Relief from CURE OF CONSTIPATION

A Battle Creek physician says, "Constipation is responsible for more misery than any other cause." But immediate relief has been found. A tablet called Rexall Ors, which has been discovered. This tablet attracts water from the system into the large dry, evacuating bowel called the colon. The water loosens the dry food waste and causes a gentle, thorough, natural movement without forming a habit or ever increasing the dose. Stop suffering from constipation. Chew a Rexall Ors tablet at night. Next day bright. Get 24 for 25c today at the nearest Rexall drug store. —Adv.

A LIMERICK
I would rather be here than in Guinea
And I'd rather be fat than skimpier.
The skinny guy's grouch
Makes everyone say oach,
But the fat of the fat man is guinea.

"I'm going to marry a pretty girl and a good cook."
"You can't. This is limerick."

Mr. Nobbs—Will my boy learn to drink at your school?
Prof.—Sorry sir, but we can hardly find enough for the faculty.

"I feel like a flapper-dis more-in," announced Weary Willie as he folded his coat and prepared to take his case under the palm-tree.
"A brackman made me walk home from a train ride."

Wife to husband who was always sitting reading a book and thought that her husband liked books better than her: "I wish I was a book—they would hold me more."

Husband: "Yes, dear, I wish you were an almanac, then I could get a new one each year."

Hotel Clerk: Just in from Chicago, I see, Mr. Smith.
Mr. Smith: No, that's a moth hole in my lapel.

"How many more have you, Mr. Jones?" asked the new preacher.
"Two living and one that became a telephone player," sadly replied Mr. Jones.

First Flapper: "Is your boy friend a lady killer?"
Second Ditto: "I'll say he is. He starves 'em to death!"

Everything goes by comparison in this old vale of tears and laughter and it seems to me now that it used to be a real pleasure to be knocked down by a bicycle occasionally.

HEALTH

Summer Is Baby's Season

WASHINGTON, (AP)—Summer, once baby's hardest period, has been converted by science into the most beneficial of the seasons.

This has been brought about through the long study of scientific investigators of the diseases and requirements of infancy and the gradual spread of the knowledge of their causes.

As a result of this work, many old ideas which made life difficult for the baby during hot weather have been largely discarded and many new ideas have gained circulation which minimize these difficulties and give him an opportunity to derive the season's natural advantages of abundant sunlight and fresh air.

It has demonstrated, among other things, that almost all mothers can nurse their babies at least for a time, if the proper effort is made, and physicians now rarely advise artificial feeding except for grave medical reasons.

"Although breast-feeding is important for the baby in all seasons," public health service officials have observed, "every mother should realize that it is doubly important in the summer. Many of the characteristics of the season—heat, flies, dust, etc.—tend to make artificial feeding a nightmare for the conscientious mother at that time."

During the hot season, the investigators have learned, it is usually

AT THE THEATERS

Lillian Gish In Gripping Drama At Arcade

War and its horrors have been translated to the screen in many forms; the surge and thunder of battle has been depicted in great spectacles; the side of the soldier told in "The Big Parade," but to Lillian Gish has fallen the task of telling the side of those who, perhaps suffer most but whose side has never before been presented—the side of the woman who face starvation, grief and moral disintegration as a side issue in the struggles of nations.

Such is her message in "The Enemy," which is a graphic depiction of "Channing Pollock's" famous stage drama, showing at the Arcade theater for three days starting today. A story of war away from the battlefield; a story of the hatreds, hysteria and breaking down of human relationships that follow like a pestilence in the wake of war propaganda.

On the stage the story was held in the drama's greatest gift to the cause of peace—the clothing of a vehicle for Miss Gish in the new picture, now playing at the Arcade theater, is one of the most gripping plays the famous star has ever appeared in.

It presents a new Lillian Gish—a Lillian Gish in a modern role, in modern garb, and in an intensely modern story. It tells of the after-war effects of international hatreds in a powerful dramatic theme. At times the star rises to almost sublime heights in the graphic portrayal of the tragic Paul.

Fred Niblo directed the picture, with a notable cast. Ralph Forbes plays Carl, the husband, and Ralph Emerson the English lover. Frank Currier and George Fawcett have two splendidly-handled character roles as the old fathers of the couple, and Karl Dane and Polly Moran supply comedy relief generously and well. Fritz Ridgway in the role of Fritz and John S. Peters as Fritz enact an interesting counterplot in the story, and the little Billy Kent Schaeffer plays the child.

It is here that the fun begins and one comic situation succeeds another from stepping on lions' tails to being fought over by the jungle beatles.

Sally Phipps and Nick Stuart make a charming couple in the feature roles and the comedy team is composed of Sammy Cohen and Ted McNamara, Jack Penick and Carl Miller are prominent in the supporting cast. This is a mirth-quake from start to finish.

"Why Sailors Go Wrong" Coming To Colonial

Hilarity will be in order at the Colonial theater as long as the comedy, "Why Sailors Go Wrong," is on view there, which is showing on Friday and Saturday. The story starts off in a big city where two pals, one Jewish and the other Irish, are shown as friendly competitors in the transportation business.

Sammy drives a broken down taxi cab and Mac a rattle trap-hauler with an old white nag for motive power. Business being slow, the boys decide to help two lovers in distress. This takes them on board a palatial yacht where they are shanghaied and made to wash decks and peel potatoes. These distasteful duties are interrupted when the craft is wrecked and the entire party cast on a desert island inhabited by cannibals, hula girls, monkeys and other jungle denizens.

"Sunset Legion" At The Star Friday

Janniping a horse from a standing start through plate glass windows is a feat of horsemanship accomplished by Fred Thomson in his latest Paramount production, "The Sunset Legion," showing at the Star theater tomorrow. Fred rode Silver King, his famous trick horse, in this performance.

The horse cleared a barrier four feet high, light wood window frames flew in all directions. The glass was made out of celluloid so that neither the horse nor the rider would be cut.

One of the most amazing feats—wise to reduce the amount of food given to babies, and even older children who are taking a more or less mixed diet should be carefully guarded against overeating. At the same time, they advise, the infant and little child should be given plenty of cool boiled water to drink and not bundled in heavy clothing with the temperature rising.

Regular habits of feeding, bathing, sleeping and airing also are held to be important, with plenty of rest and sleep and the daily bath supplemented by an occasional refreshing sponge.

"In moderate climates," they say, "the baby can virtually live in the open air in summer. Summer brings a far richer supply of ultraviolet light than any other season, and this is vital to the healthy growth of the bones as well as other parts of the body."

The popular western star and his horse were called upon to perform this feat, when he was seen as the Black Rider, a mysterious plainsman, who engulfs a band of outlaws by his thrilling and dramatic feats. He enters a barroom, owned by "Honest John" a questionable character in spite of his appellation. After terrorizing the inmates of the place the rider and horse jump pell-mell through the show window.

Another interesting feature of this production, is the clothing of Silver King, Thomson's white horse, with black cloth. Thomson would not ride any other horse in the picture, therefore Silver King was fitted with a "suit" of black cloth. It required the services of two tailors and took a week of patient fitting before the suit or covering was made. This was made more difficult by the nervousness of Silver King, who is a highly spirited animal.

Edna Murphy, the beautiful blonde player, plays opposite the western star, William Courtright, veteran actor, also appears in the supporting cast. The production was directed by Alfred Werker and Lloyd Ingraham from the story by Frank Clifton.
