Annual roll call and the observance of the eighth anniversary of the Women of Mooseheart in La Grande were features that helped to make the regular meeting of that organization last night one of the outstanding sessions of the year.

The lodge met at the new Moose home with Mrs. A. N. Mayville, senior regent, presiding. Special ceremonies in honor of the anniversary were part of the evening's business meeting. After the business session families of the members joined them and a social hour during which refreshments were served was enjoyed. The Willow school orchestra, composed of Sylvia Turn, Roy and Merle DeLo, Eugene and Milton Schultz, played several selections and J. W. Kellogg played piano numbers. C. H. Olsen, Moose organizer, who is spending some time here, was a speaker during the evening. About 60 were in attendance.

The Royal Neighbors had an enjoyable meeting last evening at the K. of P. hall, with about 35 members attending. A short business meeting at which Mrs. L. W. Weeks, orator, presided, was followed by a social hour of visiting. Refreshments were served by committee No. 3, the chairman of which is Mrs. Gladys Miller.

Many Children Undernourished; Parents Are Found Responsible

WASHINGTON (AP)—Nationally researched by the United States Children's Bureau have convinced government experts that nearly one-third of the children in the country are undernourished. They also point to parental ignorance or lack of control over children as the underlying cause of malnutrition.

Although it is impossible to fix the exact number of such cases, the bureau reports a number of typical investigations are available, and says it is probably safe to conclude that from one-fourth to one-third of the children in the United States are definitely malnourished, and that the number of children of really superior nutrition is small. Of New York city's million children, the report continues, more than 215,000 were found to be distinctly below the normal or safe level, and the results of numerous studies made in different parts of the county since 1918 show similar and even more serious situations. In rural Kentucky, for example, 40 per cent of the children were classed by the examining physician as poor and 35 per cent as only fair.

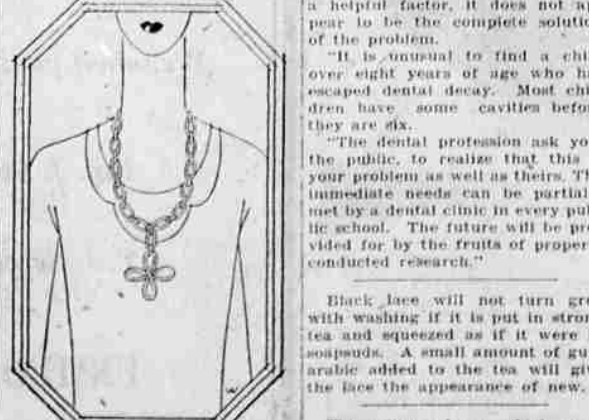

Malnutrition not only causes "stunted growth, anemia, nervous instability, and diminished energy but increased susceptibility to disease and lack of resistance to it," the report states. A large proportion of mortality among children, the report adds, "is due directly or indirectly to faulty nutrition. Scarlet fever, diphtheria, measles, pneumonia, tuberculosis and intestinal diseases claim most of their victims from those who are too poorly nourished to resist them."

"The relation between malnutrition and tuberculosis needs special emphasis. Tuberculosis may be an active cause of malnutrition, but a malnourished body is the best soil for tuberculosis."

"The most common cause of malnutrition found by the bureau is an insufficient supply of the proper protein and mineral supplying foods, such as vegetables, fruits, whole cereals, eggs and milk. Irregular or too hurried meals, insufficient rest or exercise, adenoids, and unhealthy teeth or tonsils are other contributing factors."

"But the underlying cause of all these, the report concludes, is parental ignorance or lack of control over the children. 'Many children are improperly fed,' the report states, 'because their parents do not know what are the proper foods for children nor how to spend their money to get the best return in food values; because they do not know that children should have regular, unhurried meals—including especially a good breakfast, and because they do not know that the habit of drinking tea and coffee and the habit of eating undernourished beverages are worse for children than for adults.'"

Ensembles To Stay, Color Namer Declares

NEW YORK (AP)—Even the zoo contributes ideas for naming fashion's colors says Mrs. Margaret Hayden Rolke who conceives the names for the musks, the dawns, the rose-beiges and the carnations of the world of style. "She also has resorted to airplane rides for inspiration for appropriate names for the old-fashioned tans, browns, reds, yellows and greens."

As managing director of the Textile Color Card association and vice president of the American Trade Association Executives, Mrs. Rolke serves industries using colors in any forms regarding the popular shades for the coming seasons. The dress manufacturers' representatives, members of Mrs. Rolke's association, confer and decide what new notes in color shall be on their list; the hat, shoe, handbag, and the jewelry makers do the same thing. The results are disseminated by color cards to all manufacturers of these garments.

Consequently Mrs. John Smith wears a harmoniously toned ensemble. Her frock is rose-beige, trimmed in deeper rose, her hat is rose-beige straw with a deeper rose quill, her shoes are rose-beige, and her leather handbag is rose-beige with dull gold trim.

"The ensemble note, perfect harmony from top to bottom of an outfit, is an American innovation," said Mrs. Rolke, and the product of the twentieth century efficiency in industry.

"The color ensemble idea is here to stay," Mrs. Rolke says. "It is the most beautiful, and it allows for just as much free play of individuality as the old-time riot of colors used to. The American woman brought it, and she is going to see that it is kept."

Continuing the subject of initial suit-bids and remembering that an initial bid is one made by Dealer or Second Hand after Dealer's pass, it may be well to summarize the points already covered, as follows:

Initial Bids With Five-Card or Longer Suits

A hand with a suit of five or more cards contains the strength to justify an initial suit-bid of one when it has:

- (a) Two quick tricks in the long suit, even without any strength whatever on the side. For example, Ace, King and three small cards with no side strength is an initial suit-bid of one.
- (b) One quick trick in the long suit (Ace or King-Queen) with one quick trick (Ace or King-Queen) on the side; or when it has one quick trick in the suit and the full equivalent of one quick trick on the side. (For example, Ace in the suit and two Kings in the side suits.)
- (c) King-Jack, King-Ten, Queen-Jack or Queen-Ten at the head of the long suit, with two quick tricks or the full equivalent of two quick tricks on the side.
- (d) Jack-Ten at the head of the long suit, with three quick tricks or the full equivalent of three quick tricks on the side.

Initial Bids With Four-Card Suits

(a) Four-card suits headed by Ace-King but without the Queen, should not bid initially without a side trick; but four-card suits headed by Ace-King-Queen or consisting of Ace-King-Jack-Ten should be bid without side strength.

(b) A four-card suit headed by Ace-King-Jack, the fourth card not being the Ten, should not be bid without some side strength; but a side King would be sufficient to justify that bid.

(c) Four-card suits headed by two of the three top honors, or four card suits headed by Ace-Jack-Ten, should be bid with a side Ace.

(d) Four-card suits headed by Ace-Jack (without the Ten) or by King-Jack-Ten, are doubtful bids; but a side Ace-Queen or one quick trick plus a King generally makes the bid advisable.

(e) To bid any weaker four-card suit, the hand would have to be of a very unusual type and have most extraordinary side strength. Generally some other bid would be more advisable.

The automatic "FLAVOR ZONE" oven knows when your roast is browned
Here's the range that says, "Play with the children, go shopping, go anywhere—I'll turn the heat down when your roast is browned."
A roast must first be properly browned and then cooked at a lower temperature in order that its flavor may be spread evenly throughout the meat. The Westinghouse Electric Range does this automatically.
Before you leave home, you put your dinner—roast and vegetables—in the oven. You make two simple adjustments, close the oven door, and stay out of the kitchen until dinner-time.
No other range, fuel or electric, cooks the Westinghouse way—the "flavor zone" way. No other range gives such complete freedom from the kitchen and such deliciously browned roasts, cooked by automatic control.
We have determined that everyone should be able to install an Electric Range. We make a Sensational offer. See us today.
