A NEW DUTY
PRINCETON, N. J. (AP)—One of the latest duties of John D. Rockefeller III is instruction of Greek kitchen help in English. A junior, he heads a student committee which gives classes twice a week. "Mother says there was a fly in the cake she bought here yesterday." "Tell her to bring the fly back and I will give her a current for it."

Rastus—"Who was that little peach I saw you with last night?" Sambo—"Say, boy, that wasn't no peach, that was a grapefruit."

Rastus—"What you all mean grapefruit?" Sambo—"Why, I gave her a little squeeze and she gave me a look in the eye."

Hardware Clerk: "Here's a nice little boy wheelbarrow." Consistent Mother: "But it has only one wheel. I want a wheelbarrow with two wheels. I've got twins."

"William," said the teacher during the lesson in physiology, "what is the use of the external ear?" William considered a moment. "I think," he said, "it is mostly used to catch dirt."

Mrs. Gossip—"Did she get much silver for wedding presents?" Mrs. Scandal—"Yes, she got 99 spoons. Three were marked 'silver', 96 were marked 'platinum', and 15 were marked 'B. & M.'"

There are two kinds of men in this world. The kind that fall for women, and the kind that fall for women.

Just happened to see the lawn mower in the basement the other day and it made our back start aching.

It's about as hard to make a deaf man understand you as it is to catch the attention of a cross-eyed woman.

Daughter—"This piano is really my very own, isn't it, papa, and when I marry I can take it with me, can't I?" "Certainly, my child. But don't tell anyone; it might spoil your chances."

To be happy one must cultivate a good forgettery.

BIG WAR FORECAST

He has indicated to him that war will start May 28, 1928 and end Sept. 16, 1928, and be accompanied by earthquakes and floods. He made his prediction to members of the society known as the British Israelites, who had a meeting at the home of the marquess of Londonderry.

AT THE THEATERS

"Fighting Eagle" Production of Napoleon's Day

"Napoleon kidnapped!" Imagine what furor this news would have created had it been flashed across France in the early eighteen hundreds.

This occurs in "The Fighting Eagle," a screen version of Conan Doyle's "Adventures of Gerard." Rod La Roque, in the title role, is a swashbuckling young officer in Napoleon's army. Circumstances have brought about the unjust sentence—death at the hands of a firing squad!

La Roque, whose bravery and daring are conspicuous even in his death cell, is willing to die, but feels that the most should be made of his execution. To have his emperor present in La Roque's eyes, would make the event an important affair.

With the help of a beautiful and clever countess, portrayed by Phyllis Haver, he escapes from his cell, jumps astride a waiting horse, and gallops madly away to intercept the coach of Napoleon.

He is successful in his attempt, and after overpowering the position of the coach, dons his uniform and drives the coach at breakneck speed to the scene of his execution.

This series of events leads to a tensely dramatic climax in which Napoleon plays no small part. Donald Crisp directed "The Fighting Eagle," which is playing at the Colonial theater tonight, Thursday and Friday.

Today, "The Fighting Eagle" is in addition to La Roque and Miss Haver, Max Harwyn, Sam De Grasse, Julia Payne, Fatty Rand, Clarence Burton, and Alphonse Blicher.

"Tillie, The Toiler" Coming To Star

Marion Davies' best work in pictures is very hard to spot because she has done so much of it. It is probably safe to say, however, that Miss Davies gives her very best work to date in her latest "Cosmopolitan" starring vehicle, "Tillie, The Toiler," playing at the Star theater Thursday and Friday and directed by Hobart Henley at the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studio.

Delightful as is Miss Davies' stonographer-heroine in his daily comic strip, it must be admitted that Miss Davies, in her interpretation of the role of Tillie, is even more delightful.

In making this picture one of the notable comedies of the year the fair Marion has been assisted by a notable cast of comedians, by a notable cast of comedians, of Max, the whimsical office drudge, and there is Gertrude Short as Hubbles, the stenographer in the office next door. Matt Moore has played buds opposite Miss Davies on numerous other occasions and the two are perfect foils.

George K. Arthur gives his usual good performance as Mr. Whipple, the lovable character artist, and Ma Jones, Bert Toach, George Pawcett and Harry Crocker, a newcomer to the screen and a good one to keep an eye upon, handle their parts with commendable ability.

PIANE PARTY EARLY
CINCINNATI—Stephen A. Gerard, fruit dealer, is issuing invitations for a party three years hence to celebrate the golden wedding anniversary of the Gerards. Already he has invited 734 couples, and says he has only started. He will take over the ballroom of a Cincinnati hotel for the affair.

"Rough Riders" Takes T. R. and Men to Cuba

"Remember The Maine!" It was chanted on the shabby gray walls of an abandoned railway station and restored that aging structure to life for a day. Thousands of men, women and children, halos in arms, dignified old Confederates, veterans, lovely Southern girls whose old-fashioned skirts trailed the dust, school children waving flags, brave mothers, sweethearts with tear-dimmed eyes, crowded the station to farewell to "The Rough Riders" who were enroute for Tampa on the first lap of their journey into war-torn Cuba.

Traffic at a main intersection was halted while Victor Fleming, Paramount director, with a dozen assistants, handled the competing departure sequence. Long lines of railway coaches were filled with blue-shirted Rough Riders. Horses were driven into stock trains. Moths of people besieged the depot in a glorious farewell that held a strong note of pathos.

It was very real, even though by-standers, held back from the cameras by a detail of policemen, knew that Charles Farrell and Charles Bennett Mack were only acting when they said goodbye to Mary Astor. It was stirring scene of three days, Herminia Hagedorn, Roosevelt's official biographer, is credited with the original story. John Fish Goodrich prepared the screen play.

Many hearts beat faster as an echoing shout rolled over the city: "Remember The Maine!"

"The Rough Riders" reaches the Arcade theater Thursday for a stay of three days. Herminia Hagedorn, Roosevelt's official biographer, is credited with the original story. John Fish Goodrich prepared the screen play.

Waste Poisons in the Blood Make One Tired and Inefficient.

Do you rise lame and stiff? Drag through the day, listless and depressed? Evening find you all worn out? Have you given any thought to your kidneys?

Sluggish kidneys allow waste poisons to remain in the blood and make one tired and languid with often nagging backache, drowsy headaches and dizziness.
