THE MARK REG.

A junior clerk approached the head of a firm which was doing none too well, with a view to a raise in salary. "Certainly not," was the reply, "and let me warn you, young man, if you're not jolly careful I'll make you a partner!"

Funny what makes all the different kinds of flies.

The cyclone makes the house fly. The blacksmith makes the fire fly. The jockey makes the horse fly. The hotcakes make the butter fly.

If a woman dressed sensibly nowadays she would be considered a fool.

BLOWN NOT PUFFED

"My lands!" exclaimed Ragsan Tatters, of Trushville as he gazed at a saxophone display in a music store. "The things people smoke nowadays!"

Fate Father—"The next time that young man calls, I'll sit on him. Daughter—Oh, father, let me do it.

If close bobbing continues in favor we predict that the men will go back to whiskers, and challenge the women to follow them.

Don't trust the man that brags about being boss in his own house. He will be about other things too.

You may think your photograph does not do you justice, but people seeing the photograph first, are liable to be disappointed.

According to Gladys, some girls would rather stay single, while others would rather knot.

Many a man, before he should, has gone to his sarcophagus. He pointed hoags, repeated good A-down his dry sarcophagus.

The girls who desire to keep their schoolgirl complexion these days should not go out in the rain.

Sadder were hostesses to the school children at an Easter party and egg hunt Sunday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. and Mrs. E. Snider.

AT THE THEATERS

Clara Bow At Arcade Today In "Red Hair"

Practically the same combination that gave the motion picture world "It" was brought together again to make the new romantic-comedy "Red Hair," with Clara Bow as the star. "Red Hair," which opens at the Arcade theater today for a three-day run is taken from the book by Eleanor Glynn, also the author of "It." The adaptation of the story for the screen was made by Percy Heath and Lloyd Corrigan, the latter being responsible for the script of "It," and the continuity is credited to Agnes Leahy.

Clarence Badger, who directed "It" and who is known as one of Paramount's ace directors, was behind the camera while "Red Hair" was being filmed.

Included in the supporting cast are William Austin, remembered for his portrayal of the Englishman in "It," Jacquelin Gaisson, likewise a member of the former production's cast, Lawrence Grant and Claude King.

"Red Hair" is a story of an American manufacturer of the typical flapper type who might be accused of "digging" a bit until the right man comes along. The "right man" in this case is Lane Chandler.

"On Your Toes" Opening Run At The Star

It's a safe bet that you'll be sitting on the edge of your seat through most of "On Your Toes," the Universal-Jewel picture with that most imitable of stars, Reginald Denny. This highly entertaining feature opened at the Star theater last night for an engagement of three days.

Denny, the brilliant comedian, known to screen fans throughout the world for his highly entertaining and amusing pictures, gives a performance that beats his former work in such efforts as "Fast and Furious," "Skinner's Dress Suit," and "I'll Show You the Town." It is one of his roles that will long be remembered.

Although he is the star, Denny is forced to show his best efforts in order to dominate the picture, for the supporting cast is made up of a group of really capable players. Barbara Worth, as the leading lady, assisted by her beauty. She is undoubtedly one of the most beautiful, not to mention skillful, actresses on the screen. Then there were Hayden Stevenson as the prize fight manager, Frank Hagney as the champion, Mary Carr in another of her famous "mother roles" although this time she had the prettily "dandy" before her beauty. Gertrude Howard and George West.

Denny, as the good-natured prize fighter who was made over from a dancing teacher, is delightful always, and the story injects him in all manner of strange and embarrassing situations. The complications that involve Denny provide more side-splitting laughter than we have seen for some time.

Induced to become a prize fighter by the girl he loves, Denny gives up his routine pursuit of managing a dancing school. He is always too chicken-hearted to knock out his opponent even though he can easily do so. When he fights for the heavyweight championship of the world, his manager and sweetheart conspire to make him angry and this, combined with the revelation that he is the son of "Young Evans," a champion of other days, help him win.

Fred Newmeyer directed from the story and scenario by Earle Snell.

Society Shooting

NEA New York Bureau Dallet H. Wilson, socially and professionally prominent New York attorney, was twice shot and severely wounded in his office by his estranged wife, who is pictured with him here. A quarrel believed to have involved the separate maintenance Mrs. Wilson was receiving preceded the shooting.
