through Oregon, affecting two outlets to deep water ports at Marshfield and Reedsport. It was pointed out at this meeting that the Diamond Lake pass is the only pass through the Cascades, with the single exception of the Columbia gorge that can be kept open the year around. All other passes are blocked by snow during the winter months, but because of the light snowfall in the Diamond Lake pass it would be possible with but little effort to keep the road open all year.

A grade from Diamond Lake to Reedsport now exists except for 22 miles between Big Camas and Steamboat ranger stations in the Umpqua national forest. When this stretch is graded the road will be an actuality, although a great deal of improvement work will be necessary before it can be utilized as an all-year road. However, it will afford immediately a good summer road, opening up a wonderful vacation land.

NEW YORK (AP)—Nine-tenths of the women's clubs ought to be disbanded and their energies devoted to worthwhile causes, in the opinion of Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt.

REMEMBERS 1905
WASHINGTON (AP)—Mr. Coolidge remembered the day in 1905 when Grace Goodhue changed her name. Mrs. Coolidge received a token and there were extra flowers from the white house garden on the 22nd wedding anniversary.

Nine-tenths of the people in this country are unable to think for themselves, says an eastern professor. We are just wondering how that other tenth ever got into his classroom.

These are the days when all young men are divided into two classes—football and pool players.

MURDER WITNESS

(NEA, New York Bureau) Newest figure in the investigation of the slaying at Hammonilton, N. J., of Dr. William L. Lillendahl, of Vineland, N. J., is Mrs. Thomas Tamblin, wife of the postmaster at South Vineland. She said that Mrs. Lillendahl, the widow, held in $25,000 bill as a material witness, used to collect at the South Vineland post office mail addressed to "Peggy Anderson." Dr. Lillendahl once called to inquire about it, Mrs. Tamblin stated.

The Garden

Starting An Asparagus Bed

Asparagus beds are family institutions that are as permanent fixtures as a heating plant, once established. They will endure for years with a minimum of care. No vegetable is more desirable and it is never cheap in the market. It is simple matter to have a supply for cutting at will during the season. Fall is an excellent time to start the bed.

Buy two or three-year-old roots, the former usually taking hold the quicker. Find a convenient spot out of the way of the rest of the garden for the bed, which won't accommodate much of anything else except rows of the earliest vegetables such as radishes, spinach and lettuce between the hills of asparagus. Plant the hills three feet apart each way. Dig a hole a foot deep and two feet wide—it is no light work to get asparagus started right, but worth the effort. Raise a mound six inches high in the center of the hole upon which the asparagus plant should be set with the roots spread out like the spokes of a wheel. When covered, the crown is six inches underneath the surface.

Give liberal fertilizer. It is difficult to overfertilize the asparagus bed. In two years the bed will be established. It should not be cut the following season. But after that it is a family institution.

For the convenience of limited quarters asparagus may be planted to form a hedge or border about the garden, the feathery plumes making a solid wall of green from July on and a fine background for flowers. It can also be planted along a boundary fence. Often these long rows are the most convenient arrangement for the small place and the only way an asparagus planting can be conveniently placed.

Select a good variety. The rust-proof strains developed by the United States Department of Agriculture are excellent ones to try. Bonvallet's Giant is another standard and popular variety with good-sized tender stalks. The tenderness of asparagus is more a matter of fertile soil, moisture and good cultivation than of variety as any of the kinds will give good asparagus with good growing conditions. Sating the bed is an ancient formula and arose out of the fact that the asparagus in its native haunts is a salt marsh plant. It likes a salt dressing, although it is not necessary.

Digging in a mulch of manure (put on in the fall) each spring will be much better than a dressing of salt. Light feeding with nitrate of soda is also excellent treatment.

About the only thing you can't get on time in this country these days is meals.
