Women are th' limit. A New-castle (Pa.) woman has gone 'Vaporized, Indiana, I' spend th' summer with her husband's first wife, while he lays out a sentence at Youngstown, O. NORRIS HITS AT SEVERAL REPUBLICANS

Smoot of Utah, chairman of the platform committee, William S. Vane, Bascom Stimp and Irvine L. Lenroot.

"Senator Pass, the keynote of the convention," defended Daugherty on the floor of the senate," he said, and opposed the invasion. "Mabel Walker Willebrandt, chairman of the important committee on credentials—the committee that was careful to send all the Hoover delegates, from the solid south—while she was assistant attorney general of the United States, went to New York to testify in behalf of Daugherty.

HOOVER IS ALL-AMERICAN

From Herbert Hoover's message to Senator Moses, chairman of the republican convention at Kansas City:

"I have your telegram and I sincerely appreciate the confidence which the party has shown in me and the honor bestowed upon me.

"You convey too great a compliment when you say I have earned the right to the presidential nomination. No man can establish an obligation upon any part of the American people. My country owes me no debt. It gave me as it gives every boy and girl, a chance. It gave me schooling, independence of action, opportunity for service and honor. In no other land could a boy from a country village, without inheritance or influential friends, look forward with unbound hope.

"My whole life has taught me what America means. I am indebted to my country beyond any human power to repay. It conferred upon me the mission to administer America's response to the appeal of afflicted nations during the war. It has called me into two cabinets of two presidents. By these experiences I have observed the burdens and responsibilities of the greatest office in the world. That office touches the happiness of every home. It deals with the peace of nations. No man could think of it except in terms of solemn consecration.

"You ask me for a message:

"A new era and new forces have come into our economic life and our setting among nations of the world. These forces demand of its constant study and effort, if prosperity, peace and contentment shall be maintained. . . . But the problems of the next four years are more than economic. In a profound sense they are moral and spiritual. This convention has sounded a note of moral leadership.

"Shall the world have peace? Shall prosperity in this nation be more thoroughly distributed? Shall we build steadily toward the ideal of equal opportunity to all our people? Shall there be secured that obedience to law which is the essential assurance of life at our institutions? Shall honesty and righteousness in government and in business confirm the confidence of the people in their institutions and their laws?

"Government must contribute to leadership in answer to these questions. The government is more than administration; it is power for leadership and co-operation with the forces of business and cultural life in city, town and countryside. The presidency is more than executive responsibility. It is the inspiring symbol of all that is highest in America's purpose and ideals."

The Observer reprints this portion of his message because it feels that every republican voter should read it, analyze it. It is an impressive message. It is doubtful if Hoover will write a better campaign speech than this between now and November. Considered in the light of his remarkable record of achievement during the past twenty years, it is a very powerful argument for Mr. Hoover's election and is indicative of his national and world viewpoint, of his national and world citizenship. He is not California's candidate, nor Oregon's candidate, nor Iowa's candidate, though he was born, educated, and established residence in each state. Rather he is all-American, already as well known in Washington, D. C., as he is in his home city on the western coast and as well acquainted with the economic problems of the Mississippi valley as he is with those of the Columbia Basin. The party is fortunate in such a leader.

Close Irregular In Street After Early Reactions

NEW YORK, June 16 (AP)—Renewal of selling pressure in today's market disclosed the presence of a number of weak spots, particularly among the high priced specialties. Early declines of 1 to 7 points were cut down and in a number of cases wiped out by the late rally which was stimulated by the covering operation of Bear traders.

Radio, Wright and Dupont each broke six points to new lows on the current reaction, although radio had regained all its loss in the last hour. International harvester dropped 6 1/2 points, Case Threshing 4 1/2, American Bank note 4 1/2 and Otis Elevator, Curtiss Aero, and International Telephone sold down 1 to nearly 2 points, recovered and climbed more than a point higher. The closing was irregular. Total approximated 1,300,000 shares.

Slaughter Of Three Probed; Ex-Hubby Jailed

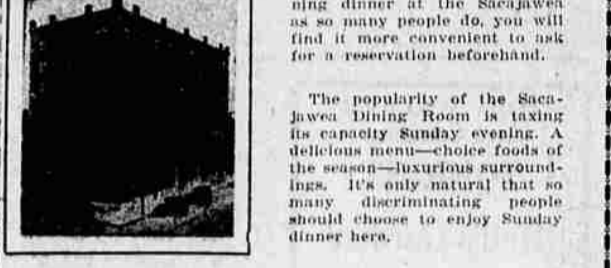

STAR, Okla., June 16 (AP)—The apparent slaughter of a family of three and subsequent burning of their bodies in their home was investigated here today in a court inquiry conducted by Ben Bell, county attorney of Haskell county.

The charred bodies of Dan Stella, his wife and their infant daughter, were found in the ruins of their home last week. Henry McIntosh, former husband of Mrs. Stella was arrested.

A court ruling allows Chicago to use the word "brew" in restaurant and cafe signs. That's the wildest town!
