Rabies Develops Among Vale Herd

VALE, Ore.—Following reports of several rabid coyotes that have been killed in various parts of the interior, Val Becker, well known stock man of the Westfall section, last week shot a mad cow, which he had been treating for a supposedly less dangerous malady.

Upon examination of the animal's brain, it was found that the animal had rabies. Although Becker was not bitten, he is taking Pasteur treatment.

Another cow in the herd was killed as it was found stricken with a docile phase which results in paralysis.

THE OLD BRIDGE

I stood on the bridge at midnight
And I sang the good old song,
"I stood on the Bridge at Midnight"
But I didn't stand there long.

While the steamer whistle blew,
And the bridge where I stood at midnight
Divided and let me through.

AT THE THEATERS

"Passion" With Emil Jannings Showing Sunday

"Passion", the powerful Ernst Lubitsch production, starring two international stars, Emil Jannings and Pola Negri, is the main feature at the Colonial theater Sunday. This production has been made from a story that is known the world over, and those who enjoy the charm and beauty of Pola Negri and the power of Emil Jannings will spend an enjoyable evening at the theater.

In "Passion", the artistic ability of both Pola Negri and Emil Jannings mount until the final fade-out. The picture is a sequence of dramatic situations interspersed with comedy and is sure to be enjoyed by young and old. The story is the romance of a wonder-woman who reaches the zenith of her glory as the ruler of a king and finally arrives at her lowest ebb in the shadow of the hatred of millions of people.

The picture unfolds itself with Pola Negri as Jeanne, the humble but beautiful milliner apprentice, madly in love with Armand. While delivering a hat, a horse, whose rider is Don Diego, the Spanish Ambassador, shies and ruins the hat. Jeanne returns to the shop where she is severely scolded, when Don Diego arrives and pays for the damages. At a masked ball with Armand, she again meets Don Diego, who attempts to kiss her. Armand is jealous and a duel ensues in which Don Diego falls and Armand is arrested. Jeanne is hurried from the scene by Count Dubarry. He takes her to his rooms and there decorates her with fine jewels—Jeanne soon forgetting Armand. Later, Jeanne becomes the prize beauty of the King's court and the most influential woman. With her new powers, she arranges Armand's pardon, and with the aid of a trusty servant she has Armand brought to her blindfolded and tries to win back his love for her, but the arrival of the King compels Armand to leave through a window. Armand cannot stand his new conditions and arouses the masses to revolt. A deputation is sent to the King's palace but the King is too busy to see them. His business of playing blind-man's bluff with his court is more important. In the midst of the game, he takes ill and is carried to his chambers. Jeanne is denied entry to his chambers. She awaits the doctor's verdict, and when she is finally allowed entrance she finds the King dead. The revolution is now in full swing. Many of the King's court are killed. Armand is head of the tribunal and condemns Jeanne to death on the guillotine, but later takes pity on his old love and tries to help her escape. The plot is discovered and Armand is shot. Jeanne is brought before the frenzied multitude and beheaded.

Fine Comedy And Thrills In Fox Drama

"Square Crooks," described as an American comedy drama of the underworld, will be shown Sunday only at the Arcade theater. There is abundant comedy, with many tense situations, which give it variety.

The story is about two former crooks, Eddie Ellison and Larry Scott, both of whom are trying to go straight. It is no fault of theirs that a dying friend of Larry's steals a diamond necklace and begs Larry to dispose of it and send the proceeds to his wife and family. Suspicion falls on the boys, as they have been discharged a day before the robbery. Complications set in when the jewels again are stolen by Mike Ross, a crook wanted for murder. The manner in which they unravel the mystery and capture Ross from the basis form a thrilling and emotional comedy drama.

There is an excellent cast, with Robert Armstrong as Eddie Ellison; Dorothy Appleby as Kay Ellison, his wife; Dorothy Brown, cute and vivacious as Jane Brown, in love with Johnny Mack Brown, who enacts the role of the other crook.

Others in the cast include Eddie Sturgis, Clarence Burton, Lydia Dickinson and Jackie Combs.

"The Bull Fighter" is the title of the latest Mack Sennett Pathé-comedy which will be another attraction on the program. Bull throwing of Mack Sennett's own special brand—not the kind indulged in by matadors, toreros and Congressmen—provides many a hearty chuckle. Billy Bevan is the principal bull thrower, while Madeline Hurlock's graceful beauty is an added attraction. Eddie Quillan is also in the cast.

Billie Dove Is Star In Picture At Star

Cleopatra, legend tells us, surrounded herself with beautiful women in order that her own superlative charms might outshine them. Now we have Billie Dove, star in First National Pictures, doing the same in films.

In "The Heart of a Follies Girl," which is to head the cinema bill at the Star theater Sunday and Monday, Miss Dove is supported by nearly fifty of Hollywood's youngest, prettiest and most slaphappy dancing girls. They compose the chorus in scenes of the famous girl-show, and take part in intimate back-stage scenes.

Then Mildred Harris, beautiful, blond, actress, and Clarissa Selwynne, have important supporting roles.

No one can say that Miss Dove is afraid of feminine competition! Although the star has some highly dramatic scenes, and must weep copiously in a few of them, she is beautiful in every foot of the film. In "The Heart of a Follies Girl," incidentally, she is gorgeously costumed. From her almost negligible Follies dancing garb to her evening gowns, and negligees, there is a grand display of the costumer's part.

Larry Kent plays opposite Miss Dove in the picture, and Lowell Slicerman does one of his best "villain" roles. A strong plot, adapted to the screen from Adele Rogers St. Johns' magazine story of the same title, makes "The Heart of a Follies Girl" suspenseful and breathless entertainment.
