Comes Back to Valley—Seventy-six years ago C. B. Bagley, of Seattle, Wash. came through the Grande Ronde valley, a fertile field of bunch grass—and nothing more. Yesterday he came back and found—La Grande. Seventy-six years is a long time to mention, even to a pioneer, but Mr. Bagley referred back to his advent as a lad into this valley by wagon over crude trail, with clear memory. He was here with his wife and members of his family yesterday looking over the country which he said he has wanted for years to visit again, and had a mighty interesting day. He enjoyed seeing the Pendleton country which he remembers well. In the afternoon Mr. Bagley went to the foot of Mill canyon to see the trail marker and look over the land that he crossed in '52. The trail over the mountains was so steep that in some places we had to tie the ropes to the wagons and let them down," he related yesterday. Mr. Bagley has been in the newspaper business for years. He is hale and hearty and active and displayed an amazingly hearty handshake.

COOLIDGE TO AID HOOVER IN CAMPAIGN

democratic national convention, Chairman Work said he thought Governor Smith had opened his campaign by repudiating one of the fundamental points in his party's platform. The prohibition plank in the Houston declaration of principles had been drawn up, he said, in the specific purpose of preventing any change in the existing prohibition statutes. Governor Smith by pledging himself to work for their revision in his reply to Senator Robinson's telegram of congratulations for his nomination, had contradicted this plank.
