SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The gripping, sensational 18-13 battle of Stanford and Southern California, and the smashing 16-0 victory of California over Oregon were high lights in Saturday's mid-season campaign as far as western football has recorded.

Some 50,000 persons saw a desperate Stanford eleven, on the short end of a 18-7 defeat, facing almost certain defeat, unless a terrific charge that carried them over the University of Southern California goal line a few seconds before the end of the game.

California, beating back after several seasons' defeat and disappointment smothered Oregon in an opening bid for conference recognition. The victory, coming on the heels of a stunning conquest of St. Mary's a week ago, sent California into a frenzy of joy with visions of another, long-awaited coast championship. In the third game with conference bearing, the Huskies of Washington crushed Montana under a 32-0 count, closing up the Grizzlies with a line aerial attack that brooked no opposition.

Supreme Court to Investigate Case

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17 (AP)—The supreme court today ordered that the entire record in the appeal of Swift and company and other packers, involving important phases of their fight to set aside the decree under which they agreed to confine themselves to the meat packing industry, be brought up from the court of appeals of the District of Columbia.

It decided that this should be done so that it could pass upon the case upon its merits instead of the questions asked. The case was set for hearing on the first Tuesday of January.

HEALTH

DIPHTHERIA HAS LOST MUCH OF ITS TERROR
By L. W. Oaks, M. D., Provo, Utah.
Member Gorgas Memorial
Not so many years ago the bare mention of diphtheria struck terror to the hearts of people everywhere. It was justly feared as one of the most treacherous diseases known to man. A great percentage of those who contracted it died in spite of the best treatment to be had. In fact, there was little that could be done, except to sit by while they died.

forms as a result of action of the Diphtheria antitoxin, a serum, bacteria upon membranes lining has changed all this. Today, through the agency of antitoxin, point where the individual can no longer get air through. Then, unless something is done to open a route for breathing, the person dies of asphyxiation. Individuals who succumb in this way are always blue in color, because of air starvation. It was formerly said that some one's part. Responsibility almost invariably falls upon the patient or his relatives, as physicians a death was due to black diphtheria. Second, the poison of diphtheria has a special affinity for the nerves, particularly those in prearrangement and give those nerves which control the heart action. Not infrequently a person ill of diphtheria tries to sit up, or even to lift his head from the pillow, and suddenly falls back dead. Death in such a case is due to paralysis of these heart-control-ling nerves, so that heart action ceases. Even cases of diphtheria which are supposed to be very mild have diphtheria do not paralysis of the throat muscles, as well as paralysis of the accommodation muscle, so they cannot read for a time; but this occurs more often in people who have not had antitoxin. Other extravagant things have been preached against the serum by various cultists. Practically the only inconvenience arising from diphtheria antitoxin, properly given, is the temporary occurrence of hives. As a rule, these last only a few weeks.

Diphtheria antitoxin offers the only sure hope in offsetting the dangers of this disease.
