Mr. Irvine's talk was a ridicule of jazz in modern life, accompanied by an expression of confidence that it will be thrown off. He looks to the next generation, the school people of today, to effect the cure.

CONGRESS IN THROES LAST MINUTE RUSH

Tennessee and Tydings of Maryland.

A last minute move in the house by Representative Byrnes, democrat, Tennessee to recomlit the agreement to the conferees proved futile. Speaker Longworth held that the report must either be voted up or voted down and a motion to refer it back was not in order.

Vote 43 to 34

The conference report which was adopted by a vote of 43 to 34, is a compromise between the senate and the house bills and would provide for government operation of the Muscle Shoals project and for the manufacture of nitrogen. The house must yet act.

At the insistence of the senate, a provision for manufacture of fertilizer was eliminated from the report early this week. The compromise provided, however, for the construction of the Cove creek dam.

Party lines were wiped out on the vote.

The senate had agreed to the report after an all night session during which its opponents exhausted themselves physically, the house toed it up today and under the clocklike machinery of that branch of congress it went through in quick order to be sent to the white house. The vote was 211 to 116.

When the Portland papers displayed the picture of a beautiful rose growing on an apple tree, we paused to wonder, but now Mrs. J. W. Hoatsm reports one to match it. She says she found a pure, white double "rose" growing on a Gravenstein apple tree, that it had four rows of petals, had no stamens and that it grew upright like a rose and not at all like an apple blossom. Also, it was pure white while the Gravenstein apple blossom is tinged with pink.

Three Horses In Valley Victims Of Weed Poison

IMBLER, May 25 (Special)—Two farmers living north of here had the misfortune to lose three head of good work horses last week, and two others are very sick and will probably die. Heber Conrad owned one of the horses and Thelbert Choate owned two of them. The two which are sick are also Mr. Choates'. This loss at a time when horses are being worked long days, every day, makes the loss even greater.

Mr. Choate in explaining the affair said that some time ago he secured a quantity of poison, planning to use it to kill a patch of morning glories in the field. It was not used and the containers in which it was kept were left in the field. These had apparently been broken, allowing the liquid out on the ground, where the horses found it.
