MENUS

By Sister Mary
BREAKFAST—Rhubarb sauce, cereal cooked with raisins, cream, crisp whole wheat toast, eggs, cooked in the shell, milk, coffee.

LUNCHEON—Shrimp jambalaya, hearts of lettuce with French dressing, sugar fresh pineapple, milk, tea.

DINNER—Filets of halibut with cheese sauce, new potatoes in parsley butter, beet greens, lemon roll, milk, coffee.

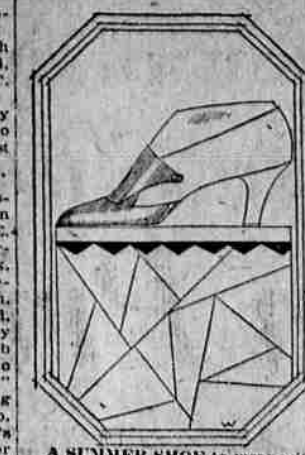

Shrimp jambalaya is a Creole dish, delicious and intriguing. Many of the most popular and expensive restaurants and tea rooms in the largest cities specializing in dishes of Creole cooking. If you are any housekeeper, if she will learn some of the tricks of seasoning that have been brought to us from other countries, can add variety and unusual palatableness to her family table.

Two medium-sized white onions, 2 tablespoons butter, 2 tablespoons flour, 3 tomatoes, 1/2 cup washed rice, 2 tablespoons minced parsley, half a clove of garlic, 1/2 bay leaf, 1/2 teaspoon chili powder, 4 cups boiling water, 1 1/2 cups boiled shrimp.

Fresh or canned fish can be used, but in any event be sure the tiny dark vein through the center is removed. Melt butter, add onions peeled and minced and let cook slowly until quite brown. Stir over flour and stir until thoroughly blended. Stir and cook until flour browns. Scaled tomatoes, plunge into cold water and slip off skins. Chop finely and add to onion mixture. At the same time add rice, parsley, garlic, bay leaf and chipolotle and boiling water. Let cook slowly about an hour until rice is tender and the mixture is thick. Season with salt and pepper and serve.

The pile powder so often used in Creole dishes is finely powdered sassafras leaves and imparts a peculiar pungency and flavor.

Mrs. Lola Griffith has recovered from her recent illness sufficiently to return to her mother's Thursday.

Guests of the No. 7 Trumper after a two-week visit by the intervenor opponent, has a hand dealer or with a worthless singleton in the overcalling suit, but with three suits of fair strength and about equal length and strength in any one of them. In such a case there probably is some in the combined hands if the suit most advantageous for both be selected; but if the partner of the No. 7 Trumper attempt to guess which suit that is, the odds are 2 to 1 against him. If he can double informally, accurately picturing his hand for the No. 7 Trumper, the result must be satisfactory; and for that reason such a double is considered informally in spite of the fact that the doubler's partner has bid.

Following are examples of such doubling Third Hands, Dealer having bid one No. 7 Trumper and Second Hand having bid two Spades.

OLD GOLD ran away with the show,

says H. B. Warner

in blindfold cigarette test

"It sounded like an all-star cast when they nanded me the four leading cigarette brands to smoke in the blindfold test. But one of the four ran away with the show . . . for I picked OLD GOLD instantly. There's a mildness and a smoothness to OLD GOLD that makes it stand out in any company."

H. B. Warner

Why you can pick them . . . in the dark

Three types of leaves grow on the tobacco plant . . . coarse top-leaves, irritating to the throat . . . withered ground-leaves, without taste or aroma . . . and the heart-leaves, rich in cool and fragrant smoking qualities. Only the heart-leaves are used in OLD GOLD.

How this test was made

The test was conducted by the representative of a leading Eastern University and a disinterested witness selected by them. Mr. Warner was asked to smoke each of the four leading brands while blindfolded, clearing his taste with coffee between smokes. Only one question was asked: "Which one do you like best?"
