INCOME TAX FACTS

No. 12
Salaries paid employees constitute one of the largest items of business expenses. To be allowed as a deduction such claims must conform closely to the wording of the statute, which provides for the deduction of "a reasonable allowance for personal actually rendered." The test of deductibility is whether the amounts paid are reasonable and whether they are, in fact, purely for personal services.

Money paid an officer of a corporation for which no services, or services inadequate in value, are deductible as "salary." Reasonable compensation is held to be an amount that ordinarily is paid by like enterprises in like circumstances for like services.

Bonuses to employees may be deducted by employers when such payments are made in good faith as additional compensation for services actually rendered, provided that, when added to the stipulated salaries, the total does not exceed "a reasonable compensation for services rendered." When the amount of a salary of an officer or employee is paid for a limited time to a widow or heirs in recognition of services rendered by the deceased, such payments may be deducted.

JOSEPH WONT BEN
PORTLAND, Ore., Feb. 23 (AP)—State Senator George W. Joseph, who is a veteran member of the upper branch of the legislature, announced Friday that he would not be a candidate to succeed himself.

TO COIN GOLD
WASHINGTON, Feb. 23 (AP)—The state department has advised the treasury that it has no objection from a standpoint of policy, to the coinage of $9,999,999 in gold bars recently shipped to New York by the Soviet Bank of Moscow.

They tell this story on a traveling man. He received a telegram from home which read: "Twins arrived. More by mail."

A "good neighborhood" is any place where rents are too high.

Cashier Carrie: "Somebody told me today that I was good-looking." Salesgirl Sally: "When was that?"

"Today."

"No, I mean when were you good-looking?"

Mother: "Johnnie, where is the bread knife?"

Johnnie: "Grandpa has it. Mother: What is he doing with it?"

Johnnie: "Nothing. I was playing Indian and stuck it in his back."

"I'm afraid I'm catching cold," said Kloseman, trying to get some medical advice free. "Every once in a while I feel an itching in my nose and then I sneeze. What would you do in a case of this kind, doctor?"

"Well," replied Dr. Sharp, "I guess I'd sneeze, too."

Maggie: Has he got good manners?

Lizzie: Say, I wish you'd see how he cleans up the gravy with a piece of bread. It's the prettiest thing in the world.

Spend and the world spends with you, save and it'll do its darndest to beat you out of it.

AT THE THEATERS

"Stolen Pleasures" At Colonial On Sunday

"Stolen Pleasures," the feature attraction at the Colonial theater Sunday is really a milestone of genuine screen entertainment among the pictures shown here this season. It is a solidly interesting story, well written, well acted and presented by Columbia Pictures.

While it is film fare for every variety of fan, it has an unusual appeal to married folk. Its chief characters being a pair of husbands and wives who become almost inextricably mixed up in a web of their own weaving, due to unfounded suspicions and jealousies of each other.

A perfect cast of leading players are to be seen in the various featured roles. Helene Chadwick and Dorothy Revier, two of the screen's prize beauties share the feminine lead honors, while in support of them are two well known men players—Harlan Tucker and Gayne Whitman. Leah Baird, herself a former well known screen star, wrote the story.

A strong cast and a remarkable story combine effectively to furnish an evening of excellent entertainment with more than the usual amount of inspiration, at the Arcade theater, where Paramount's film version of Worwick Deeping's novel "Doomsday" will be shown Sunday only.

Florence Vidor is the star of this attraction and Gary Cooper is her more than ordinarily handsome and talented leading man.

"Doomsday" is a picture with a moral, but don't let that keep you from seeing it. The moral is no sugar coated bromide pill. It is woven in startling fashion through the fabric of a love story taken from life as it actually is. A love story that is as different from the usual one as day is from night.

A disillusioned girl, weary of endless drudgery faces a momentous decision. Love or luxury? She has her choice and she makes her decision only to find that she did not know all about life or all about work.

It is seldom that a motion picture has the intense story interest that "Doomsday" has. The players achieve the remarkable effect of making the audience live with them their loves, their fears, their bitterness, their sorrows and their triumphs.

The same comedy team that made such a big hit in the comedy "Battle of the Century," will also be on the same program in their latest comedy "Leave 'em Laughing."

NO BACK-SEAT DRIVER
Charlie Lindbergh drove thousands of miles without an accident to mar his record. It will be remembered that no one was sitting behind him telling him how to drive from the back seat.

After seeing Charles Rogers as the leading man, one can readily predict a remarkable future for this coming celebrity. In "My Best Girl" he has his first real opportunity to show the stuff of which he is made, and there is a sincerity and boyish appeal about his work that entirely justifies the star's choice of him for the role. Hobard Bosworth given one of his notable characterizations as the boy's father, and invests the part of the millionaire store owner with a well-nigh perfect realism.

Much of the laughter in the picture can be attributed to the excellent comedy cast. Mack Swain, one of the foremost fun-makers, is a scream as the police judge, and Lucien Littlefield plays the difficult role of the hen-pecked father to perfection. Sunshine Hart has one of her best parts as the funeral-loving, hypochondriac mother, and Carmelita Geraghty is highly effective in the role of Mary's wild and wayward sister.
