EASTERN GAMES LOOK PROMISING

Ohio State to Invade Princeton—Harvard to Play Pennsylvania

NEW YORK, Nov. 4 (AP)—Ohio State's invasion of Princeton and Harvard's visit to Philadelphia to play Pennsylvania are the high lights of tomorrow's eastern football card.

The game in Philadelphia will renew ancient rivalry after a lapse of 22 years, Penn taking Princeton's place on Harvard's schedule.

Coach Roper's squad has won every game but its opponents have not been outstanding.

Yale Confident

Yale expects no trouble from Maryland which promises to furnish the bulldogs with "a warming up" encounter in advance of the Princeton battle a week hence which will go down as a so-called eastern championship affair. Dartmouth is conceded an edge over Brown on the basis of Brown's poor record.

Ken Strong, of New York, university is likely to figure in a great kicking duel against Carnegie Tech.

Outstanding in the metropolitan district will be the annual combat between Holycross and Fordham.

Several new plays will be worked out by Columbia against John Hopkins.

Intensive training to cope against an aerial attack has been stressed at Syracuse in preparing for the tilt with Ohio Wesleyan. While Cornell races St. Bonaventure, a minor opponent, Dobie figures on trying out some new formations to be used against Dartmouth the following Saturday.

Army and Navy Favored

The Army and Navy look for easy victories. The Cadets rocked Franklin and Marshal 55 to 0 last season while the middies tripped West Virginia Wesleyan 53 to 7. Washington and Jefferson's sweep on Pittsburg shapes out as an important mixup as both teams are among the selected undefeated of the year. A close struggle is predicted between Penn State and George Washington.

COW EATS NAILS

OREGON CITY, Ore., Nov. 4.—A cow owned by Mrs. Gust Dahrens was feeling poorly. A veterinarian found the trouble was a hardware diet. An operation revealed nails and a key to the barn. The bovine is recovering.

JURY DISAGREES

OREGON CITY, Ore., Nov. 4. (AP)—The jury trying Ed Pyle, Portland man, charged with manslaughter, disagreed last night.

Pyle was alleged to have driven an auto while drunk, causing the death of Donald DeVoe of Gresham.

Two Conference Games on Pacific Coast Tomorrow

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 4 (AP)—Four elevens of the Pacific coast conference meet tomorrow inbattles for league standings while another great conference team, Idaho clashes with the strong St. Mary's team in San Francisco. The Stanford university squad, as yet undefeated in conference clashes, meets the undefeated Washington Huskies at Seattle, while the California Bears enbounter the week Montana Grizzlies at Berkeley in a game that the Blue and Gold gridders should easily capture.

INVESTIGATE TRAIN RATES

SALEM, Ore., Nov. 4. (AP)—Alleged excessive passenger rates on the Cascade route of the Southern Pacific between Eugene and Calor, Klamath county, will be investigated by the public service commission, according to an order issued today. The rate is said to be 4.8 cents a mile, while on the main line the rate is only 3.6 cents. Informal complaints reaching the commission led to the order to investigate.

SALEM GREETS GENERAL

SALEM, Ore., Nov. 4. (AP)—When Major General James G. Harbord, who was chief of staff to General Pershing in France, passes through Salem at 1:53 this afternoon en route to Portland he will be met at the train by a delegation of state officials and Salem citizens. In the committee will be Governor Patterson, Secretary of State Sam A. Koser, State Treasurer T. B. Kay, Mayor T. A. Livesly and Dan J. Fry, president of the First National bank.

General Harbord is a cousin of Mrs. Fry.

Helps Trojans

CHAMP FAILS TO SHOW UP FOR BATTLE

sibility of making a refund to the thousands of general admission spectators who were given neither rain checks nor seat stubs with which to back their claims. Reserved seat spectators had paid from $3.30 to $11 to witness the fight that never was to be while general admission ducats sold at $2.20.

Commission Meets Today

The commission was to meet today to pass upon Dundee's suspension and take action on Donald's case.

The promoter blaming "enemies" for his dilemma, promised to "tear the lid off boxing conditions." He said that he had enough money to cover Dundee's claims and the bout could have gone through but for an "eleventh hour hunch on the part of Max Waxman and Dundee that the champion would lose his title."

While Waxman stood adamant on his declaration that Dundee would not enter the ring against Hudkins unless he received the $60,000 guarantee, it was revealed by the athletic commission through Seth W. P. Strelinger, one of its members, that the only contract on file with that body was one which called only for a percentage for the champion. This official contract, Strelinger said, called for Dundee to defend his crown for 37½ per cent of the $54,000 gate. A commission ruling prevents a boxer from receiving officially anything other than a percentage.

Calls Contest a Blind

"That commission contract is a blind, and you ought to know of many other such contracts," Waxman retorted to the commissioners citing of the percentage contract. "Donald told me that the gate would amply take care of my guarantee. When it fell short and when two attachments tied up $8,500 of the $54,000 in evidence, I knew there was no chance for $60,000, let alone any chance for the $75,000 pledged us in case Dundee lost his title. I am sorry that we had to do as we did but these promoters should learn that both ends of a bargain must be fulfilled."

Saw Two Prelims

Everything went wrong from the start, Eddie Mahoney, Fresno welterweight climbed into the ring at 8:20 p. m. when the evening's ristic entertainment was scheduled to start, but his opponent, Vance Dundee, brother of the champion, did not appear. An hour later Jackie Fields, Los Angeles welterweight and Joey Silver, of San Francisco, parted the ropes in the first preliminary. Fields won the decision in a ten-round bout.

Then the tardy Vance Dundee showed up and he made short work of Mahoney knocking him out in the second round of their scheduled ten-round go.

The two bouts furnished the only entertainment for the booing fans.

ASTORIA, Ore., Nov. 4 (AP)—Dr. August Kinney, physician and surgeon, has been missing from his home here since Sunday, and fears are felt that he may have fallen into the harbor. Diligent search in Astoria has failed to reveal any evidence of the missing doctor.
