Mrs. A. W. Nelson Hostess At Alpha Club Bridge Party

Mrs. A. W. Nelson was hostess at an attractive party yesterday afternoon at her home on Cedar street when she entertained the Alpha club. Luncheon was served at 1:15 o'clock with covers laid for 12 at three small tables, which were attractively decorated with bouquets of green and white sweet-peas forming a centerpiece for each. Place cards and other details were also worked out in the St. Patrick's day color scheme, as was the three-course menu.

Three tables of bridge were at play following luncheon. Mrs. Adolph Seigrist made high score among the club members and the guest prize went to Mrs. Elmer Stoddard.

Mrs. P. B. Appleby was hostess to the members of the Clio club Wednesday afternoon at her home on First street. Luncheon was served at 1:15 o'clock, after which two tables of bridge were at play. Miss Chase Bohlenkamp made high score.

Party Compliments Mrs. Robert Earle

Mrs. Emma Kiddle entertained informally yesterday afternoon at her home at Island City complimenting her daughter, Mrs. Robert Earle, who is visiting here from Eugene. Several of the friends of Mrs. Earle were guests during the afternoon and a pleasant time was spent visiting, after which the hostess served dainty refreshments.

A St. Patrick's day motif was carried out in the luncheon and also in the decoration of the home. Several bouquets of the season's flowers were used.

Mrs. Earle formerly made her home at Island City and has many friends here. She will leave tonight for her home at Eugene, after visiting here for about two weeks.

Members of the Senatka Bridge club were guests at a delightful party last evening when Mr. and Mrs. Walter H. Perry entertained at their home on Sixth street. The affair was in the form of a St. Patrick's day party and green was the predominant color in the decoration of the rooms. The same idea was also carried out in the three-course luncheon, in which was served following the card games.

Three tables of bridge were at play during the evening and Mrs. Walter Nowland made high score among the women club members. The men's club prize went to Mr. Nowland, and the guest prizes were received by Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Heppel.

Mothers, Daughters In Dinner Party

The Gleaner girls of the First Ward of the Latter Day Saints church entertained their mothers at a banquet last evening in the ballroom of the Recreational hall on Fourth street. The banquet was the first sponsored by the girls' organization, and plans are to make it an annual affair.

About 35 girls and their mothers were in attendance and an excellent three-course banquet was served. Green and white was the color scheme used to decorate the table, and the same colors were carried out in the menu.

Miss Fonda Hanks gave a toast to the mothers and Mrs. George H. Lysman responded. Mrs. Leah Russell sang a solo.

Following the program games were enjoyed for the remainder of the evening.

Mrs. Walter Price and Mrs. L. H. Purdy entertained a few friends at the Purdy home at 207 Fourth street Tuesday afternoon in honor of their mother, Mrs. L. C. Harger, the occasion being her birthday anniversary. The afternoon was spent visiting, after which the guests were seated around a table prettily decorated in keeping with St. Patrick's day, and a two-course luncheon was served.

Those present were Mrs. R. L. Purman, and her guest, Mrs. Minnie Baker, who is visiting here from Seaside; Mrs. George Rochester, Mrs. Harry Sandor, Mrs. G. L. Anderson, Mrs. J. B. Rhodes, Mrs. William Day, Mrs. C. E. McPherson, the honor guest, Mrs. Harger, and the hostesses, Mrs. Price and Mrs. Purdy.

CONTRACT BRIDGE
Yesterday we had a general discussion concerning suit jumps; today a more specific consideration of the subject will be undertaken. We will start with the question of what the partner of a bidder of one of a Major suit should do, the intervening adversary having passed.

In the first place, it should be understood that the expressions "obligatory jump" or, as some writers have put it, "courtesy jump" are bunk of the worst variety. A jump shows strength and support for partner's suit; a refusal to jump shows lack of one or the other. Without normal support in partner's suit, a jump of his bid of one is not sound; and surely it would be a new kind of "courtesy" which would drag him beyond his depth. When normal support in the suit is lacking, side strength may be shown by bidding some other suit or No Trump.

The smallest jump obviously is from one to two, and the two requisites for making that jump in partner's Major suit are:

(a) Normal support in the partner's suit—by which is meant at least three cards of the suit, or Ace and one other or King and one other; Queen and one other is borderline support. It justifies a jump if that seem to be the best declaration for the hand; but it also justifies a denial, especially a No Trump denial, with hands which suggest that No Trump may be a better declaration. With minimum jumping strength on the side, it is not advisable to consider Queen and one other as normal support. With normal support the other requisite is:

(b) Sufficient high-card strength (a hyphen shows that the high combinations contain such strength (a hyphen shows that the cards named are of the same suit).
Two Aces.
Ace and King-Queen.
Two King-Queens.
Ace-King and a Queen.
Three Kings.
Ace-King without side strength is a doubtful combination; it is a close question whether a jump should be made with it when holding minimum normal support and no other strength. For example, partner bids one Spade, Second Hand passes and Third Hand holds:

♠6-4-2
♥7-6-3
♦8-4-3-2
♣A-K-5

With such holding, the jump should not be made unless conditions favorable by that is meant: (1) a partner who can be depended upon to take every possible trick in the play and who will not be induced to rebid unless his hand is much stronger than a minimum one-bid; (2) invulnerability. But the above holding would justify the jump under any conditions if augmented by an extra trump, a Queen-Jack, or even a Queen in a side suit, or a Jack as one of the three cards of partner's suit—such a combination as J-9-2.

Women Voters Look Into National Issues

NEW YORK (AP)—The national issues of 1928 will supply subjects for pro and con discussion in a two-day public affairs conference of the New York League of Women Voters April 10 and 11.

Problems of foreign policy will occupy the first day with round table discussions, led by political experts. Such questions as popular control of foreign policy, the country's attitude toward arbitration treaties, disarmament agreements, the League of Nations, the World Court, the Latin-American countries and the rights and duties of a creditor nation will be discussed.

The second day will be devoted to domestic problems, with particular emphasis placed upon the question of prohibition. The round table discussion will include the possible courses of action in regard to prohibition enforcement, modification, nullification or repeal.

"No definite action will be taken on any of the questions, of course," said Mrs. Henry R. Hayes, chairman of the program committee. "We won't even arrive at any conclusions. Our hope is that the frank discussion of the facts in each case will help to clarify the situation and make a definite contribution to intelligent use of the franchise by women in 1928."
