A contract for the surfacing of a three-mile section of road, running from the north end of the main street of Union west along Eden lane, was granted to Stansford Brothers, of Salem, yesterday by the county court.

Teachers Pay Visit

Yesterday afternoon a delegation from the Union county teachers' institute visited the county court in the interest of the county library. The committee consisted of Ralph Morgan, superintendent of the public schools; W. V. Conner, principal of the grade schools of Union, and E. E. Arant, superintendent of the Elgin schools. They asked that the county school library fund be transferred to the La Grande public library giving all of the school children of the county access to all of the books in the local library.

An appeal was also made by the committee for the reestablishment of the county library. The committee declared that although they realized the value of the county library, the six per cent limitation prohibited them from setting aside money for the reestablishment of the county library. However, the question of the county library will probably be considered at the meeting of the budget committee next month, it is said.

Want Deeper Channel

A delegation from Rinehart also visited the court and asked that the Grande Ronde river channel, just above the Rinehart overhead, be deepened to prevent the water from backing up and the river from overflowing. The court

YOUR FEAR OF STRANGERS

If you enter a strange store in a strange town, and a strange clerk tries to sell you a strange tooth paste, about ten times out of ten he makes a failure of it. You react unfavorably to strange merchandise or strange people when not introduced by some one or some connection in which you have confidence. You prefer a store you know, and goods you know. Your acquaintances with both store and goods is made possible, is increased by advertising. You become familiar with them, gain confidence in them through advertising. The successful business man cannot afford to slight this contact with you, this opportunity to gain and keep your confidence. In The Observer he does it at a minimum cost with three thousand families. "Observer Advertising—A Merchandising Service"

Robert Whythe reported on the irrigation experiment which is being conducted under the auspices of the group, at the Hugh Huron farm near Imbler. Chase Bohnenkamp, who at that time, spoke on the crop prospects, reported last night on present conditions.

Three Papers

The program scheduled for last evening consisted of three papers. H. E. Coolidge had the first, and he took for his subject, one that had been assigned to him on another occasion, "Has the agriculture committee accomplished anything and is it right to exist, justified?" Mr. Coolidge was quite emphatic in his statement that it had accomplished much and that had a right to exist. He believes that through the efforts of this committee there has been a closer contact with the farmers, established, that the work of the boys' and girls' clubs has been furthered, etc. He pointed out that the very nature of their work was such that results could not be at first apparent, but that they came in the end. One special point which Mr. Coolidge emphasized was, that he believed the committee should make a greater effort to encourage more and better dairies. With the experience of this year's grain crop, he believed that encouragement should be lent for the raising of

General Quijano Faces Squad of Guns Smilingly

Mexican Rebellion Leader Displays Nerve in Front of the Executioners' Rifles.

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 7. (AP)—General Alfredo Ruado Quijano, executed for rebellion, died bravely. Placed against a sun-warmed wall in the courtyard of grim old San Lazaro military prison stripped of his insignia and branded a traitor, he spat the blood of which would have shut out the sight of the fatal rifle muzzles and twice summoned his executioners nearer, that they might not miss. Quijano led his troops out of the Mexico City garrison's barracks last Sunday night to join the rebellion.

Seized and turned over to the government forces by his own men who claim he had deceived them, Quijano was questioned before a courtmartial Wednesday night and early yesterday morning was found guilty and condemned to die.

"What a Man" At 11 o'clock he was taken across the city from the Santiago prison where the courtmartial sat, to the place of execution. He arrived there at 11:20. Five minutes later he lay lifeless on the ground, but in the interim he had braved himself and fortitude that even the soldiers who killed him murmured: "Que hombre! Que hombre!" ("What a man!")

Nearly 2000 troops lined the courtyard when the general entered, walking ahead of his guards, smiling and waving greetings to friends he chanced to see.

Clean-shaven, and showing perfect self control in every line of his clear-cut face, he strode across the courtyard without hesitation, a commanding figure more than six feet tall, of powerful build.

Open to Public

The courtyard had been opened to the public and vendors of ice cream cones, popcorn, fruit and candy shouted their wares. Women in overalls, washerwomen with baskets of laundry, looked on, while curious children ceased their play.

B. B. BARKER VICE CHIEF OF OREGON U

Chicago-New York Lawyer and Educator Selected by Regents

DR. ARNOLD B. HALL PRAISES CHOICE

New Official Will Come to This State Early in the Spring to Take Up His Duties.

UNIVERSITY OF OREGON, Eugene, Ore., Oct. 7. (Special)—Burt Brown Barker, noted lawyer and educator of Chicago and New York was today named to fill the position of vice president, in charge of public relations, at the University of Oregon. It is announced by members of the board of regents, following a meeting held this morning.

The election of Mr. Barker to this position is regarded by members of the board of regents and officials of the institution as the most important progressive step taken since Dr. Arnold Bennett Hall accepted the presidency here. Mr. Barker will also take charge of the gift campaign, work for which he is admirably fitted, it is said.

Mr. Barker Accepts

The acceptance of Mr. Barker was obtained today by wire, in which he said, "to return to my native state and carry on the traditions of my late parents is an answered prayer. My parents were pioneers to Oregon. Their dust lies in Salem. Their privations were friends to me, and I would be unworthy of my heritage to return to Oregon in any other than the sacrificing spirit in which they lived."

"I feel keenly that Oregon is in the making more than many of her citizens realize. She should prepare, and her surest preparation lies in an educated and trained citizenship. To have a hand in this preparation should be the highest ambition of anyone."

Associated With Hughes

Mr. Barker, who is one of the best known lawyers in New York and Chicago, is giving up a large and lucrative practice to accept the position at Oregon. At this time he is associated with Charles Evans Hughes and other prominent members of the bar in several large cases, and he plans to dispose of all of his business before coming to Oregon. During this time, however, he will make a trip to this state, select a site for a home, and will make all preparations for his permanent stay.

"The election of Burt Brown Barker as vice president in charge of public relations, is in my judgment a most significant event, and I venture to prophesy that in times to come, this will be looked upon as one of the major events in the university's growth," declared Dr. Arnold Bennett Hall, president of the university, on making the announcement.

"I have known Mr. Barker personally for over 20 years. He has won distinction at the bar, and has a record for altruistic public service that has been excelled by

Both spent the night in the Atlantic county jail, where they were brought yesterday. Dr. Lillendahl was found dead in his automobile in a wooded section near Hammonton. He and his wife had been driving last night when the doctor was shot. Trial of Three Klamath Men Is Nearing the End

MEDFORD, Ore., Oct. 7. (AP)—Closing arguments were begun this morning in the federal court in the trial of William B. Barnes, A. D. Lambert, son of a congressman, and L. D. Rice, all residents of Klamath Falls charged with conspiracy to violate the national prohibition act.

The testimony yesterday afternoon was contradictory to the government's evidence. Mrs. L. D. Rice testified that on the night of Dec. 16, 1926, her husband spent the evening at home. The date was remembered, she said, because of the receipt of a special delivery letter from Rice's mother. Federal Agent Allison testified Rice sold him a bottle of moonshine, and rang up the cost on the cash register on this date.

C. H. Delap, county clerk, and W. T. Lee, county assessor, testified as character witnesses for Lambert and Rice.
