AT THE THEATERS

"Chinese Parrot" Opening At Star Sunday

A deft and skillful combination of melodrama, pathos and comedy told in scenes both colorful and thrilling make "The Chinese Parrot", the Universal-Jewel which will be the attraction Sunday Monday and Tuesday at the Star theater, one of the most entertaining photoplays of the season.

Willie Marian Nixon and Edmund Burns are billed as the featured players the cast in reality is all-star and every member deserves equal credit for the success of the picture. The work of Hebert Bosworth, who plays a dual role, and K. Sojin as the Chinese detective are especially good.

"The Chinese Parrot" was adapted from Earl Derr Biggar's mystery novel of the same name which first appeared serially in the "Saturday Evening Post" and is now in book form. The action takes place in Honolulu, the Mojave desert and San Francisco's Chinatown and is replete with mystery from beginning to end.

Paul Leni recently brought to this country from Germany by Universal is given credit for the direction and in all truth it may be said that he is the greatest foreign director in the field today. His artistic touches—he is a former artist and art director, we are told—are discernable throughout the picture and he shows a few new camera angles hitherto unthought of.

The story tells of a man, jilted in his youth, who amasses a great fortune in order to get revenge on the girl to have it turn to ashes in his mouth when the opportunity arrives. It is distinctively entertaining and should please everyone.

"Fighting Fathers", Hal Roach's latest M-G-M comedy starring Max Davidson, which is the lighter portion of the entertainment at the Star theater Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, is a hilarious bit of screen fun dealing with the enmity of two fathers and the incidental love affair of their rebellious children.

May McAvoy Star In Comedy-Drama

Reno, with the razzle-dazzle of Reno, with the razzle-dazzle of racing cars, spinning wheels of chance, love, hate, plot and counterplot, romance, fun, fancy—this is the stuff out of which Ralph Graves built his tory—"A Reno Divorce." It was a keen understanding of life, not only life of the Twentieth Century, that guided Ralph Graves when he directed the production and it was a number of personal qualities, that made it possible for him to so effectively play the romantic lead in support of twinkling May McAvoy, until recently queen of the Tree laheers, but now a Warner Bros. star.

May McAvoy, in "A Reno Divorce," plays the part of a reckless society girl whose hurtling roadster capsizes a down-and-out young artist. May gets him back to her home, nurses him well and then, when Cupid is having the time of his life—enter the Franes, newly divorced—to undermine all that he has done.

"A Reno Divorce" is ultra-modern swift and exciting, with the proper dash of humor and it is very true to life. In the cast are Hedda Hopper, Robert Ober, Wm. Demarest, Anders Randolf and Edwards Davis.

May McAvoy in "A Reno Divorce" a Warner Bros. production will be shown at the Arcade theater Sunday only.

Also see why Henry woke up to the fact that he had a wife—and how! "Their Second Honeymoon," the latest Henry and Polly Comedy, will keep you laughing, and it's on the program at the Arcade Sunday too.

Stage Players In "Pals in Paradise" Cast

Every member of the cast in "Pals in Paradise" a new Metropolitan production has won fame on the legitimate stage. Not one graduate from the "extra" ranks sparkles in the picture. The cast includes John Bowers, Marguerite De La Motte, May Robson, Randolph Schildkraut and Alan Brooks in the featured characterizations and Bruce Gordon and Ernie Adams in supporting roles.

Bowers played leading male roles for William Brady for years on the New York stage before entering the picture field.

Miss De La Motte was a dancer when Douglas Fairbanks saw screen possibilities in her and made her his leading woman.

Rudolph Schildkraut comes from the European stage, where he was a reigning favorite for years. He also did considerable work in this country during the past few years.

May Robson needs no introduction to theatergoers. She is one of the veteran actresses of the legitimate, having spent forty-three years behind the footlights. Probably the characterization by which she is best known is that of "Aunt Mary" in "The Rejuvenation of Aunt Mary". She hurled to the call of the silent drama but recently and makes her first appearance before the camera in "Pals in Paradise."

To every patron of vaudeville, Alan Brooks' name is familiar. For years he was a headliner on the Keith-Albee Orpheum circuits with his skit, "Dollars and Sense." He is another recent convert to the cinema lure.

Bruce Gordon and Ernie Adams, both of whom have strong supporting roles in the picture, complete the list of former stage stars in the pictorial production of Peter B. Kyne's colorful novel based on a modern gold rush.

"Pals in Paradise," which will be on view at the Colonial theater next Sunday and Monday is one of Kyne's greatest efforts. Dealing as it does with a modernized gold mining community, it treats an interesting subject in a brand new manner.

May Wear Skirts An Inch Below Knee in Spring

NEW YORK, Jan. [illegible] (AP) — Women of fashion will wear longer skirts next spring—fully one inch below the knee—if the modes displayed at the semi-annual style review of the garment retailers of America are followed.

There are new colors for spring wear, independence blue, a light navy blue, water blue, a blue with a greenish tinge, and natural beige, a grayish tone of beige.

Evening models disclosed an even greater skirt length than the gowns for informal wear, having shorter lengths in front and the backs almost touching the floor.

The virtual disappearance of the silhouette was evident, most of the models being along straight lines. A return to femininity also was indicated with the introduction of tucks, profuse lace trimming and embroidery.

Sports toggery included a three-piece bathing suit in china blue, with short trunks, jumper and a very brief jacket.
