Mission Society Of Presbyterian Church In Meet

Members of the Missionary society of the First Presbyterian church enjoyed a program of unusual interest yesterday afternoon when the regular meeting of the society was held in the community room of the church.

Mrs. Phil Thompson, president of the society, conducted the meeting and Mrs. J. George Wink led in the devotional, having as her subject "Christ's Charge to Peter."

The program subject for the afternoon was "The American Indian," and Mrs. William Miller was in charge.

The rooms were decorated with Indian robes and pillows and in one corner of the room was an Indian teepee with a small campfire at the front, which represented the "new home."

After dinner the evening was spent at "500," high score going to Mr. and Mrs. Jacobs and the consolation prize to Mr. and Mrs. and White.

Mrs. Floyd S. Sherwood sang two Indian songs, "Home on the Range" and "By the Waters of Minnetonka," accompanied by Mrs. Harley H. Richardson at the piano.

Following the program Mrs. E. P. Mossman read a memorial to the late Mrs. J. W. Goss, who was president of the North Pacific board of missions in the Presbyterian church, which comprises the states of Idaho, Washington and Oregon for many years.

Mrs. Goss visited La Grande on many occasions and is known to women throughout the three states. She was a personal friend of Mrs. Mossman and visited at her home here several times.

She passed away last November, but up until that time was active in the missionary work of the church. The memorial to her which was read by Mrs. Mossman was written by her son, Walter A. Goss.

Following the program a social hour was enjoyed when the hostess committee, headed by Mrs. W. P. Mohr, served refreshments.

Other members of the committee were Mrs. William Condit, Mrs. E. G. Kirby and Mrs. Iva Winkler.

Following the program, which begins at about 2:30 o'clock, the regular business session of the club will be held.

MENUS

By Sister Mary BREAKFAST—Stewed prunes, cereal, cream, eggs poached in milk on graham toast, milk, coffee.

LUNCHEON—Creamed celery and oysters on toast, baked potatoes, creamed pears, sugar cookies, milk, tea.

DINNER—Lamb stew, baked squash, grapefruit and cabbage salad, everyday steamed pudding, milk, coffee.

Hot puddings are just popular during the cold weather and when we find one as economical and delicious as the everyday pudding served in the dinner suggested it's well worth keeping as a "stock" dessert.

Everyday Steamed Pudding Four tablespoons lard, 1/2 cup molasses, 1/2 cup milk, 1 cup white flour, 2 cup graham flour, 1/2 teaspoon soda, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon, 1/2 teaspoon each clove, allspice and nutmeg, 1 cup stoned and chopped dates.

Butter can be used for shortening if preferred and the salt reduced to 1/4 teaspoon. However, in a recipe using spices and molasses, fresh sweet lard is quite as good and much cheaper.

Sifted shortening and add molasses and milk. Beat well and add graham flour. Mix thoroughly and add flour, soda, salt and spices mixed and sifted. Add dates and mix thoroughly. Turn into an oiled mold, cover and steam for two and one-half hours. Serve with lemon sauce, whipped cream or hard sauce. Can be reheated and used for a second meal if all is not needed the first time.

Bridge Pointers

By Milton C. Work

This is the eighth Saturday Auction Bridge article written to meet the demands of the novice. The series is prepared for those totally unfamiliar with the game of Bridge and is offered with the idea that it will enable them to acquire quickly and easily all that is necessary for them to know concerning the fundamentals of the game.

When the first card is led by the adversary on the left of the Declarer, the Dummy's hand is spread face up on the table and it becomes the duty of the Declarer to play from Dummy by pulling a card from it and placing it in the middle of the table. The Dummy has nothing to say about this play or about any lead or play that the Declarer may make from the Dummy hand. Dummy has no right to suggest any lead or play from his hand and, if he do, the adversary has the option of demanding that the Declarer make such lead or play, or that he refrain from doing so.

The Declarer, when playing from the Dummy, must follow suit if the Dummy have a card of the suit that is led; and this rule applies to all plays by all players. The leader to any trick may lead any card he has in his hand; but each of the other three players—when playing to that trick—must play a card of the suit led if he have one. If he have not a card of the suit led, he may play any card he chooses; and, if there be a trump, can trump the card or cards of the trick or not as he sees fit.

The play goes around in turn from left to right ("clockwise"); the player who wins a trick leads to the next. When a player does not follow suit, he (in the words of laws) refuses; and which he does not follow suit with a card of the suit led in his hand, he renounces. That, however, is not necessarily a revoke because a player is given time in which to correct a renounce and save himself from a revoke.

Of course Dummy should not renounce because there are three players with eyes open to see and correct an error of that sort; but it may happen to any of the others and, in order to give a player who renounces the opportunity to correct his error and save himself the severe penalty imposed upon a revoke.

voker, either adversary of the Declarer is allowed to ask his partner, and the Dummy—provided he has not intentionally looked at an unplayed card of any player—has the right to ask a Declarer whether he has any card in his hand of the suit that he is refusing. The restriction which prevents a Dummy from asking the question which may save his partner (the Declarer) from a revoke is imposed because the "rubbering" Dummy who looks over the cards of one or both adversaries is a nuisance; and the "wandering" Dummy who walks around the table and watches his partner play is worse. In either event he may obtain information that induce him to ask the question when, without it, he might neglect to do so. When a Dummy who has intentionally seen a card held by Declarer or either adversary, asks Declarer whether he has any of a suit he is refusing, Declarer is not allowed to change his play if he have a card of the suit, and is liable for any revoke resulting therefrom.

There are many common expressions used in asking this important question. Some players merely say "None partner?" or "No more partner?"; others are more specific, saying "No more Hearts partner?" or "No Clubs partner?" The Laws do not specify the exact words to be used. (Next Saturday, the revoke and its penalties will be described.) (Copyright, John F. Dille Co.)

CUPID TAKES IT EASY NEW YORK—Cupid is superstitious. The number of persons applying for marriage licenses on Friday the 13th was the lowest on record for one day—42, and only 13 couples were married.

The people who tell the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth, evidently don't care whether they have any friends or not.

There isn't any use trying to make both ends meet. They wouldn't recognize each other any more if they did.
