GOD DOETH WELL.—Thou hast delt well with thy servant, O Lord, according unto thy word. Psalm 119:65.

Nearly all the candidates this year are consistently wet-and-dry.

The crow may be the farmer's friend, as an ornithologist says, but he can't compare with a congressman running for re-election.

If the committee finds anything that reflects on the character of Judge Rand, it will go down in history as a pure, unadulterated accident, with no credit due George Joseph's mud-slinging facility.

Here's a matter of constitutional rights that should have early attention. The constitution guarantees the right of franchise to every adult citizen and yet the Siamese twins, Violet and Daisy Hilton are denied by law the opportunity of voting. The law says only one voter can enter a voting booth at a time, and nature has fixed it so the Hilton twins must enter a booth together. Something or other has to be violated.

THE MISER

Old Paul Schelley of Philadelphia, aged 79, had not been seen for many days. Police, called by neighbors, found him as he had passed away, sitting quietly in a chair. Searching the house, they discovered treasure everywhere—in a dilapidated safe, in bureau drawers, on shelves, behind pictures, pinned to old calendars. There were coins, currency, stocks and bonds and real estate deeds—a quarter of a million dollars altogether. For that Schelley had lived in isolation and deprived himself even of simple comforts. Now a search is being made for heirs. What he toiled for and deprived himself of will probably be squandered by the beneficiaries.

It is an old story. People save for their old age, skimping and hoarding until they forget their purpose when the time comes, and forfeit the fruit of all their hardships. How many old people here are living miserably and pitifully today because they will not use the funds they have to make their last days comfortable!

True thrift, like a coin or banknote, has two sides. One side is wise saving; the other is wise spending. Either without the other is valueless. Saving alone will starve the saver, and indirectly starve others by stopping the wheels of business and industry. Spending alone will dissipate capital, making personal and social prosperity impossible. The two together mean prosperity.

How much happier the world might have been if Schelley should have spent some of his money to bring pleasure to others. If he had left it to an educational institution or hospital. But misers don't do such things. That's probably one reason they are called misers.

BUTTER PRICES HIGHER TODAY

No Changes Quoted in Egg Prices—Asparagus is More Plentiful

PORTLAND, Ore., May 8 (AP)—Butter prices were higher on local wholesale markets today, all grades except cube extras being quoted 1/2c above yesterday's figures. Butterfat likewise was higher with creameries paying 45c per pound delivered in Portland, and 41c at station, 42c on track. The price of butter was also a 1/2c higher. Local and outside demand continued strong and indications are that the market will remain firm to a shade higher during the balance of the week.

No changes were quoted in egg prices and the market today was steady. Yesterday's receipts were: 13,383 pounds; eggs 1,084 cases. Storage holdings last night were reported at 49,209 pounds of butter and 42,025 cases of eggs. Except for an easier feeling in the pork division, country dressed meats were steady. Best light hogs were bringing around 14 1/2c, about 1/2c below yesterday's high, while other classes sold at 14c and lower. Veal was firm at 18c for light stuff, with demand fairly good. Beef also was moving readily at steady prices. Poultry quotations were unchanged with supply about sufficient to satisfy immediate demand.

Asparagus from all parts of the state and outside points was plentiful and of excellent quality. Prices ranged from $1.10 per dozen to $1.25 with most sales at the higher figure. Spinach was of very desirable quality but prices were lower, around about $1 per box.

Selling Wave Is Checked In Late Drive By Bulls

NEW YORK, May 8 (AP)—Driving up a number of railroad and specialty shares in a spirited manner, stock market "bulls" succeeded late today in checking a selling wave which followed the advance of call money to 6 per cent. A number of important stocks were 3/4 to 1/2 higher at the close, while others, including General Motors and Radio were down 1/4 to 1/2 or more.

The closing was heavy. Individual stocks managed to breast the current of selling orders, particularly Reading, which got above 116 to a new high for the year. Montgomery Ward also was conspicuously strong, but the general run of shares sagged on realizing and short selling in consequence of the stiffer money. Total sales approximated 4,000,000 shares.
