GRANGE HALL PERSONALS

GRANGE HALL (Special)—Monday of last week Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Fishman and two sons, Kenneth and Roy, drove to Wallowa where they visited with Mr. Fishman's mother, Mrs. N. S. Fishman, and with Mrs. Fishman's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Willett. They returned home the next day.

Mr. and Mrs. Leamer Olson spent Christmas with his brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Larson, of La Grande.

William Showwood, who underwent a hernia operation at the Hot Lake sanatorium Saturday morning, is getting along nicely.

Mildred Kiddle went to Portland Saturday with a curling of hogs. Lewis Peck, the Watkins agent of Cove, was a business caller here Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Robertson and two daughters, Lorraine and Lois, attended the watch party given by the Odd Fellows at their home in La Grande Saturday night.

A new radio has been recently installed in the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Hughes.

Just South left Saturday morning for his home in Marshfield. Mr. Smith spent the holidays with his mother, Mrs. Dorothy Smith, in La Grande and Thursday afternoon they returned to the W. J.

Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Robertson and two daughters, Lorraine and Lois, attended the watch party given by the Odd Fellows at their home in La Grande Saturday night.

A new radio has been recently installed in the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Hughes.

Just South left Saturday morning for his home in Marshfield. Mr. Smith spent the holidays with his mother, Mrs. Dorothy Smith, in La Grande and Thursday afternoon they returned to the W. J.

Hughes farm where they spent the afternoon.

The Souths have many friends in the Blue Mountain grange.

Kenneth Fishman, who is in his senior year at the Oregon State college, left Sunday night for Corvallis after spending the holidays with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Fishman.

Mrs. Lynn Hill and son, Fredrick, came from Plain Thursday and stayed all night with her mother, Mrs. O. D. Huffman. Mrs. Hill returned home Friday morning but Fredrick stayed till Sunday.

The road leading into this district from Cove avenue in La Grande and the east end of the avenue, too, is reported to be in a rather bad condition. The snow-drifts were so bad that travel was almost impossible Saturday night and Sunday. Drivers of two or three cars had the courage to "duck" the miniature mountains Monday to make their way through. They finally did.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Mollenburg, and family attended the home-coming meeting at the Christian church in La Grande New Year's day.

After spending the holidays at Union with her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Knight, Juanita Spencer returned to her home here Saturday morning. During her visit she had the pleasure of attending the mothers' and daughters' banquet held at the Union hotel Tuesday night, Dec. 27, and the reception given by the Odd Fellows at Hot Lake the night before.

On New Year's day Mr. and Mrs. DeLong and family were dinner guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Hughes.

DIES IN EAST
DODGE CITY, Kans., Jan. 3 (AP)—W. W. Parks was found dead at the wheel of his motor truck on a road east of here last night. Ingers in his pockets indicated he lived either in Pendleton, Ore., or Umatilla, Ore. Also showed he had a son, Theodore Parks, Pendleton, Ore., and a daughter, Mrs. C. R. Graham, Death was believed to have been caused by heart disease. It was believed by was on his way to St. Louis.

Mrs. Burton Advises Women on Motherhood and Companionship

"For several years I was denied the blessing of motherhood," writes Mrs. Margaret Burton of Kansas City. "I was terribly nervous and subject to periods of terrible jealousy and melancholia. Now I am the proud mother of a beautiful little daughter and a true companion and inspiration to my husband. I believe hundreds of other women would like to know the secret of my happiness, and I will gladly reveal it to any married woman who will write me." Mrs. Burton offers her advice entirely without charge. She has nothing to sell. Letters should be addressed to Mrs. Margaret Burton, 2685 Massachusetts, Kansas City, Mo. Correspondence will be strictly confidential. —Adv.

LITTLE TIME SAVERS
A girl can save four minutes and one second every morning by having a boyish, one and a half minutes by squeezing out the tooth paste the night before, two minutes and thirteen seconds by brushing her teeth on the way down stairs, one minute by leaving her carter's rolled up in her stockings, two minutes by wearing pumps three minutes by wearing one-piece dresses, sixteen seconds by not untying the knot the night before, three minutes and five seconds by pinning her collar on the way downstairs, three minutes and five seconds by squeezing her orange into a glass and drinking it, seven minutes by "making up" her face while eating toast, forty-five seconds by brushing the crumbs off on the way downtown. All of which gives her twenty-four minutes and seventeen seconds which she can spend throughout the day powdering her nose in front of the mirrors.

AT THE THEATERS

Vera Reynolds, Julia Faye in "Corporal Kate"

They practiced for weeks and the more they practiced the worse they got! Vera Reynolds, star of "Corporal Kate" a new Paul Sloane production, showing at the Colonial theater today and Wednesday and Julia Faye, rehearsed the "sister act"; they execute as entertainers in France in the Zelds Sears photoplay for several weeks. Finally, Director Sloane pronounced them "sufficiently bad," and called them to do their dance in a huge cartoon set.

John Gilbert Is Reporter in "Man, Woman, Sin"

John Gilbert has given the screen a swashbuckling hero like "The Deluge," poetic heroes like "The Deluge," and other types of roles ranging from a Yankee doughboy in "The Big Parade" to a modern buccannier in "Twelve Miles Out." Now comes this same John Gilbert in the role of a man the public doesn't know very well, but who knows the public—the modern newspaper reporter.

Of course, there is a delightful love story and the action is packed with drama, love, laughs and appeal. Julia Faye and Janet Coleman are two of the three "buddies" and both add materially in making the story strictly one hundred per cent screen entertainment.

Buster Keaton At Arcade in "College"

Splendid comedy, coupled with spectacular moments which would do credit to the biggest dramatic productions, give Buster Keaton a picture that delighted and amused audiences at the Arcade theater yesterday. When it opened a three-day engagement.

"College" is the title of Keaton's latest United Artists production, and in addition to being a brand new idea in a new fun, the picture is a comedy of the highest order. The troupe faces star's career, Crispian with action from start to finish "college" presents an imposing cast of professional actors and actresses as well as scores of famous athletes, many of them American and Olympic champions, who assist Buster in picturing the lighter side of university life.

Keaton has a real story in "College," a story which abounds in human interest. The picture opens with Buster playing a typical small-town high school graduate, except for his diploma. He is a gluttonous, fat, the son of an over-indulgent mother who has reared him to be a bookworm. Provincial professors have convinced the youth that brains are mightier than brawn, and in his graduation address he denounces athletics.

But when he enters college, his sweetheart tells him he'll have to become an athlete or else will never tolerate him. So Buster buys all the trappings and offers himself as a sacrifice on the altar of strenuous sport—with amazing results. He falls in baseball and track, but finally, through a twist of fate, blunders into a job as coxswain of the varsity crew and impresses everybody, even himself, by making row.

During the unfolding of the screen comedy many famous athletes are seen in action. They include: Bud Houser, Lee Barnes, Morton Kent, Sam Crawford, Charles Borah and scores of others who have won fame in intercollegiate sport, in professional baseball and at the Olympic games. Dainty Ann Cornwall appears to advantage as Keaton's sweetheart, and other members of the supporting cast who acquit themselves creditably include Grant Withers, Harold Goodwin, Florence Turner, Sita Edwards, Buddy Mason, James Mack and Flora Bramley.

The direction by James W. Horne is excellent, and the photography, credited to the Jennings and Bert Haines is well up to the high United Artists standard.

Monte Bell, himself a former newspaperman in Washington, directed the picture from his own story, and a notable cast appears, including Jeanne Eagels, famous stage star of "Rain," in the role of the society editor.

Gilbert, in a modern role, is just as romantic as in a role of times gone by, and the modern settings only make the romance more appealing, while Miss Eagels is a very beautiful sweetheart for the young reporter of the story. Miss Eagels and Gladys Brockwell, playing the mother role, stage some tense dramatic scenes with rare artistry, and the great courtroom scene is a masterpiece of dramatic construction.

Marc McDermott plays the newspaper publisher with a balanced artistry, while Charles K. French as the city editor, Cosmo Kyrie Bellon and Hayden Stevenson as reporters and little Philip Anderson as the hero in his youth are adequately cast. The staging is gorgeous and the scenes actually filmed in Washington are more than interesting.

Why is a tiger striped?
It is striped because it makes it better for circus owners. If a tiger salutes from a circus, it is easier to find him than if he didn't have no stripes. He will not go far without some body seeing that he ain't no horse or no dog, or about his stripes and they call up the circus and ask if they have lost a tiger.
