With Al Smith absent we're sure the Jackson Day dinner in Washington will be a total flop.

A military man, like a politician, should never see anything wrong except on the other side.

Time used to go very slowly in jail, but nowadays an experienced criminal can serve 29 years in three.

If California criminal laws are inadequate for the Hickman case, why not an international change of venue and let the English courts show us how easily it's done? We wish such a thing were possible.

While taking note of modern progress, don't overlook the tomato. That humble vegetable, or fruit, or whatever it is, has already gained much in size, flavor and all-round excellence since it changed from a merely ornamental "love apple" into something good to eat.

Tomato seeds have been seedling for years. They are not very objectionable, yet a tomato is better without them. How remarkable still is the fact that the new tomato is not an annual. Its producer says he has a one five years old and 17 1/2 feet high.

Four pounds. We seem destined to have tomato seeds, bearing not only year after year, but all the year round.

ROLLING DOWN TO WACO

The Cathedral Latin school—a high school for boys—in Cleveland, Ohio, had a winning football team this year. Team after team came up against it and it kept beating them and beating them.

But meanwhile down in Waco, Texas, another team was winning and winning. No team in the state that came up against it scored more than six points.

Resting on its laurels, strenuous, too strenuous, like many another hero, Latin undertook the long train journey to a different climate. It broke training, not with strong drink but with goodies galore at a dinner given by friends in St. Louis who should have postponed their party till the return trip.

And it went out on the Waco and returned with a score of 44 to 12 in Waco's favor. It had the satisfaction of knowing that it made more points than any other opponent of Waco this year, but it came back with a tragic loss.

Did its supporters falter? Not they! They welcomed it with a banquet and a parade and a bestowal of the state championship trophy and congratulations on doing as well as it did. Which was pretty good sportsmanship for the school as a whole.

It wasn't a bad thing all around. Cleveland now knows there is such a place as Waco. Waco knows a little more about Cleveland than its name. Days from the North have made acquaintance with boys of the South. One more little fleck has been taken in the great game of unifying the nation. We only hope the boys can now get down to the game of studying.
