RESOURCES OF WALLOWA RANK GREAT

U. of O. Geologist Completes Report of Extensive Study of County

URGES DEVELOPING SCENERY, MINING

Prof. W. D. Smith Regards District as One of Great Possibility — in Class by Itself.

With the Wallowa Lake wonderland season due to open within the next several weeks, a final report of the study of the Wallowa country made by Prof. Warren DuPre Smith, of the University of Oregon, has been put into manuscript which is to be issued as a booklet by the university. The report is particularly interesting and may prove to be of invaluable aid in proper exploitation of the country's resources, it is said.

A copy of the book has been received by R. L. Forsythe, retiring president of the Enterprise chamber of commerce, and is reprinted in part in the Enterprise Record-Chieftain.

In Class by Itself

It will be remembered that Prof. Smith last summer conducted the geology summer camp of the university in Wallowa county, with headquarters a mile above Wallowa lake. His report begins:

"Just as 'All Gaul is divided into three parts', so they say Oregon is divided into three parts, western Oregon, eastern Oregon and Wallowa county. Wallowa county is distinctly different from any other portion of the state—indeed it resembles Switzerland more than any other part of our western country."

After giving a general description of the country, the paper says:

"To one who has visited Glacier National Park, a striking resemblance between the two regions will be at once apparent. The scenery of the Wallowa is just as fine, tho there is not so much of it."

Unlike Western Oregon

Under the heading "Climate and Vegetation" Prof Smith comments:

"To the dweller in western Oregon, the land of rain and mist, of vegetation almost tropical in its rankness, of color tones dominantly green and cobalt and purple, the climate, atmosphere and vegetation of this region offer almost startling and yet not displeasing contrast."

Plant and Animal Life

Of the plant and wild life of the county, Prof. Smith says:

"The lighter rainfall, the steepness of the mountain slopes, the greater amount and force of winds, the light soil covering, all have influenced the character of the vegetation. The lack of undergrowth has, of course, been one, if not the chief cause for the scarcity of animals. It is said that mountain sheep are still occasionally to be seen on some of the more inaccessible ridges. Undoubtedly this region was once well stocked with game and the kind now be found in the wilder portions of the Rocky mountains and formerly, too, there must have been a plentiful supply of birds, but in six weeks roaming thru the woods and over the rocks of Wallowa, only one or two blue birds were seen, and no beast, save domesticated animals from the lowlands. A few tame elk can be seen occasionally near the head of Lake Wallowa. Undoubtedly a field zoologist working at night or with traps would see things which the layman would pass unnoticed.

"Not so with plants, for in this domain even the untrained can note, in passing, their profusion and the great contrast to those in the coastal area."

Geology of Mountains

Reports on the flora of the county follow, and a summary of the history and geological past of the mountains, with a statement by James Stovall of the geology class:

"The Wallowa mountains are essentially an eroded, igneous mass, bathylithic in nature, with the characteristic radial drainage pattern and is still in a very youthful stage. The rugged mountains stand up seemingly as an island 5000 feet above the level plateau

SELECT LONEY AS JUDGE FOR BAND CONTEST

Andrew Loney Jr., director of the La Grande municipal band and a leading figure in local musical circles for many years, has been asked to act as a judge at the state high school band concert to be held at Corvallis, Ore., on Apr. 14, it was learned today. Mr. Loney has accepted the invitation.

"Although I feel honored to be asked, I feel that it is more a compliment to the success and prestige the municipal band has acquired over all the state and the Northwest in fact," Mr. Loney says.

Red Cross Will Have Swim Week During Summer

New Members Elected to Board at Meeting Last Night — Activities Are Discussed.

Several new members were elected to the board of the La Grande chapter of the American Red Cross and two activities of the chapter were definitely outlined last evening when a meeting of chapter was held in the chamber of commerce office, with Miss Jean Blanchard, representative from the San Francisco office, in attendance.

The board now includes Dr. Ray F. Murphy, president; Hugh E. Brady, vice president; Sherwood Williams, secretary-treasurer; Mrs. E. P. Mossman, Chester Thompson, Miss Myrtle Hoyt, Mrs. Leif H. Awes, R. F. Tyler, Mrs. Ray Murphy, A. W. Nelson, Mrs. Sherwood Williams, Mrs. W. T. Phy, Miss Alice Marquardt, Gene Walker and Judge U. G. Couch.

One of the plans outlined was to conduct a swim week during the summer, for which the Elks swimming tank will be secured. An accredited Red Cross life saver and instructor will be here during that time and will conduct the week of instruction in swimming and life saving, which will be especially for the boy scouts and campfire girls of the city, although others will be welcome to take part. Those who pass the tests which will be given by the instructor will be given their certificate as Red Cross life savers.

W. W. Nusbaum, director of music in the La Grande schools, this morning announced the following cast for the high school's musical presentation, "The Bells of Beaujolais":

Augustus, Duke of Beaujolais, Robert Guild; John Bender, a wealthy American widower, Tom Bruce; Larry and Tony, young Americans, Wilfred Stoddard and Henry Culp; Harkins, an English valet, Wayne Nusbaum; Pierre, a juggler, Virgil Kochensparger; Chicot, a wrestler, Cleland Wallsinger; Countess Marie, a rich spinster betrothed to the Duke, Ruth Smalley; Aunt Sarah Jeffpt, a widow and the sister of Bender, Bethel Trill; Phyllis, Bender's daughter, Jane Stange; Belle, her friend, Virginia Warnick; Yvonne, a flower girl, Juanita Spencer; Susette, a candy girl, Lewanna Graham; Faustine, a maid of the Countess Marie, Martina Sams.

There will be a mixed chorus of 40 voices in support of the cast and the high school orchestra will play the musical score of the two-act comic opera.

"We are particularly pleased with the opera because it gives a large number of the high school singers equally important roles," said Mr. Nusbaum today. The opera will be given some time shortly after the middle of April.

Mrs. F. E. Oxner Dies In Eugene

Mrs. F. E. Oxner, for many years a resident of La Grande, passed away at the Pacific Christian hospital in Eugene yesterday at noon. She underwent a major operation Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Oxner made their home in this city for about ten years, moving to Eugene about three or four years ago. Mr. Oxner had a paint store here where the Noah paint store is now located. Mrs. Oxner had a wide circle of friends here who were grieved today to learn of her death.

She leaves besides her husband a daughter, Donalene, who is a senior at the Oregon Normal school at Monmouth, and a son, Kenneth, who is attending the University High school at Eugene, also her mother, who makes her home in the east.

The funeral will be held Monday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at Eugene.

Dr. Gilbert Unable To Attend Meeting

The forum luncheon of the Union county chamber of commerce will be held next Monday noon instead of Tuesday and two members of the Normal School board of regents, who will be in La Grande on that day, will be guests, C. L. Starr, of Portland, and George Hartman, of Pendleton.

Dr. James H. Gilbert, head of the economics department of the University of Oregon, will be unable to be here for the meeting, having already accepted an invitation to speak before the Baker Kiwanis club Monday noon. He will be in La Grande Monday evening, however, and will address the Washington club here.

HOUSE PUTS O. K. ON NEW WARSHIP BILL

$274,000,000 Construction Program Is Sent to the Senate

RECORD 287 TO 57 VOTE ON MEASURE

Provides That President Can Suspend Building in Event of Limitation Agreement.

WASHINGTON, Mar. 17 (AP)—The $274,000,000 new warship construction program was approved today by the house and sent to the senate. The vote was 287 to 57.

In passing the Butler bill, the house voted for the construction of 15 cruisers of 10,000 tons displacement each, and one aircraft carrier of 13,800 tons.

The measure carries a provision requesting the president to urge the "necessity" of another international conference for the limitation of naval armaments and gives him authority to suspend the proposed construction either in whole or in part in the event of a limitation agreement.

In addition the bill would provide that eight of the new ships must be built in navy yards.

WASHINGTON, Mar. 17 (AP)—Senate and house conferees on the radio bill ended negotiations today with a notice by house democratic members that they would demand a vote on the compromise over the amendment to equalize station power and wave length allocations among the zones.

FAST BASEBALL LEAGUE EXPECTED

Walla Walla, Pendleton, Baker, La Grande Meet Here Tomorrow

Hopes that La Grande fans have held since 1925 that another fast baseball league would be organized in this territory are to be realized tomorrow, according to announcement by Harris French, local manager.

At 2 o'clock in the afternoon representatives from Baker, Pendleton and Walla Walla will meet in the city hall here, for the purpose of organizing the Blue Mountain league for this year. Election of officers, discussion of plans for the season, and discussion of a schedule are to be the business of the session. Mr. French has received word from all three cities, and enthusiasm is running high over the circuit.

This year Pendleton is willing for each team to hire as many or as few players as it wishes. The reason Baker and La Grande did not enter the league the last two years was because some members of the circuit wished to play amateur ball instead of the semi-professional type that has proven a big drawing card here.

Mr. French is already in touch with several diamond stars, and among these is Jerry Goleman, who played here several years ago. Goleman is eager to come to La Grande. Last year he played with the Sa-

Wallowa Quint Eliminated By Tillamook, 27-9

Medford Defeats Salem in Thrill Game—Victor to Play Washington High for Title.

SALEM, Ore., Mar. 17 (AP)—Sifting through the Astoria defense with ease Salem high school used a short passing attack and defeated the fishermen 48 to 20 this morning in a semi-final consolation match of the Oregon state high school basketball tournament at Willamette university.

Tonight at 7:30 o'clock Salem faces Tillamook in the final consolation match to determine the third best team. At 8:30, Washington and Medford meet in the championship battle.

SALEM, Ore., Mar. 17 (AP)—A band of huskies from Medford last night handed Salem the same unwelcome medicine that the locals spooned out for Astoria the night before, and did it with a smile which made the drink still more unpalatable. It was a semi final contest, and by winning, Medford earned the right to meet Washington high of Portland in the championship game. The score was 21 to 20 in Medford's favor.

So strenuous was the play; so exacting on the energies and strength of the men, that Beechler, young Salem center, passed completely out as the game ended. This lad performed with surprising vigor last night. In the first frame, he was practically Salem's whole team. It was his neat throw from mid-floor which almost went through the hoop for the two points which would have spelled victory. The ball appeared to drop through, rolled around in the ring for a moment and then hopped out.

The star performers on both teams were held low. Captain Duffy found two Medford men boxing his shots every time he took the ball, and Al Melvin, Medford's greatest bid for the title, was watched just as carefully by Salem.

Phipps, Medford center, was the star formed forward in this game.

In the preliminary consolation tilt Astoria squeaked but a one-

Pioneer Of This Valley Called To The Beyond

Henry J. Young, for many years a resident of La Grande, passed away at his home just north of town last night at the age of 83 years, three months and 12 days. He was born and raised in Ottawa, Can., and went to Chicago when about 18 years old. He later drove an ox team across the plains and remained for three years in Montana, where he was engaged in mining. He was over the sites of Butte, Mont., and Spokane, Wash., before any building had been done.

He arrived in the Grande Ronde valley in 1870 and resided here since that time. He was married to Miss Pamella Stotts in 1880, and to this union nine children were born, eight of whom survive: Bertha J. Young, Fred A. Young, Walter H. Young, Frank E. Young, Cecil J. Young and Nell E. Thacker, of La Grande, Mrs. Earl Engdahl, of Pendleton, and Mrs. F. O. Freeman, of Colgate, Okla. All of the children were with their father at the time of his death except Mrs. Freeman, who will arrive here tomorrow night.

The funeral will be held Monday afternoon at two o'clock from the Snodgrass and Zimmerman mortuary. Burial will be in the family plot in the Odd Fellows cemetery.

L. H. S. Domestic Art Department Presents Spring Style Show

The high school auditorium was packed yesterday afternoon when the domestic art department of the high school, headed by Miss Ann Arnoldus, presented a spring style show in which about 50 students modelled dresses which they had made in the department. Because a number of the parents and friends who wished to see the exhibition could not attend yesterday the style show will be repeated next Monday evening at the auditorium.

Mothers and friends were enthusiastic yesterday in praising the work of the girls, many of whom were in the first year of their course. The real purpose of the style revue was to show the importance and extent of the work of the department and to many of those who saw the show it was a revelation.

Show Difficult Creations

The young seamstresses were not limited to dresses of simple design. There were afternoon frocks, sport ensembles, a suit, and even a few bouffant evening dresses shown, and all displayed real dressmaking skill and a careful study of the art. The revue started with cotton dresses, mainly gingham school frocks, that were attractively made. Woolen school frocks in many charming styles followed. Afternoon dresses in voiles and organdies and the evening dresses were models displayed and an ensemble pajama suit was shown. The dresses shown were all becoming and appropriate for the high school girl and demonstrated that a study of how to select the right type of dress is being made along with a study of the technique of sewing.

Miss Arnoldus spoke just preceding the revue and explained the work of the department, stressing its practical value and urging that more girls take the course. Miss Ruth Irwin made an interesting talk on the "Art of Sewing," declaring that it was not a duty but a privilege and Miss Mary Gould Parsons talked in an interesting manner on "What Domestic Art Can Do For a Girl." Miss Parsons demonstrated that a high school girl may increase her wardrobe and make it more attractive through such a course and pointed out the economical value of the course.

St. Patrick Program

The stage setting was attractive. Music was furnished by the Bats.

Following the style show the A. C. S. gave a short St. Patrick's day program for the several hundred visitors. Miss Ruth Geibel acted as chairman and introduced those who entertained. They were: Barbara Pidcock, a piano solo; Helen Jones, an Irish reading; Alyce Cook, a reading; Guilda Ashby, a Gertrude dance, accompanied by Barbara Pidcock.

Seattle Woman And Maharajah Wed in Barwaha

BARWAHA, India, Mar. 17 (AP)—Amid scenes of oriental splendor, the marriage ceremony proper of Tukoji Rao, former maharajah of Indore, and Nancy Ann Miller, of Seattle, Wash., took place late today.

The bride and bridegroom set forth in separate processions for the pavilion where the ceremony was held, the former ruler in full state dress and wearing blazing jewels and the bride wearing the dress of a maharatta princess.

The only European touch was an engagement ring with a magnificent diamond.

The procession, which included elephants, traversed the densely crowded streets of the city and converged on a huge gorgeously bedecked pavilion, where an enormous crowd had gathered. A banquet at which 10,000 guests were expected was scheduled to follow.

LONDON, Mar. 17 (AP)—An Exchange Telegram dispatch from Bombay today said Miss Nancy Ann Miller is to undergo an operation for appendicitis.

The dispatch said that after her wedding to Tukoji Rao, former maharajah of Indore, today, the couple will sail for Europe as soon as possible for the operation.

Campfire Girls Will Celebrate 12th Anniversary

In observance of anniversary month a grand council fire of the ten Campfire Girl groups of La Grande and one group from Haines will be held in La Grande next Saturday night, March 24, in the Latter Day Saints Recreational hall. Both the woodgatherer and the firemaker ranks will be awarded at the council fire, which will be the first time that the firemaker rank has been given here.

In addition to making these awards the campfire girls gift to the Red Cross will be presented at that time, and Miss Jean Blanchard, Red Cross representative, is expected to be in attendance to accept it. A part of the campfire girl program this year is the making of children's garments, these to be distributed among the needy by the Red Cross. Each group will also furnish a stunt representing some part of campfire life which will add much to the program.

Most of the Campfire Girl groups in La Grande are a year old this month. The national Campfire organization is 12 years old today, and for that reason campfire girls all over the United States are observing this month as anniversary month.

HICKMAN PLACED IN DEATH CELL

Welby Hunt, Girl Slayer's Pal, Starts Life Term in San Quentin

SAN QUENTIN, Cal., Mar. 17. (AP)—The gates of the penitentiary closed on William Edward Hickman here today and the slayer of Marian Parker became convict No. 45,041, to await his execution on April 27.

Hickman and his partner in crime, Welby Hunt, arrived from Los Angeles and entered the prison at 9:14 a. m. Hunt, who is to serve a life term for his part in the slaying of a Los Angeles druggist during a hold up, was shackled to Hickman. Hickman was assigned to cell No. 20 in the condemned row between cells occupied by John J. Malone, Los Angeles wife slayer, and Edgar Lapierre, who killed a policeman in Oakland.

Lapierre also is sentenced to hang on April 27.

Extra Guards

Warden James B. Holohan personally met Hickman and Hunt at the prison gate. It was an unusually foggy morning and extra guards were detailed to prevent any attempt to escape or any demonstrations. A special rifleman stood behind the prison gate. Many convicts gazed curiously at Hickman as he entered, but there was no demonstration.

A change of attitude suddenly came over Hickman and Hunt, and the two youths seemed plunged to the depths of despair as the cold walls of the penitentiary enfolded them.

Hickman appeared very pale and Hunt's face was sober. Neither talked or laughed.

By noon they had entered their cells. Hickman's cell, in which he will be confined until he marches up the 13 steps to the gallows, is six by ten feet and nine feet high. It is located in a section called "the stones" by the convicts. That particular part of the prison was constructed in 1858 and formed the nucleus for the other buildings.

The patient, Mrs. I. S. Weil, wife of a Chico merchant, described briefly her impression of "being dead." She said:

"It was a feeling like rising through the air. I seemed to see marble steps. Then I fell upon my head. Next I heard a nurse say, 'are you back, Mrs. Weil'?"

Mrs. Weil had been critically ill for months from a tumor at the base of the brain. She had entered the University of California hospital here in a critical condition being fed only through tubes.

Dr. Howard Naffziger, brain specialist, was at her side when she apparently became lifeless. He rushed her to the operating room and removed the tumor. She is expected to recover completely.

DEMOCRATS OF OREGON FACE SPLIT

Oswald West Fires Another Broadside into Al Smith's Camp

REPUBLICANS IN ACCORD SO FAR

Herbert Hoover Has Clear Field for State's Delegation to Kansas City Caucus.

PORTLAND, Ore., Mar. 17 (AP)—Democrats of Oregon face a three-cornered fight in the May primaries on the presidential nomination issue. Following declaration by supporters of Gov. Al Smith, of New York, that his name will be put on the ballot by petition, assurance had been given that the names of Senator Thomas J. Walsh, of Montana, and Senator James A. Reed, of Missouri, also will be on the ticket in the fight for Oregon's delegates to the democratic convention.

On the republican side Herbert Hoover, who was reared in Oregon, has so far a clear field for the state's delegation to the Kansas City convention.

Ranks of the democrats have been split by declarations of Oswald West former governor who is national democratic committeeman in opposition of Smith.

West Fires Broadside

West, who a week ago fired a broadside into the Smith camp, renewed the fray today by issuing another statement in which he said:

"I was long in understanding why the jackass was chosen as the emblem of the democratic party. Finally it dawned on me that it was because a weak party, could usually be depended upon to make jackasses of ourselves at a time when such action was needed by the republican party to insure success at the polls. Our chosen emblem has, therefore become quite appropriate and something of an institution.

"Yet it is being proposed that we ditch the jackass and accept the tiger. I understand that the battle cry will be 'down with the jackass and up with the tiger'.

Stands by Jackass

"I for one propose to stand by jackass. He has been sober and honest and faithful these many years and it would not only be unwise but unfair to dethrone him at this time. I therefore appeal to all sober minded democrats to rally to the defense of the jackass. He is calling for help. Let his friends respond."

Other political developments of the week were filing of the declaration of candidacy of Thomas B. Handley, Portland attorney for secretary of state, and announcement of Hal Hoss, former private secretary to Gov. I. L. Patterson, that he would formally enter the contest next week. H. H. Corey, public service commissioner, from Eastern Oregon, formally announced a week ago.

SALEM, Ore., Mar. 17 (AP)—T. B. Handley, of Multnomah, is the first candidate to definitely enter the lists in the contest for the republican nomination for secretary of state.

Handley, who is a former state senator from Tillamook county and state corporation commissioner for four years, filed his declaration with the secretary of state this morning, and offered the following as his slogan:

"Former corporation commissioner: Same economy, courtesy and efficiency as before."
