Experiences of Fifty Years Ago—By M. L. Carter. "It got to be a common thing for emigrants camping around Back Creek to lose their horses. After the emigrant had put in a good part of the next day searching, with no results, a man would happen along and offer to find them for a certain amount of cash. The emigrant, tired and discouraged, would agree to the demand and the horses would be delivered. Instances were reported where the emigrant concluded it was too late to move on that day, would tug his horse loose and wait for another day, only to pay for the return of the horses again. It was soon evident that a horse thief was doing something in the vicinity, and some of the men got Frank Reno to find out who they were. In order to do this, Reno joined the gang and stayed with them as long as he had all the information he wanted. Securing proper papers and authority, he proceeded to arrest the ring leader, a well-dressed man of leisure, who had never been suspected. The arrest took place in the fall of 1878, and Frank Reno, with his partner, stayed all night with me at Payne's ferry on their way to Silver City.

Along Snake river two miles below Payne's ferry, was 'The Thousand Springs Farm'. They came out of the late water and made a small cove of water that separated an island in the river from the mainland. This island had been taken up and vacated by a number of persons in previous years, but in 1878 it was obtained by Ed Taylor, who at that time was partner in Payne's ferry. Taylor cleared the land of about 25 acres of brush. It is now known far and wide as the 'Thousand Springs Farm' and is owned by Annie W. Miller, who raises fine stock and has exhibited and won prizes with her Hampshire sheep and Guernsey cattle from Chicago to Portland."

Booth Tarkington says the masculine shirt will disappear within 50 years. Either he is a whale of an optimist or has found a good laundry.

COUNTY CLUB WORK ENTHUSIASM SHOWN OVER THE VALLEY

Club work in Union county promises to be done on a larger scale than ever before. The number in which the work has started, is an indication. While the club year actually starts in the fall, and some clubs commence their work then and continue it during the school year, other clubs because of the nature of their work cannot conveniently begin operations until early spring. For that reason the exact number of clubs, which are carried on varied projects is never determined until the spring of the year.

However, of the clubs which organize and begin their work in the fall, 13 are very active, according to reports received in the office of County Superintendent E. A. Sayre, and it is true that many reports have not been received. It is safe to say that the number actually operating now is just about as large as the list of those having reports sent in.
