Lee R. Bouvy, will arrive in La Grande tomorrow evening from New York City.

Dr. Wilkes has spent the winter in eye, ear, nose and throat post graduate study in the New York Post Graduate Medical school and the New York Eye and Ear infirmary.
The latter institution is one of the oldest and largest specialty hospitals in the world.

Dr. Wilkes will continue here as assistant to Dr. Bouvy in the Foley

Coolidge Leaves Washington Tonight

WASHINGTON, June 13 (AP)— Following a second consultation this morning between Colonel James F. Couper and Lieutenant Commander Joel T. Bacon, White House physicians, the condition of Mrs. Coolidge was considered sufficiently improved to allow the departure tonight of President and Mrs. Coolidge for the summer white house in Wisconsin.

BORAH PLANK ADOPTED BY G. O. P. GROUP

...to continue its labors in its overnight session made it certain that the platform would not be presented to the convention until tomorrow.

After the sub-committee has wound up its work, the entire resolutions committee must pass judgment upon its action.

Adoption by the sub-committee of the Borah plank regarding prohibition enforcement is certain to lead to a fight in the entire committee and from there it may find its way to the floor of the convention. Leaders in New York, New Jersey and other delegations have declared against any declaration by the convention which would identify the prohibition amendments over other amendments in the constitution.

Farm Problem Big
As the sub-committee adjourned, members would not even venture a guess as to the time that would be required to thresh out the farm relief problem. It was indicated very clearly that the division in the committee was wide, and it was regarded as possible that this subject might have to be referred to the entire committee for a decision.

There also were intimations that the controversy over the farm relief plank might not be settled until the subject had been taken to the floor of the convention.

By M. E. Barker
(Associated Press Writer)
KANSAS CITY, June 13 (AP)— The Pacific northwest, represented by the platform sub-committee of the republican national convention by John Sullivan, of Seattle, has been granted its desires in several respects in the preliminary deliberations.

It became known today that planks on reclamation, tariff, revision veterans relief, increased federal aid for forest roads and trails and development of Pacific coast harbors and rivers, have passed the eyes of the sub-committee for reporting to the full resolutions committee later today.

The reclamation plank in general terms follows lines requested by backers of the Columbia basin project, though containing no specific mention of the Columbia project or others.

It pledges the party to reclamation development as rapidly as practicable.

While no specific mention is made of solar timber or slightly in the tariff plank, it declares in general terms for tariff revision whenever necessary to protect American industry against foreign invasion.

Planks for increased federal aid for construction of trails and roads through national forests were presented by Edgar J. Adams, of Eugene, Ore., who also advocated a proposal for federal development of Pacific coast rivers and harbors as rapidly as shipping needs of the section demanded.

Best And Davis Face Arrest In Forest Reserve

PORTLAND, Ore., June 13 (AP)— Carrying orders to arrest E. H.
Best and Emery Davis and move their families from the ground they occupy in the forest reserve in the Fish creek desert near Roseburg, Oregon, United States forestry marshal left here last night for Douglas county.

Recently the government was informed that Best and Davis were still occupying land from which they were ordered last year because it was not open to settlement.

Both are disabled ex-service men. Best is a World war veteran and Davis served in the Spanish-American war. Cochran carried a wand of posse slips to swear in help if needed.

CONVENTION STRENGTH IS FOR HOOVER

head and while the band played on withdrew from the front of the platform, out of sight of many of the delegates.

Nogton continued to vainly address the chair and then undertook to climb up for a personal talk with the chairman. But a group of delegates from other states intercepted him and after a short and apparently good natured discussion, the North Dakota delegate, as he was turning back toward his seat he met Senator Gillett, of Massachusetts, with whom he had served some years ago in the house.

"Why don't you make a speech?"
asked Norton.

But Gillett shook his head and the incident apparently was closed.

Convention Waits
All of this time, the parliamentary situation, as they say in the senate, was that the convention was waiting for the report of its committee on delegate credentials, which had been in session most of the time since yesterday. The chairman of this committee was Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, assistant attorney general. The convention had been waiting for her nearly an hour when she finally walked down a center aisle and ascended to the platform.

In a voice as clear as any heard in the big hall the lady chairman made a brief preliminary statement of what the committee had done, and then began reading from the formal report of the committee, typewritten on a sheet of legal sized bond. The report began with Florida, explaining the circumstances which led up to the delegate contest in that state, and then proceeded similarly with the other states from which there are delegate contests.

When Mrs. Willebrandt's announced approval of the Hoover delegation from Texas a shot of "Atta Boy!" came from a far gallery where a Hoover booster perched. That and an occasional spate-r of hand clapping, was about all the interest in the attorney general met as she continued to read. The hall was remarkably quiet and attentive.

Minority Report Heard
As Mrs. Willebrandt concluded Hastings of Delaware, holding a proxy for Coleman DuPont of that state, was recognized to present a minority report on district delegates from Texas. It recommended seating a different list of Worcester delegates which Hastings read.

"The only point we want to bring before the convention is whether or not the law of the state of Texas is binding upon the convention," he said.

The majority report meant practically adoption of an "until rule" for republican national convention delegates the speaker went out to make a "serious question".
Mrs. Willebrandt took the platform again to answer Hastings.

While a national convention makes its own laws such a convention in other years that state laws on delegation selections apply.

Hoover Strength Wins
The roll call found the proponent Hoover strength lining up with a great deal of regularity in favor of seating the Creager delegation. The first snag was found when the name of Georgia was reached. The delegation chairman cast ten votes for the Creager delegation and six against it, and immediately a coal black negro delegate bounced out of his chair to challenge the accuracy of the count and demanded that the delegation be polled. The clerk called the Georgia delegate names one by one and amid a roar of laughter the total was found to be fourteen for Creager and two against.

New York got a big hand from the anti-Hoover people by casting 59 votes against the Hoover-Creager slate and 31 in its favor. A moment later in a perfect roar of cheering, Secretary Mellon cast the whole of Pennsylvania's 72 for Creager. The final vote was 252 1/2 to 67 1/2, the first test of strength between Hoover and anti-Hoover forces, with Hoover winning.

After the roll call with a smothering majority for the Hoover people had been concluded, and the result announced, a burst of Hoover cheering, Senator Moses was escorted to platform to take the chair. Presented by Senator Deneen of Illinois, with the gavel, Moses took hold of the reins of the convention organization in the same energetic manner that he presides as president pro-tem of the senate, and delivered an inaugural address breathing the fire of defiance against the democrats.

The delegates and galleries liked the forceful sentences and driving gestures which he lavished on the sentiments of republicanism and he was cheered repeatedly.

MOSES PREDICTS MILITANT DRIVE

"The people stood with us then.

Looks to November Victory "Less than ten years ago the republican party stood firm against the surrender of our national sovereignty through minor members—and the people then stood with us twice by majority of more than seven millions.

"So we shall stand firm again here and now—and in November the American people will again look to November Victory.

"Sincerity in a victory splendidly triumphant as any as we have ever achieved.

"Upon the platform that we then construct we will place a candidate whose personality fits out principles and the nation's present necessities. We are not barren of choice may fall, we know it will not rest in unworthy hands and that the leadership that we will here set up will assure to the country a republican ascendancy which will endure for at least eight years more.

Five Million Reasons
"There are at least five million reasons why this must be so—because there are at least five million more republicans than there are democrats in this country.
These millions united as we know they will be when this convention is completed and joined by millions more to whom our candidates and our principles will appeal, will sweep on to an overwhelming victory at the polls.

"There is no occasion for the people to distrust our party and there is no occasion for our party to distrust the people. Their sober judgement will rest with us."

After outlining many reasons why American people will be with the republican party at the polls in November, Senator Moses concluded:

"Bring Him On"

"And in seeking for an agency to carry forward the program of the social order in the United States we know our people do not intend to throw our country within the tender embrace of Tammany hall.

"Whether he emerge from another spectacle like the one-hundred and three-round battle of the Madison bear garden, or whether he come from an overpowered convention held spell bound by the glare of the Tammany tiger, we are ready for him. Bring him on and we will bury him. We welcome him with hospitable hands to a bloody grave.

"And we care not whether his name be Brown, Jones, Robinson or Smith."

The Observer feels very much gratified at being able to get Mrs. McLean again for the Cooking School which we will sponsor next week at the high school auditorium. Mrs.
McLean was a real "hit" with her cooking and table service instruction here two years ago during our Home Makers' Institute. She is expert; she is practical; she is not "high hat" either in her instruction or her methods. She appeals to town and country people alike—and she gives a wealth of new ideas in menus, recipes, food combinations, and is an authority on the proper innovations in table service. The school is, of course, absolutely free to everyone and every housewife in these two counties is invited. We know you'll like Mrs. McLean.

A fleet of 16 light trucks which patrols the highways under the auspices of the Automobile Club of Southern California has run three years without any serious mishap. No person has been killed or maimed, and no car seriously damaged. The fleet has covered more than 1,200,000 miles in these three years. Each driver is required to take a severe test before he is permitted to operate these trucks, and the morale, as seen by the record, is high. According to averages the country over, in that number of miles, the fleet might have been expected to have a casualty list of 1.2 dead and 36 injured, whereas it has escaped any death or personal injury. It can be done. And as time goes on, more and more drivers will learn to do it. The marvel is that with all kinds of people driving, most of them without any test or license, motor travel should be as secure as it is.

FISHING
A campaign has been started by a sportsman's organization at Tillamook, Ore., to get farmers to permit fishing on their grounds, and to get sportsmen to respect the privilege.
The club has had a lot of signs printed like this:
FISHING PERMITTED
Don't damage the fences.
Don't drive across fields. Keep to the edge of the meadows.
Leave no rubbish.
Close the gates.
Be considerate if you wish to continue this privilege.
The farmers are being asked to replace the "No Fishing or Hunting" boards with these signs, and the association agrees to do all it can to get sportsmen to be considerate.
The idea is that hunters and fishermen in general add to the profit of the farmers. They spend money freely on their vacations. Says a Tillamook paper:
"They must eat, they must sleep, they must buy gas, tackle and equipment. They rent boats, sometimes hire guides. They make many demands which the resourceful farmer can capitalize. It is a matter of common knowledge that every sportsman's organization favors the propagation of game and fish and their protection during certain seasons of the year. This helps the landowner who lives along the banks to be able to go out and fill his basket and satisfy his fish hunger whenever fancy dictates."

If the heedless sport-seeker will conform to rules set by clubs and sportsmen, farmers will be more willing to grant favors, and both farmer and sportsman will benefit. It's the fisherman who fishes in and out of season, above and below the limit who causes most of the trouble. He needs regulating most of all.
