College Work Attractive To Most Students

A recent check by school authorities, taken from 505 study lists of the students taken last September, showed that of this number 223 desired a college preparatory course in high school.

Next in number was the general course with 121 and 106 students elected to major in commercial work. Thirty-nine had no definite selection. 13 took industrial courses and one each took physical education, home economics and agriculture.

Many students are taking a combined course, according to E. D. Fowler, principal. That is, they are meeting the requirements of two courses such as college preparatory, commercial or general, etc.

One might conclude that most students are aiming at college if possible. Courses dealing with household and industrial arts, while taken by many, are not taken as major courses but are electives only. Those who made no selection were either undecided or "just going to high school."

RIDINGS HIGH HOOP SCORER IN NORTHWEST

A recent check by the University of Oregon sports department shows that Gordon Ridings, leading individual scorer in the Pacific Coast conference basketball race, was the only Oregon hoopster to play complete time in 19 conference games. The veteran forward led the scorers with 111 points, scoring one point every three minutes and 16 seconds.

Although Bernard Hummelt, La Grande guard, did not play in any conference games, he turned in 64 minutes of playing during the season against other teams not in the Northwest conference—or the equivalent of more than a game and a half total playing.

MEDFORD WINS

MEDFORD, Ore., Mar. 9 (AP)—The Central Point High school basketball team, county champion, was defeated by Medford, district champion, here last night 58 to 16. The visitors were outclassed in every department of the game. Swanson, shooting ace of the locals, scoring 23 points. His running mate, Melvin, out of the game for three weeks from injuries, played the third quarter only. Central Point suffered heavily from penalties for holding and excessive time out. A return game will be played on the Central Point floor this evening.

22 TEAMS TO PLAY

MEDFORD, Ore., Mar. 9 (AP)—Twenty-two basketball teams from the secondary schools of Jackson, Klamath, Lake, Josephine, Coos, Curry and Douglas counties will take part in the first basketball tournament of the Southern Oregon Normal school at Ashland, March 15, 16 and 17.

La Grande Air Field Personals

LA GRANDE AIR FIELD (Spokane)—A pair of Eastern Air Lines planes from Portland dropped at the airport here at 5 o'clock Wednesday evening. One of the planes was owned and piloted by E. R. Jeppesen of Portland. Mr. Jeppesen is a pilot of excellent standing having worked as flying instructor for the Bell Line Air Service company of Portland for some time. The other plane was owned by W. D. Carter of Baker. He was a passenger in the ship while Harvey Kalfong acted as pilot. Mr. Carter, former agent in Baker for the Chrysler car, sold his interests in July and became interested in aircraft with which industry he has been affiliated ever since. Pilot Kalfong, who did commercial flying all fall in Spokane is an experienced flier of long standing, having received his training at Long Beach, California nine years ago.

The trio left Portland some time ago and have been "barnstorming" in Yakima, Walla Walla and other Southern Washington points, coming here from Walla Walla via Freewater.

Before their departure for Baker Thursday afternoon, when one of the members of the party was asked how long they would be there, he replied, "We don't know, probably two months. We may start a school there."

Those who really have something to brag about don't.

Our Many-Sided Champion

It is no great secret that Gene Tunney, our heavyweight champion, is an unusual champion. He likes everything one doesn't associate a fighter with, especially the works of William Shakespeare. Here we're telling the world of his musical ability.

In Great Shape

Perhaps the Athletics won't win the pennant this season, but it won't be for lack of physical condition on the part of Connie Mack, their boss. He was down in Florida early this spring playing golf before he opened training camp at Fort Myers. Mack is shown here on the links.

Great Teams and Bright Stars Feature College Court Champions

(Feature Service Sports Editor)
NEW YORK (AP)—A few great teams and a handful of stars already have begun to stand out in heroic relief as the college basketball season in the seven major sections of the country draws toward a dramatic close.

In the East the University of Pittsburgh, not enrolled in the Eastern Intercollegiate league has cut a meteoric path, while Oklahoma rules supreme in the Missouri Valley after six years of dominance by Kansas. Arkansas has headed straight for its third consecutive Southwestern title and Little Auburn has been the sensation of the Southern Conference in the unaccustomed role of giant-killer.

Elsewhere with the teams more closely matched the battles are consequently hotter. In the Eastern Intercollegiate league, Dartmouth and Penn have become locked in a close struggle for leadership, and a similar race in the Western Conference finds little to choose between Purdue, Indiana and Wisconsin. The Rocky Mountain Conference is another busy battlefield.

On the Pacific coast Southern California won the conference title from the University of Washington after tying with the University of California, which conceded the Trojan title.

Of the many individuals figuring in these fray some of the most brilliant and colorful are centers of unusual stature. These include Victor Holt of Oklahoma and "Stretch" Murphy of Purdue, both of whom are just 6 feet 6 inches tall, and Tom Pickett of Arkansas, who measures a half inch less. Vern Corbin of California, another great center, has been an all-important factor in keeping his team in the fight.

Holt, husky and handsome, is built in proportion to his weight with 200 pounds of weight. Murphy, on the other hand, is a gangling youth with pipestem legs, but with surprising ability and accuracy of eye. These two pilled their scoring totals high by tipping them in from under the hoop which they could reach with the aid of a gentle jump.

The elongated Murphy found a worthy rival in Branch McCracken, Indiana pivot and football end, who scored 24 points against Chicago early in the season.

It was perfect teamwork and a headlong offense that enabled Pittsburgh to beat the best in the Middle West and East, but if the team has an individual star he's Charlie Hyatt, heavy-scoring forward.

Pennsylvania's bid for the Eastern league crown has been built around the tough-headed Joe Echaar, who drops 'em in with equal facility from a guard or a forward post. Captain Bill Hoop at guard for Dartmouth has been the chief factor in keeping the Green's champions somewhere near the top of it.

Seeking the secret for Auburn's phenomenal showing in the south in setting the pace for such teams as Vanderbilt and Georgia Tech, one finds the James twins—"Ebb" and "Fob"—at guard and "Jelly" Aldin at forward. Enough to say Aldin has averaged about 16 points a game and made 27 against Vanderbilt.

Colorado College was riding high in the Rocky Mountain Conference race until Captain Forrest Phelps and Ryan, regular guards, were put on the hospital list, and even then the team kept up the fight. California likewise was weakened by loss of one of the Douglery boys by injury at a time when he was needed most.

As few teams have played outside their sections to any extent, it is impossible to pick even a mythical "champion," but Pittsburgh and Oklahoma, both unbeaten with their campaigns nearly ended, have out probably the widest swath.

Tips to Porters Is Still Lawful

WASHINGTON, Mar. 9 (AP)—Tips to sleeping car porters are still legal.

The I. C. C. today dismissed a complaint of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters against the Pullman company, which sought to end the practice of having sleeping car attendants take a portion of their wages in the gratuities of the traveling public.

The petition which the commission turned down sought an order against the Pullman company which would have at least hampered the continuance of the tipping custom.

"Pullman passengers are under no legal obligation to pay more than the scheduled charges," the decision said. "We are referred to no law which prohibits tipping of Pullman porters."
