Matrimony: A process by which a male annexes a critic.

Mrs. Nut (chiding her husband, a successful white powder): John, taste that and tell me what you think it is.

Mr. Nut: It tastes like soda.

Mrs. Nut: That's what I told Bridget. She declares it is rat poison. Taste it again to make sure.

"Hello, is that the pawnbroker?"

"Yes, sir."

"What time is it, please?"

"I am not here to tell the time."

On hot nights in Chicago, folks are frequently covered with nothing more than a revolver.

The young man had complained of insomnia, and, visiting a specialist, he was told to count until he fell asleep. He was also given a prescription.

On the following day he paid another visit to the specialist, and the latter was surprised to see that his patient looked even more tired than ever.

"Did you take the medicine?" he asked.

"Yes."

"You didn't forget to count as I told you?"

"No; I counted up to 19,568."

"And then?" said the specialist.

"You fell asleep?"

"No," replied the patient, "it was time to get up."

Two women in a railway compartment were quarreling about the window and insisted on calling the guard.

"If it's opened I shall catch cold and die," said one.

"If it's closed I shall suffocate," retorted the other.

A long-suffering man here intervened. "First open the window," he told the guard, "that will kill one. Then shut it. That will kill the other. Then the rest of us can all go to sleep."

AT THE THEATERS

Greta Garbo At Her Best in "Divine Woman"

Greta Garbo, who has risen to what might be termed the highest of film heights in her early American pictures, even transcends those elevations in her new starring vehicle, "The Divine Woman," which opened yesterday at the Arcade theater for a three day run.

The Swedish film star proved herself a great actress in "The Divine Woman," her first American picture, but placed side by side with "The Divine Woman," her initial production would appear a very poor picture.

"The Divine Woman" gives us an opportunity to see this actress outside the backgrounds of magnificence and elegance which have always marked her pictures. If anybody imagined that Greta's greatness was in any way due to her wardrobe they are due to be undeceived. She proves quite as capable an actress against a Montmartre background as she is in the

NOTICE OF SHERIFF'S SALE

Notice is hereby given, that I have received foreclosure execution and order of sale, issued out of and under the seal of the Circuit Court of the State of Oregon for the County of Union, dated the 25th day of April, 1928, in the suit therein pending, wherein State of Oregon, represented and acting by J. L. Patterson, Governor, Sam A. Koser, Secretary of State, George A. White, Adjutant General, Edward E. Bailey, and W. C. Culbertson, comprising the World War Veterans State Aid Commission of the State of Oregon, is plaintiff, and LaVon Pierson and Gerald Pierson, her husband, May White Dendler and N. A. Dendler, her husband, are defendants, to me directed, upon a judgment and order of sale, made and entered in said court on the 6th day of February, 1928, in favor of the above plaintiff and against the said defendants, for the sum of $2540.00, with interest thereon at the rate of 4% per annum from October 10th, 1923, until paid, and for the further sum of $256.00 attorney fees and $12.50 costs and disbursements in which said execution and order of sale I am commanded to sell the following described real property, being the property described in the mortgage being foreclosed in said action, to-wit:

The Southeast quarter of the Northeast quarter, the West half of the Northeast quarter, the East half of the Northeast quarter, the Northwest quarter of the Northeast quarter, the North half of the Southeast quarter of Sec. 22, Twp. 2 South, Range 37, East of Willamette Meridian, containing 320 acres, more or less, in Union County, Oregon.

NOW, THEREFORE, by virtue and authority of said writ, and in obedience to its commands, I will, on Monday, the 4th day of June, 1928, at 2 o'clock P. role of theatrical idol of Paris.

In "The Divine Woman," a Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture brilliantly directed by Victor Sjöström, Miss Garbo has one of the best vehicles of her career and her best cast to date. Lars Hanson proves himself a great actor in the role of the French soldier who deserted his regiment, stole and served a term of imprisonment for being a girl he loved.

As the theatrical impresario Lowell Sherman gives one of the best performances he has ever offered on stage or screen. Mention should also be made of the marvelous work of Polly Moran, Dorothy Cumming, Johnny Mack Brown and other members of the brilliant cast.

"Law of Range" Is Western Without Hokum

A western picture without "hokum" that is real and natural and that reason all the more thrilling is Tim McCoy's latest starring vehicle for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, "The Law of the Range," which will show at the Star theater Saturday only.

McCoy is an ideal western hero and Joan Crawford makes an ideally beautiful heroine.

The story is an exciting adventure of the '80s staged in the Lone Star state in the days when men were men and the bad man ruled the plains. McCoy has the role of a Texas Ranger, charged with the duty of maintaining peace over an area of many hundred square miles.

In the course of his duties he searches for "The Solitaire Kid," a new and fascinating type of desperado. Because both the ranger and the desperado are in reality hoodlums, separated in an Indian raid 20 years before, the climax of the picture, in which mutual recognition is achieved, has an adventurous interest that holds the audience from start to finish.

There are thrills a-plenty for even the most critical motion picture audience. A holdup that looks like a holdup, a thrilling cattle stampede and a practice fire so fierce that the audience comes out feeling their faces for blisters, are but a few of the tense moments of the film.
