Bridge Pointers

By Milton G. Work

This is the thirteenth Saturday Auction Bridge article written for the novice. Last week we considered the scoring of trick points; this week we will consider scores "above the line."

THE GAME OF AUCTION BRIDGE—Chapter 13

When the contract is No Trump, the four Aces are the honors. When the contract is a suit, the Ace, King, Queen, Jack and Ten are the honors; there being five suit honors and four No Trump honors. Honors are never counted for a side unless the two partners jointly hold three or more.

No Trump honors count as follows: 100 for four Aces in one hand, 40 for four Aces divided 2-2 or 3-1, between two partners, 20 for three Aces, either in one hand or divided between two partners.

Suit honors count as follows: 100 for five honors in one hand, 50 for five honors divided 4-1, 30 for four honors in one hand, 50 for five honors divided 3-2, 40 for four honors divided 3-1 or 2-2, 20 for three honors divided 2-1 or 3-0.

Honors are counted by those to whom they were dealt; it does not matter whether or not the holder of an honor wins the trick on which he plays it. As soon as the play of the hand is over, Declarer's trick score (if any) is entered below the line and the honor score of both sides (if any) is entered above the line.

In the score above the line also is entered the slam bonus (if any) of the side making it. A Grand Slam in the taking of all 13 tricks, a Small Slam is the taking of 12 tricks. It is a most unusual occurrence for the adversaries of the Declarer to take 12 or 13 tricks; but if they do, they are entitled to the slam bonus.

In addition to points for honors and slams, there are recorded above the line the following penalties and bonuses: When an undoubted contract is defeated, the adversaries of the Declarer score above the line 50 points for each trick by which the Declarer falls short of his contract—each under-trick (as it is called). Undertricks count 100 each for the adversaries when the contract has been doubled, 200 each when redoubled. If the contract has been doubled and Declarer makes it, he scores his doubled values below the line (as was explained last week) and also a bonus of 50 points above the line for making contract and 50 points for each trick over his contract. In the event of a redouble, he scores 100 points for contract and 100 points for each extra trick. (Copyright, John F. Dille Co.)

WINGS of the MORNING +++ WINGS of the TWILIGHT

Look for the red tins with a black or a green stripe

The tins are different from all others + so is the coffee + so is the tea. Whether they are better for you to decide. Printed on each tin is a money back offer. Briefly stated it is this: If you don't like Schilling's best, your grocer returns your money at once. Your statement is enough. He pays you. We pay him. The finest things usually come from those who specialize in fine things only. Only Schilling specializes on top grade coffee only -- no 2nd or 3rd grades. Only Schilling brings you the tender tea leaves as fresh and fragrant as they left the Oriental tea gardens.
