Preston Clark, Mrs. Bidwell Are Declared Guilty

WA, LA WALLA, Mar. 12. (AP)—Preston Ray Clark was found guilty of first degree murder by a superior court jury and Mrs. Bessie Mae Bidwell was found guilty of second degree murder in their trial for the alleged poisoning of the woman's husband, Alpheus Bidwell. Clark, a boarder in the Bidwell home, and Mrs. Bidwell, were charged by the state with having placed poison in Bidwell's breakfast last Dec. 30 for motives of "money and lust." Mrs. Bidwell on the witness stand admitted intimate relations with Clark who she testified had forced his attentions upon her. Clark denied such relations and said he bought poison at Mrs. Bidwell's request for the avowed purpose of killing cats and rats.

A. W. MELLON REFUSED TO TAKE BONDS

publican national committee, reached the room just as Mellon began to testify. "I had a phone call from Mr. Hays from New York saying he was sending me the Liberty bonds and that he would come to Washington to see me about it," Mellon said. "I was busy at the time and laid the package aside. I kept on being busy and forgot them. The next morning I opened the package and saw that it contained bonds." "In what amount?" asked Senator Walsh of Montana, the committee prosecutor. "Fifty thousand dollars. Mr. Hays did not come that day and I took the bonds home for safe keeping as I had mislaid the combination to my office safe."

Returned Bond

"Mr. Hays came on here. He was going to Indiana and I said I would send them on to him at New York. This I did through Parker Gilbert, then under secretary of the treasury."

Tells of Objections

"I objected to taking a subscription that was not what it purported to be. As far as I recollect, he asked me to make a loan and hold the bonds, but to me that was the same thing. I told him I would make a bona fide subscription and that I had expected to make a subscription for $50,000. About that time I sent a check to the treasury, Mr. Upham, at Chicago, for $50,000."

Avoid Large Subscription

"What explanation did Hays make about where the bonds came from?" Senator Walsh asked. "He said he had a large amount of bonds, but I was not to be limited to $2000; one thousand before the convention and one thousand after the convention. I had no thought then of entering public office."

Mrs. Burton Advises Women on Motherhood and Companionship

"For several years was denied the blessing of motherhood," writes Mrs. Margaret Burton of Kansas City. "I was terribly nervous and subject to periods of terrible suffering and melancholia. Now I am the proud mother of a beautiful little daughter and a true companion and inspiration to my husband. I believe hundreds of other women would like to know the secret of my happiness, and I will gladly reveal it to any married woman who will write me." Mrs. Burton offers her advice entirely without charge. She has nothing to sell. Letters should be addressed to Mrs. Margaret Burton, 2645 Massachusetts, Kansas City, Mo. Correspondence will be strictly confidential.

Is One Guilty?

SEA Milwaukee Bureau Leonard Longley (top) and Lloyd Longley are twins. They look alike and write alike. When both were brought into court in Milwaukee on charges of forgery the other day, the judge faced the delicate task of deciding which one wrote the checks and which one cashed them—or whether one or both were entirely innocent.

Troubles of His Own

"No. The subscription from Sinclair I looked upon as without significance. I had no knowledge of any irregular proceedings regarding Teapot Dome. You see, that was in the winter of 1923."

"Mellon Incidental"

"Well, would that have added anything?" Mellon said. "You had all the information and all that I could have added was my name. I was an incidental thing. What purpose would have been served by that? I could have told about $200,000 in bonds."

"Bonds Had Been Returned"

"The bonds Hays gave you were Continental bonds?" Nye said. "The bonds had been returned," Mellon said. "It never occurred to me that there was any reason for me to tell about it. I had no responsibility with the republican national committee or with Mr. Sinclair."

One of the painters of this here town that only painted here about twenty years is now standing by my desk listening to me while I telephone my ad in and he just told me that on a swell job that he just finished up that the man was well pleased, for he related the man's conversation in this way. "Why I thought Claud C. Pratt only had cheap stuff down there." "Well, there is where you are badly fooled," said one of La Grande's old painters. "Claud C. Pratt does have lots of cheap stuff, he also has stuff both rich and poor." (Epitomized. They were brought in from the Bardsdale district, about five miles from here.

Partial or complete identification of eight of them was made as follows: Gordon Cummings, wife and child. Two Kelly children, Earl Crowder, George Basolo, Ranch hand by the name of "Tony," employed on the Basolo ranch. Six unidentified. Isabelle Torres, Mrs. Grace Boddeman.

Beauty Shop Is Opened in Hotel

More than 200 persons visited the new Colonial beauty shop in the Sacajawea Inn, managed by Edyth Doane and K. Lucille Day, when the formal opening was held yesterday. The shop is among the most modern and attractive outside of Portland and includes five booths with modern equipment, a steam bath and a large waiting and sales room. Its proprietors say it was decorated by Charles Waldenborn in a Spanish effect with which the furnishings blend nicely. Music was furnished by the courtesy of Adler's Music store. The shop is on the mezzanine. Many beautiful baskets and bouquets of flowers were received from local business houses and friends, together with congratulations during the day.
