GREETINGS—The Lord bless thee, and keep thee; The Lord make his face shine upon thee, and be gracious unto thee; The Lord turn his face from thee, and thou shalt be forsaken; and when thou shalt pray, he will not hear thee.

Lindbergh may have more trouble on the way home, being all weighed down with medals.

If America attains to a monopoly on musical composition, it will greatly simplify the work of radio announcers, if nothing more.

The Anti-Saloon League is going to put on a campaign of education, but unfortunately there are a lot of citizens who think they know all there is to be known about alcohol.

Miss Ruth Nichols, the woman who piloted the plane that made the first non-stop flight from New York to Miami, may know a lot about flying, but she doesn't seem to know the first thing about grabbing off fame and notoriety. When asked about women flying over the Atlantic, she replied, "That is in the far future." And she added, "I should like to see aviation taken out of the curiosity class." She further explained that she believed women's greatest immediate contribution to aviation would be made by more women taking "safe and sane" flights, so as to build up public confidence in traveling by air. Mrs. Lindbergh's recent trip to Mexico City is an outstanding example of such service to the cause. Miss Nichols' notions will not be popular with the spectacular women fliers, but they are sound and are quite likely to prove genuinely useful.

THRIFTY SPENDING

The kind of thrift that has come to be associated with Benjamin Franklin's name and has been exalted for special homage on January 17, his birthday anniversary, is not really the sort of thrift he practised. That shrewd Yankee did not prosper by living up to his own advice, "A penny saved is a penny earned." He indulged in a good many financial plunges. His "thrift" consisted chiefly in a certain canny wisdom which made him plunge more often in sound ventures than unsound ones.

It is perhaps unfortunate that his many maxims on this subject have been interpreted so narrowly for many years. But there is a change in sight. Thrift as wise spending is the theory now taught and the practice now advocated.

Owen D. Young, of Dawes Plan fame, has expressed the new viewpoint—which probably was also Franklin's viewpoint—in words well worth studying.

"The old notion that saving is always an economic virtue and that spending is always an economic crime has, at least, been questioned in our day. If one spends what he should prudently save, that certainly is to be deplored. But if one saves what he should prudently spend, that is not necessarily to be commended. A wise balance between the two, saving enough to keep a plant account adequate to our needs, and spending enough to keep the plant busy in our service, is the desired end.

This is true whether "the plant" be a commercial or industrial organization or whether it be a family or an individual seeking to make thriftiest use of a given income.

Klan Is Attacked In Indiana Courts

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Jan. 16. (AP)—The Marion county circuit court today was asked by Attorney General Gilliom to dissolve the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan corporation to force some of its members, accused both state and national, relative to its finances, social membership, distribution of funds, political activities and national organization.

The attorney general asked 119 questions which he petitioned the court to compel Imperial Wizard Hiram W. Evans, of Atlanta, and Joe M. Harrington, of Evansville, Ind., grand dragons of Indiana, to answer. Gilliom recently filed suit to expunge the Klan from operating in the state and asking that a receiver be appointed. He charged the organization had failed to pay taxes and was operating illegally.

Hindu May Not Wed American Woman

MADRAS, India, Jan. 16. (AP)—A member of the staff of the former maharajah of India announced today that the marriage of the Hindu ruler to Miss Nancy Ann Miller of Seattle, Wash., might not take place.

College Girl, 18, Missing; Police Extend Search

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., Jan. 15. (AP)—Miss Frances St. John Smith, 18-year-old Smith college freshman and daughter of a wealthy New York broker, was sought today by every agency at the command of the college and state and local police authorities.

Since she dropped out of sight Friday morning while clad in a fur trimmed terra-cotta coat, an orange jersey dress and tan shoes, not a single clue rewarded the persistent efforts of several hundred persons.

Mr. Smith offered $1,000 reward for information leading to the finding of the girl.

The girl's absence was discovered Saturday afternoon by a class mate who called at her room at Dewey Hall.

A search of an area of seven square miles in the vicinity of the college revealed no trace of the girl. Paradise Pond on the campus was drained without result.

Miss Smith's father expressed fear that she met with an accident while walking in the woods near the college. She had suffered, he said, from a dislocated knee and a fall would make her helpless.

College officials thought the girl might have been despondent because she was low in her studies although she had improved her standing since the Christmas vacation.

Her father sought the likelihood that a love affair was the basis of his daughter's disappearance.
