May Day Tea Is Given Yesterday At the Ingle Home

An attractive May day tea, the proceeds from which will go toward the regular fund of the Missionary society of the First Presbyterian church, was given yesterday afternoon at the home of Dr. Margaret Ingle. Many baskets of spring flowers in the various colors of spring decorated the rooms, which formed an attractive setting for the affair. The prettily arranged tea table had as its centerpiece a May basket of tulips, daffodils and other flowers of the season. Here Mrs. E. P. Mossman and Mrs. J. George Wals presided. Members of the committee in charge received the guests and assisted with the serving. About 75 women, members and friends of the missionary society, called during the afternoon. The tea being from 2:30 until 4:30 o'clock.

At intervals during the afternoon program numbers were given. Mrs. Hal Bohnenkamp sang a group of numbers. Miss Gladys Miller played several piano selections. Covers were laid for 22 at five artistically arranged tables. Jonathan and lavender sweet peas formed a charming centerpiece for each small table, and other details were in the same colors.

Out-of-town guests included the Rev. and Mrs. William M. Bradner and little son, Billy, formerly of Cove, who left last night for Boston, Mass., where they will make their future home. Mr. and Mrs. Bradner have many friends in Eastern Oregon who regret to see them leave here. He has been rector of the Cove and Union churches for some time. Mrs. G. J. ## Y.W.E.A. Banquet At The La Grande

Sixty-five members and guests of the Young Women's Educational auxiliary of the First Methodist Episcopal church attended the annual banquet which was held last evening in the gold room of the La Grande hotel, and was declared to be one of the best in the history of the organization.

The tables were arranged in a U-shape and in the center was a miniature May pole with clever little dolls, twirling the streamers, which were in the pastel shades. This was an especially attractive feature of the decorations, which were arranged in accordance with the May Day idea throughout. There were large baskets of wild flowers, wild shrubs in blossom and fruit blossoms. In addition to a number of artistic baskets of cut flowers. The place favors were flowered nut cups and the menu cards and programs were also in keeping.

On the mezzanine was the auxiliary orchestra, which played while the guests were finding their places and at intervals during the program. A four-course dinner was served, including fruit cocktail, radishes, olives, consommé spring-time, chicken croquettes, julienne potatoes, garden peas, hot rolls, jelly, strawberry ice cream, cake, nuts, mints and coffee.

During the business meeting three important items were taken up. The members voted to give $50 of the money which they now have on hand to the Methodist church pipe organ fund, $25 to the church budget and $25 to the library's children's room fund. Mrs. Marguerite Cooper, as chairman of the program committee, announced a very interesting and clever program arrangement for the year, including a trip around the world with a stop at different countries. Leaders for each month were announced.

Miss Blanche Clark was elected president for the ensuing year to take the place of Miss Annetta Johnson, retiring president. Dr. Lewis Wilkes was elected vice president, and Mrs. Fausta Tyler secretary-treasurer.

Following the business session the orchestra played several selections. Miss Ruth Jackson, piano; Miss Mabel Doty, saxophone; Miss Mae Stearns, Mrs. P. S. Robinson, Miss Ethel Hansen, and Mrs. J. A. Woodcock, violins; and Miss Sarah Williamson, cello.

Miss Annetta Johnson presided as toastmistress and the toasts given were very clever. Using the May day idea, the general theme concerned the growth of a tree. Miss Johnson, who is retiring president, carried her part with grace and dignity and cleverness. Mrs. Sherwood Williams, the first president of the auxiliary, talked of "The Planting," and talking of the different soils and concluding that the right soil had been found for the planting of the auxiliary tree, for its growth, while requiring time and attention, has been good.

Miss Bertha Walsinger, a charter member, talk on "The Growth," declaring that the tree had made good growth and that its branches spreading out in different directions had provided benefits of various kinds, with the branch of friendship towering above them all. Miss Mabel Doty talked on "The Flowers," and Miss Blanche Clark, the new president, on "The Fruit." Her talk including some of the plans for the future.

Miss Louise Hunderup, World Wide club secretary for the Pacific Northwest of Oregon, was a guest and spoke briefly.

Bridge Pointers

By Milton C. Work

Yesterday's problem: Contract. No Trump; South Declarer. North Dummy; the initial lead by West and play by East are shown. How should Declarer operate his twenty-six cards?

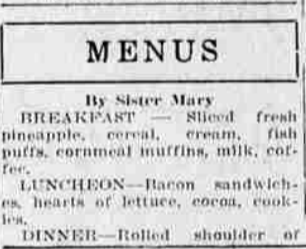

When the Six of Clubs is led, Declarer by using the rule of eleven and subtracting six from eleven, will note that there are only five Clubs higher than the card led not in the hand of the leader. Consequently East has no Club higher than the Six and Declarer can win the trick by playing the Nine from the Dummy, or with the eight in "closed hand." As it does not make the slightest difference which hand leads to trick 2, Declarer naturally would play the Five from Dummy and, when East refuses to follow suit, will know that West opened a six-card suit.

Declarer can count two Club tricks, two Diamond tricks, two Heart tricks and three Spade tricks—game; but of course he wants more if possible. There is nothing on which he can discard spreading out in different directions, had provided benefits of various kinds, with the branch of friendship towering above them all. Miss Mabel Doty talked on "The Flowers," and Miss Blanche Clark, the new president, on "The Fruit." Her talk including some of the plans for the future.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Andrews are well known here, having attended the La Grande high school. Mr. Andrews' parents live at Imbler.

Observing Week As Devoted To Child's Health

Five years ago Secretary Herbert Hoover who is president of the American Child Health association announced that May 1st shall be observed as national child health day.

He said: "I believe the time has come when we, as a nation, should embody into our articles of faith a pledge to conserve and develop our basic asset of childhood. Our democracy will have finally proved itself when it recognizes the rights of the child equally with the rights of the adult citizen."

This declaration had universal appeal and government departments, national women's clubs, churches and schools all over the country are enthusiastically sponsoring May Day celebrations. As a result of the last four birthdays there have been established 17,000 child health clinics throughout the country.

BONE TUMORS

By Joseph C. Bloodgood, M. D., Baltimore, Md.

Member Georgia Memorial. To cure a benign bone tumor, with complete restoration of function, and to give the patient with a malignant bone tumor the best opportunity for a permanent cure grows more difficult as our knowledge accumulates. The element of time between the first warning and the first examination must be reduced to a minimum. Delay in recognition and treatment of the benign lesion adds to the risk of loss of function. Delay with the malignant lesion means death from secondary growth to the lung.

The public must have correct information. It is not difficult to reach a small number with this valuable medical advice, but it is very difficult to reach the masses. In the first place, as there is little or no difference between the warning signs of three types of bone disease, the public must be educated to act toward them in an identical manner. It is a good plan, after all contusions or bruises of bone or joints, to have an X-ray made and the plate preserved. If the finding is negative, we have something for comparison should persistent symptoms indicate a second X-ray picture. If bone changes are found directly after the injury, one may be convinced that at least they existed previously and belong to the benign type. When the X-ray is taken days or weeks after the first injury, there is no positive evidence whether or not the bone changes were present before. For this reason many latent injuries, whose existence is revealed only by the X-ray some time afterwards, are incorrectly diagnosed as malignant. This immediate X-ray is also of importance in compensation and accident insurance. It may seem to some far-fetched advice to suggest an X-ray after a simple bruise or contusion. But accumulated experience forces me to make this statement.

The first essential feature for the recognition and relief of a bone injury is an X-ray. The X-ray is the searchlight which reveals all diseases of bone. The next most important is the application of this diagnostic instrument of precision the moment any symptoms appear. The medical profession is just beginning to realize its new responsibility for giving the public correct information and its larger opportunity for prevention and cure of disease by so gaining the confidence of the people that they will seek advice either in periodic examinations or the moment any symptoms are observed. The increasing number of cures or removal of bone since 1913, and especially since 1920, can be explained only by the education of the people and their enlightenment.
