CHILDREN NOT SIMPLY SMALL ADULTS

Cleveland, Ohio
By Samuel Walter Kelley, M. D.,
Member Gorgas Memorial

"You cannot clothe a boy becomingly in a suit of his father's merely by shortening the sleeves and the trousers legs."

These are the words of the late Dr. Alfred C. Cotton, by which he illustrated that a doctor cannot treat a child properly merely by cutting down adult doses.

For Dr. Cotton knew that there are numerous peculiarities not only in the child's anatomy and physiology, but equally great differences in his reactions to disease, to injury, and to medicines, and that these conditions and reactions, so different from those of the adult must be recognized and treated accordingly.

The effect of heredity and prenatal care come to light in the infant. It may have disease before it is born; and, normal or abnormal, it must at once establish its own breathing, its own separate circulation and nutrition, and regulate its own body-temperature. Then it must meet the attacks of numerous varieties of harmful germs and parasites. Measles, diphtheria, pneumonia, meningitis, whooping-cough, scarlet fever, and infantile paralysis are so familiar as hardly to need mentioning, but they are serious enemies. Besides, there are small-pox, tuberculosis, and a host of others. Diseases and disorders of nutrition are a numerous class.

Among the surgical conditions are congenital dislocations of joints, most often of the hip, hare-lip and cleft palate, encephalocele and meningocele, in which the brain or its membranes project through a gap in the skull, a similar condition of the spinal column and spinal cord known as spina-bifica, analagous gaps in the abdomen or chest, club-foot, certain forms of ruptures, malformations of the rectum and of the genital organs, and a long list more, besides accidents incident to birth itself.

Dislocations, fractures, and separations of the jointsends in children present peculiarities all their own. Rickety deformities, hip-joint disease and certain other bone and joint diseases, and intussusception—telescoping of the intestines—practically belong to the surgery of infancy and childhood.

There has been done a vast amount of study upon the peculiarities of the surgical and medical conditions of early life, and there are surgeons and physicians who have spent long years in becoming learned and expert in these special lines. There is now no need to have a baby or a child treated as if he were merely a small adult. That will not succeed any better than putting his father's clothes on the boy will make a fit, even if you cut shorter the sleeves and trousers legs.

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

AIRMEN DISAPPOINTED

WASHINGTON—Bombs designed to kill men can sink a ship. The 5,000-ton obsolete steamship Manara was showered off Panama with 24-pound bombs in a theoretical effort to drive her men away from her anti-air craft guns. Down went the ship to the disappointment of army airmen approaching with 100 pound bombs to destroy her.

AT THE THEATERS

Gold Rush Is Depicted in "Pals In Paradise"

What heretofore has been taboo in western productions—what has been looked upon with a frown by screen directors and their associates and ordered off the set, is now welcome. The wrist watch, now fangled cigarette lighters, slick hair cuts for male members of the cast, silk stockings, the latest in hosiery and millinery and gowns for the feminine players, are thrice welcome.

This happens in the filming of Peter B. Kyne's story, "Pals in Paradise," which George B. Seitz directed for Metropolitan Pictures Corporation, and which will be presented at the Colonial theater for the last time today. The filming of this story shatters traditions in picture making for the reason that "Pals in Paradise" is an ultra modern story of the West—of the founding of a new gold camp.

And in the place of the lumbering prairie schooner, buckboard and buggy for convenience, the flivver, high priced cars of all makes and vintages as well as the "plane" are utilized.

In lieu of the first building to be erected on location—that of the general store, we see the gasoline filling station taking its place. There is not a mad scramble to procure fuel for the fire—but modern camp cooking stoves, fueled with gasoline, and instead of cutting the food from a large wooden chip, modern camping equipment comes into use.

Mr. Kyne has capitalized on the discovery of gold in new fields in California and in Canada, where modern methods and conveniences are conspicuous, and has written a story that is vibrant with drama and comedy. High heel shoes take the place of moccasins; hand embroidered 'kerchiefs imported from abroad, gowns that bespeak importation relegate the homespun of early days. Director Seitz went so far as to stage a real bargain day at the "New York Emporium" which is presided over by Rudolph Schildkraut and May Robson.

John Bowers, Marguerite De La Motte and Alan Brooks also have featured roles in this production which Albert Kenyon adapted for the screen under the supervision of Will M. Ritchey.

"Chinese Parrot" At Star Is Thrilling Film

"One of the greatest combinations of melodrama, pathos and comedy ever told in a screen version of any story," was the general comment of the public that witnessed the premier showing of "The Chinese Parrot" the Universal Jewel which opened at the Star theater here last night for a three day run.

"The Chinese Parrot" was adapted from the Earl Derr Biggers' story of the same name which was a weekly feature in a nationally known magazine and is now in book form. It scored a triumphant success as one of the country's leading fiction stories and with its first showing on the screen received equally as much praise.

Diminutive Marian Nixon and Edmund Burns carry the featured roles of the picture and to their inimitable characterizations should be given much credit for the success of the picture. The work of Robert Bosworth, who plays a dual role, and E. Sojin, one of the screen's most noted Chinese actors, and who portrays a like role as the Chinese detective, and exceptionally well done.

The action of the story takes place on the tropical shores of Honolulu, the Mojave desert and in San Francisco's Chinatown and contains one of the most bizarre mystery plots ever filmed. The Chinese, dives are exceptionally well done and the characterizations in the these scenes are perfect.

In his latest comedy "Fighting Fathers," Max Davidson, the Hal Roach star, is a master barber — master of all he shampoos. The fun is thick and fast—and so is the hair tonic. "Fighting Fathers" is now at the Star theater.

"Garden of Allah" Opens Run At Arcade Today

Never has the city of La Grande viewed a motion picture as enthralling and as beautiful as "The Garden of Allah," which opens a three day run this afternoon at the Arcade theater.

A pre-view supports the glowing praises of leading critics elsewhere than the picture is one of the most tense and gripping ever filmed. It seems certain to top the first ten pictures of the year.

It is not surprising therefore to find it credited to Rex Ingram, the great director who produced "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse," "Scaramouche", "Mare Nostrum" and other thundering dramas. He filmed it abroad for Metro-Goldwyn.

Enacting the principal roles in this new Ingram masterpiece at the Arcade are names, with few exceptions, wholly new to America.

Alice Terry plays the leading feminine role and she is more beautiful exquisite and divine than she has ever been before. A new side of her is shown in this picture—a melting humanity that will wind picturegoers around her aristocratic fingers.

Ivan Petrovitch, Miss Terry's new leading man, is an astonishingly handsome, athletic actor. He has the dark complexion of Miss Terry's former leading men—Valentino, Novarro and Moreno—but a stronger face than any of these. He is beyond question Rex Ingram's greatest discovery since Valentino.

Others in the brilliant cast are Marcel Vibert, leading supporting role, H. Humberston Wright, Nino Chaperette, Armand Dufrette, Ben Salour, Gerald Fielding, Michael Powell, Basil Hamborough and Claude Fledding.

This picture's central idea is the struggle of conscience against passion. It is the story of a Trappist monk who vowed never to marry. He runs away from an Algerian monastery and despite his vows, marries an English girl unacquainted with his past.

Three months of honeymooning on the Sahara desert are spoiled by pangs of conscience. A sandstorm nearly kills him and his bride and he promises God if she is spared he will repent and confess his past life. He does and she forgives him.

The picture was filmed on the precise locations in Africa which have been immortalized in Robert Hichen's famous desert romance from which Willis Goldbeck adapted this latest Rex Ingram production for Metro-Goldwyn.

In addition to the feature at the Arcade theater, there is "Dad's Choice," with Edward Everett Horton. This is a swift moving farce which gives Horton full sway for his inimitable comedy portrayal. As a gallant young lover who mistakes his future father-in-law for the gardener, Horton gets in some great morals.
