Counterfeiting Learned In Jail

PORTLAND, April 18 (AP)—Arrested late yesterday on a charge of passing counterfeit money, Nelson Stebbins, 24, told officers that he learned how to make counterfeit coins from a fellow convict while serving a term at McNeil island prison, where he recently completed a three-year sentence for violation of the national motor theft act. Police said he admitted passing 133 counterfeit dollars and 32 counterfeit half dollars in the past two weeks.

Officers seized dies and other equipment at his home.

You never heard the bee complain Nor hear it weep and wail; But if it wished it could unroll A very painful tail.

"Take the toothpick out of your mouth; it isn't polite to pick your teeth in company," said a mother to her little boy the other day as she opened her vanity case and applied a little more rouge to her cheeks.

What has become of the old-fashioned mother who objected to her girls going to kissing parties where they played "The Needle's Eye"? "King William was King James' Son," and "Postoffice."

"What did the boss say when you told him you have triplets?"
"He promoted me to head of my department."
"What department are you in?"
"Production."

AT THE THEATERS

Odd Night Rendezvous Is Featured

In "The Unfair Sex," which is playing at the Star theater today and Thursday many of the most exciting scenes take place in a fashionable night club at which the enchantress of the piece is hostess, and where she lures her victims.

The club is called the Merry Go Round, and is one of the most unique night rendezvous the films have brought us.

Henri Diamant-Berger, the noted French director who directed and produced "The Unfair Sex" has a decided reputation for lavish sets, and has outdone himself on this particular interior.

The club is on a huge revolving disc, the orchestra on a round dais in the center, the tables on the outside, with little raised balconies at intervals, for the tables of especially favored guests, and the dance floor between the orchestra and tables. The decorations and lighting are equally as unique as the floor plan.

The picture stars Hope Hampton, Holbrook Blinn, Nita Naldi, and Walter Miller and is from the story by Eugene Walter.

Featuring Fred Humes, a real honest-to-rough cowboy in a real rough-riding picture, "The Border Cavalier," a Universal Western, is showing at the Star today and Thursday as part of the double feature program. It is one of the most engrossing western thrillers we have witnessed in some time.

Freddie Rides, fights and makes love in the same robust fashion that has won him his army of fans and it is quite certain this picture will bring him many more.

Eyes and throats, hands and hearts are called into play by "The Cohens and Kellys in Paris," the Universal Production which opens at the Arcade theater Thursday for a three-day run.

Touching pathos turns into wild hilarity in this surprising sequel to "The Cohens and Kellys," a picture that made the world laugh and call for more, until the producer, Carl Laemmle, was compelled to make a bigger, better and funnier screen drama dealing with the further adventures of the laugh-renowned Irish and Jewish families.

It starts out with deep human interest and a lot of fun. Suspense grows up to the end. Many surprising turns of events occur that are led up to with skill and facility.

The acting is just what one would expect of the superb cast, which includes three members of the original "Cohen-Kelly" cast. These are: George Sidney, known throughout the laughing part of the world as Mr. Cohen; Kate Price, who created the role of Mrs. Kelly and who makes the best of a rich opportunity; Vera Gordon who made the role of Mrs. Cohen and portrays the character again with mirthful success.

J. Farrell MacDonald is co-featured with George Sidney. His work in the role of Kelly will live long and be associated with ribs that ache from laughing.

Gertrude Astor is the Alzy French camp who lures the young Kelly from the straight and narrow path of being a dutiful husband for the sprightly Miss Cohen, played by Sue Carol.

Charles Delaney, as Kelly, Jr., gets the two families into a fluster when he falls in love with the Cohen girl. The Cohens and

1600 MILE TEST FLIGHT
PARIS, Apr. 18 (AP)—Lieutenant Michel de Troyat hopped off from Le Bourget airbase at 4:05 a. m. today on a non-stop flight of some 1600 miles intended as a test of his new all-metal monoplane in which he hopes to fly from Paris to New York this spring. He expects to fly to Ajkers and return without stopping in the second long test of his plane which is similar to Colonel Lindbergh's Spirit of St. Louis.
