HEALTH

DIPHTHERIA

By George Joyce Hall, M. D., Sacramento, Calif.

Member George Memorial The five-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. O. U. Know, died last night after hours and hours of horrible agony. Johnny was a very fine little boy and the neighbors and their children are going to miss him very much. The attending physicians did all in their power but when they first saw Johnny it was already too late to save his life.

In looking into the cause of Johnny's sudden death there have been several pertinent facts disclosed. The doctors consider themselves blameless, although they frankly admit that if they had been called sooner the child probably would have lived. The death certificate gives the cause of death as diphtheria. And the physician stated that he literally looked to death. This is a horrible way to die, and it is particularly unfortunate that an innocent little child should be punished in this manner.

Johnny's mother and father have been frequently asked to bring him for toxin-antitoxin treatments, but Mr. O. U. Know said that was all "appreciation" and that the doctors were "meddling" too much today in other people's business. And Mrs. O. U. Know was told by Mrs. Jane Calamity that it made children's arms horribly sore to have toxin-antitoxin, and she didn't believe in it anyway. So in spite of the advice of the school nurse and the family physician, Johnny was not protected against the dread disease when his plagues were.

The loss of life each week from diphtheria is appalling. Many children are dying from diphtheria and it is my sincere belief that the careless, thoughtless parents who do not believe in inoculation or who put it off till tomorrow should have this matter brought so forcibly before them that they themselves will realize the danger in delay.

Toxin-antitoxin, given in three doses a week apart, will prevent the child from having diphtheria for life. But there is this one thing to be kept in mind—it does not have its full effect for from three to six months after. And so it is possible for a child to contract diphtheria even during the time while the toxin-antitoxin is being given. But you must prepare for the future and then you can at least feel safe from worry when some other child in the neighborhood is quarantined with a big glaring diphtheria sign on the front door.

ANTHOXIN given to those who have been exposed to diphtheria will prevent it for a short time. And when a child first becomes sick with diphtheria large doses of antitoxin will probably save that child from dying. But how much simpler it is to prevent it than to try to cure it after it has developed only your physician knows.

Let me urge all readers of the George Memorial health article to go at once to have your children immunized against diphtheria—it will pay.

When pupils in a New Jersey school voted for "their heroes," two of the boys named "Dad." There must have been a good show in town that night.

Once a girl gets the reputation of being vivacious no power on earth can shut her up.

ALL HONOR TO FEBRUARY

The shortest month of all the year is February. Yet there are days we hold most dear in February.

In February, It is a month of love, I'd say, is February; For there's St. Valentine's sweet day.

And then three men we love were born in February— Indeed, 'tis not a month a scorn, Not February!

There was always one good thing about Stirling Bull, he never sat down on the job.

A young lady was being interviewed. "Do you kiss?" the reporter asked. "You'd be surprised," she replied, "how much you can't kiss under your nose."

Didn't we have a lot of fun at those taffy-pulling parties in the good old days?

Wife of La Grande man—"You loved me more when we were only engaged."

La Grande man—"Well, to tell the truth, my dear, I never cared for married women."

Some women know they are pretty good shots and some divorce their husbands.

Have you heard the story of the man who asked the clerk for some ladies' silk stockings? "Very well, sir," she replied, "are they for your wife, or shall I show you something better?"

Dollars are to be smaller, but down payments will remain the same size.

Mrs. Newed (to her mother)— Jack is getting really terrible. Yesterday he refused me a new dress, and this morning he refused the same dress all over again.

A modern bride is one willing to begin married life with one skillet and one kettle. But she must have at least two each tables.

Little Fish Left In Lake Erie

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Feb. 6 (AP)—Lake Erie, once considered among the most heavily stocked fresh water lakes in the country, is fast being depleted of its fish, causing alarm to fishermen and marine scientists.

Experts from several universities and the Ohio fish and game commission, and the province of Ontario, Canada, will convene today to lay plans for a scientific investigation that may reveal the cause of constantly decreasing fish hauls.

CONVICT PASSES

SALEM, Ore., Feb. 6, (AP)—James Macomb, serving a life sentence in the state penitentiary for second degree murder died in the hospital ward Sunday afternoon. It was announced this morning. Pneumonia and dropsy was announced as the cause of death. Macomb was received at the prison from Baker county Feb. 28, 1915.

AT THE THEATERS

Monte Blue Scores Again At The Colonial

Monte Blue, star of "Bitter Apples," the Warner Brothers production now at the Colonial theater, gives a performance which will add laurels to his already great fame. He is cast as John Wynote, son of a defaulting bank president, who, dying, has left the fury of bankrupted depositors to be met by his boy. Heir to the bad name which his father left, and to the hatred of hundreds, especially that of Maria and Stefan Bianco (Myra Loy and Paul Ellis), children of a ruined creditor who has committed suicide.

Wynote, to escape from the distressing situation, after ordering his attorney to sell all and apply the proceeds dollar for dollar, decides to take a long sea voyage. The vindictive couple secretly take passage on the ship, Stefan as a steward, Maria as a foot-loose passenger. Her scheme is to make love to young Wynote, marry him, and then turn on the torture. This she does. Scarcely have the words of the ceremony aboard ship left the captain's lips when she turns on her husband with shrill vituperation.

Shipwreck follows—prate—furious fighting on Wynote's part for the woman he loves, and at last there is the understanding for which he has striven, and calm seas on which to pursue the belated honeymoon.

Miss Borden and Antonio Moreno At Arcade

Based on the widely-read story by Arthur Sommers Roche, "Come To My House," Fox Films' daring version of sophisticated society, will be shown at the Arcade theater today and Tuesday. Olive Borden has the stellar role in the production and Antonio Moreno plays opposite Miss Borden. Others in the excellent cast are Boris Lloyd, Herb Reed, Cornelius Keefe and Richard Maitland.

Alfred E. Green, who directed the picture, has caught all of the atmosphere of a modern smart set and under his direction Miss Borden has displayed a new angle to her work in a powerful dramatic portrayal of a girl who is torn between the love of two men.

In keeping with the locale of the story, the production is done on a lavish scale with gorgeous settings, beautiful gowns, lovely girls and scenic beauty. The exterior for the picture were taken at Catalina Island where an enormous set for a yacht club was built.

Miss Borden wears some of the very latest fashions in "Come To My House" and will show mildly what will be smart next season. Her gowns were designed by Kathleen Kay, noted motion picture modiste for Fox Films.

"The Battle of the Century," Hal Roach M-G-M comedy riot, co-starring Stan Laurel and Oliver Hardy, contains a scintillatingly funny burlesque of the recent Tunney-Dempsey fight. Neutral corners and everything. It is now showing at the Arcade theater in addition to the feature picture and also one of the well liked Collegian stories.

Jackie's Newest Role Is "Buttons"

Jackie Coogan—adventurer on the high seas! This is the latest role of the screen's most famous child—or perhaps one can't just call him a child any more—as he plays a "near grown up" role in his newest Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture, playing at the Star theater tonight for the last time.

Jackie is a page or bellboy on a great transatlantic liner in a remarkable combination of adventure, thrills, and a very human heart. Interest in the picture runs through it. Staged in a spectacular manner, it is perhaps the most pretentious offering Jackie has given the screen in some time.

And, more than that, it gives Jackie a chance to show his acting ability to the utmost.

As a boy on the threshold of a career in the British Merchant Marine, worshipping his ship and the captain with an adulation habit to describe, but always seen in the service, he has a truly remarkable role. The thrilling week, the rescue at sea, and other details of the play, blended with a deal of comedy, all surrounded a gripping heart-interest story that is the central theme of the big picture.

The cast is notable, including Lars Hanson, the Swedish actor, to describe, but always seen in the service, he has a truly remarkable role.
