Babe Herman Wins From Benny Dotson

PORTLAND, Ore., Apr. 25 (AP)—Babe Herman, Los Angeles light-weight, won a decision over Benny Dotson, Portland, in their ten-round bout last night. Herman outboxed his opponent. Dotson won a decision over Herman in their previous bout. Herman has won several times with a crushing right hook to the jaw and cut his eye with a left hook. Herman landed at in-fighting Frankie Holland, Spokane, gave Dotson his biggest knock, making the Nelson youngster move, possibly and countering with body punches. Fox aggressiveness however made the decision a good one. It was a ten round go.

Mike Stewart, Seattle heavy-weight, after being put down in the first round, came back to put Jack James, Portland, away in the fourth. James had to be carried to his corner. Eddie Graham, Salem, knocked out Soliper La Vina, Tacoma, in the fourth round of a curtain match.

FRISCO SHOWS POWER

One Day Manager Nick Williams, lower, believes of his San Francisco Seals and that is that the Seals have the best pitchers in the business in Walter Math, left, and Dutch Reuter, right. These two left-handers are the ace guys of the Seals' pitching staff. Williams, after seeing his club in action for a few days, feels he has a good chance to lead the pennant this season.

Ruth Gets Two Home Runs And Yanks Win Game

Jack is older than Governor Cleveland, although not yet so aged as Cy Young and Iron Man Joe McGinnity, even when they finally called it a day.

How Do You Pronounce It?

It is probably true that Hugh Critz, the "diamond head" sensation second baseman, would make just as astonishing a name and throw by any other name, but he probably finds his own pronunciation less popular than that of any other major league baseball player. Hugh makes Critz sound like "Critz," which is just what he does when he goes in a baseball uniform. Many players and fans say Critz as if it should rhyme with "Fitz." When You Miss Your Observer

When the former Highlander was making his first appearance in the Seals lineup, he went with "Columbia, S. C." in the season at Augusta, Ga. All the night hotel waiters and bellhops were out to see the season opened. It was announced that "Warhop will pitch for 'Columbia.' One of the bellhops, very drunk and very enthusiastic, started to vomit. "I used to see a Mr. Warhop pitch for New York when I was a bellboy at the St. Alton," he said. "If this is the same one I know him, he must be showing the ball underhand."
