Bridge Pointers

By Milton C. Work

When the bidding is opened with one No Trump and the player on the left has considerable strength, he has a most interesting question to determine. Should he double informatively to draw a helpful bid from his partner? Should he bid his strongest suit to show where his strength lies? Should he take the bid by the horse and bid two No Trumps? Or should he pass and await developments, hoping by his position as initial leader to save the game, if, as is probable, the one No Trump becomes the contract?

When Second Hand's strength is well distributed so that, while he has no long strong suit, to open against the No Trump he is prepared to help any suit his partner may name, he should double. The double is apt to work well, provided it is made with strength of at least five high cards. With less than eight sure tricks, the double is better than bidding two No Trumps. By five high cards is meant cards which may take a trick; but with hands containing two good four-card Majors, the doubling requirement may be slightly shaded. In the first of a series of Duplicate Progressive games, played by the Acorn Club in Philadelphia on November 1st, an interesting illustration of this occurred. At all the tables the Dealer, who had an obvious No Trump, started the auction with that bid. The Second Hand held:

Sp: Jack-10-x-x. H: Queen-10-x-x. D: Ace-Queen-9-x. C: Queen. At most of the tables Second Hand passed and the Dealer made one-odd. At the tables at which Second Hand doubled, Fourth Hand's bid produced a game, scoring quite a large gain for the informatory double. As between two of a suit and a pass, there is no universal rule to be applied. To advise an invariable pass would be both unsound and cowardly. There are hands with which a No Trump should be over-called by a suit; others with a strong suit, which should pass. Many more errors are made by bidding a suit with hands which should be passed than by passing with hands which should be bid. The suit should not be bid unless there is a reasonable chance of game, and in determining whether a reasonable chance exists, it would be carrying optimism too far to expect more than two tricks from the partner. It is generally more profitable to defeat a No Trump than to make a score of less than game.

The most amateurish error that articles of incorporation filed with the state banking department. A. A. Schramm, state superintendent of banks, has not yet passed on the articles. Should he refuse to grant a charter the promoters would have right of appeal to the state banking board. Otherwise it will not go before the board.

the Bridge table witnesses is the bidding of a long solid Minor (with which a game is not probable) over a No Trump. For example, holding:

Sp: x-x. H: x-x. D: Ace-x-x. C: Ace-King-Queen-Jack-x-x to bid two Clubs over a No Trump on the right would be the acme of foolishness. The defeat of the No Trump by at least fifty points is practically assured; a game at Clubs most improbable. A Major bid and game is the result apt to ensue from a Club bid. The Club bid would be equivalent to saying: "My dear opponent, you are on the wrong track; you cannot go game at No Trump, so I am trying to set you straight by pointing out your danger; I advise you to shift to a suit."

The pointer for today is: When sitting over a No Trump, do not bid a suit unless within two tricks of game; but double when you hold the doubling strength and distribution.

MENUS

By Sister Mary
BREAKFAST — Breakfast apples, cereal, cream, broiled bacon, soft cooked eggs, cornmeal muff-ins, milk, coffee.

LUNCHEON — Calves' brains in tomato sauce, mashed potato patties, watercress, grapes, milk, tea.
DINNER — Stuffed pork tenderloin, grilled sweet potatoes, ten-minute cabbage, cream cheese salad, apple and plum pudding, milk, coffee.

While calves' brains are usually considered the greatest delicacy, lambs' and sheep's brains are also used. As soon as they come from the market, wash well in cold water and remove arteries and membranes. Cover with cold water and let stand one hour. Then drop into boiling water to which one tablespoonful of vinegar has been added. Simmer twenty minutes and drain. Drop at once into cold water and let stand until cool. Cover with fresh cold water and let stand until cold. Drain and separate into small pieces. Care must be used while cooking that the water does not bubble violently, as the brains will fall apart.

Breakfast Apples
Four good-sized apples 3/4 cup granulated sugar, few grains salt. Choose tart, well flavored apples free from blemishes. Wash and remove cores without breaking fruit. Cut a thin, narrow parting from each apple at its largest circumference. Arrange side by side but not touching each other in a smooth sauce pan. Add water to half cover fruit and bring slowly to the boiling point with the pan closely covered. Remove cover and carefully turn over apples. Sprinkle with sugar and salt until tender but not broken, blasting with the steam in the pan. Remove fruit and reduce syrup to 3/4 cup by rapid boiling. Pour over apples arranged in individual serving dishes. Chill and serve with cereal and cream.
