Ira Dern Winner Over Romano in Portland Match

PORTLAND, Ore., Nov. 3 (AP)—In a rough and tumble wrestling exhibition here last night, Ira Dern, Salt Lake, was awarded the decision over Mike Romano, Chicago on a foul. The match was characterized by rough tactics throughout with Romano on the long end. When straight wrestling was indulged in for a brief time, Dern showed his superiority. Dern took the first fall with a leg split in 16 minutes 12 seconds. Romano took the second when Dern succumbed after having the wind knocked out of him. It was called a "Romano special". The third period lasted six minutes and two seconds. Romano, after rushing Dern to the ropes, brought up his knee into Dern's groin.

ALL-NIGHT GOLFING

NEW YORK—Golfers who have been enjoying the November summer are now enthusiastic over a forecast of all-night golf. Millard J. Bloomer has been experimenting on the Van Cortlandt Park public links with luminous balls. In pitch dark he walloped eight of them. Four in the fairway were easy to locate and it was not difficult to trace the others in the rough. "I believe we will have all-night golf in a short time," says Bloomer. He is being aided by a Columbia professor in producing the glow.

CADDY OUT OF JAIL

NEW YORK—Out of jail, one of the most energetic caddies on record now will have plenty of opportunity for work. Besides caddying he did odd jobs. He slept in the subway at night in order to save more money and help his mother.

UNDER CHARGES

PHILADELPHIA — John Edmundson, Scotch professional at the Plymouth country club and Albert E. Ricketts, second mate of the British steamer Manchester Shipper, are under charges because of the smuggling of six dozen British golf balls and six [illegible] clubs.

New York's mayor has ordered the law enforced closing cabarets at 3 a. m. If a patron isn't robbed by that time he doesn't deserve to be.

300 Men Applaud Ruth Elder's Feat

PARIS, Nov. 3 (AP)—Some 300 masculine members of the American colony in Paris today gave Ruth Elder a welcome which brought a blush to her cheeks and made her semi speechless with pleasure.

Hailed as the "lovely, darling, darling of Columbia," Miss Elder, accompanied by Captain George W. Haldeman, was guest of honor at a luncheon at the American club where she enjoyed the delightful position of being the sole woman on whom the eyes of a great room-full of men rested admiringly.

A Chicago woman gave a beggar a dime and then discovered he was her husband. Moral: Don't marry beggars.

ORION FEATURES NOVEMBER SKIES

Rises Directly in East Early in Evening — Is Bright Constellation

By Robert H. Baker
(Professor of Astronomy, University of Illinois)

URBANA, Ill. (AP) — Orion, brightest and most spectacular of the constellations, rises directly in the east at 9 p. m. on November 1. At the end of the month it will be in full view as early as 7 o'clock.

The figure that attracts the eye is a rectangle of four bright stars. Three stars in a row form the belt of Orion. His sword is marked by three fainter stars.

This son of starry heroes stands with uplifted club in eternal combat with Taurus, the celestial Bull. A lion's skin over his left arm which serves as a shield, is represented by an interesting curve of stars above the rectangle.

The line of the belt extended upward directs the observer's eye to a conspicuous V of stars which locates the head of the Bull and still higher to the Pleiades, or Seven Sisters, in his shoulder. The bright red star Aldebaran in the V is his fiery eye, and two stars out to the left mark the tips of his horns.

In spite of his ferocious aspect the celestial Bull has been backing away from the fight ever since the world began. In other words, being west of Orion, he rises and sets sooner.

It is interesting to compare the two brightest stars of Orion. Betelgeuse, in the lower left corner of the rectangle, is red; Rigel, in the upper right, is blue.

Stars differ in color because their temperatures differ. Betelgeuse is relatively cool, having a surface temperature of 5,000 degrees Fahrenheit. Rigel is much hotter, therefore bluer. The sun, a yellow star, is between the two. Both stars are giant suns. Betelgeuse is 250,000,000 miles in diameter and actually a thousand times brighter than the sun. Rigel is still more luminous. If it were as close as the sun it would outshine it 14,000 times.

Through the telescope the Orion region is seen to be a maze of nebulae, both bright and dark—mysterious masses of gas and dust out of which, many believe, worlds are built.

The Great Nebula in Orion is marked by the middle star of the three in his sword. Even without the telescope this star appears fuzzy.

The V-shaped head of the Bull known as the Hyades, is a fine example of a moving cluster. For some reason these stars flock together. They are moving through the universe undisturbed by the stars they pass.

About 800,000 years ago the Hyades cluster was 76 light years distant from us. Now it is twice as far. In 65 million years it will have receded so far that it will no longer be visible without a telescope.

Falling in love should be done intelligently, says a New York scientist. Same thing, we suppose, applies to falling out of a cherry tree or an airplane.

Is Senator Now

Here's Milton Gaston, who'll do his pitching assignments for Washington next season. He was traded by the St. Louis Browns a few days ago for Outfielder Earl McNeely and Pitcher Dick Coffman.

ATTEMPTS TO BUY IMMUNITY ARE IN VAIN

LAKEVIEW, Ore., Nov. 3 (AP)—"We are small folk in a small town. Let us live and let live." For four months District Attorney Charles H. Combes has received the above proverb accompanied by sums varying from $25 to $250. The letters was anonymous. The letters were turned over to Sheriff Friday.

A carefully laid trap last night resulted in the arrest of Jesse C. Turner, reputed gambler, who for the last four months has been a resident of Lakeview. He is held on the charge of attempting bribery.

According to the district attorney's office, Turner believed that Combes knew that identity of the donor. He thought that he was "on the inside track", and referred to himself as the "big boss."

On the strength of his brag that he was getting "protection", Turner barred others of his profession from coming to Lakeview, Combes said.

If you worry you can always find people to help you—to worry.
