Lydia Grandy Hostess At Party Honoring Visitor

of the most interesting affairs to take place here during the summer season was an afternoon party at which Mrs. Lydia Grandy was hostess yesterday at home on Washington avenue, bringing Mrs. J. M. "Auntie" Berry to Portland.

Partly brought together by years of association in La Grande, it was a pleasant occasion, indeed, for them, and the afternoon passed swiftly while they talked happily, reminiscing of early days in this, their home city, when those present were some of Grandy's most honored and respected pioneers.

During the afternoon Miss Helen James, granddaughter of Mrs. Grandy, played a group of piano pieces that were heartily enjoyed. Miss Williams and her sister, Jean Williams, assisted their mother in serving delightful refreshments at the close of the noon.

Miss Berry is visiting here with brother, L. L. McKennon and with Mrs. J. D. McKennon, with her many friends here, will return to Portland this afternoon after spending about a year here. Mrs. Berry was for many years a prominent La Grande resident.

Guests of Mrs. Grandy yesterday were Mrs. J. D. McKennon, Mrs. McKennon, Mrs. Pete Thiel, Mrs. Della Scott, Mrs. Emma King, Mrs. J. E. Foley, Mrs. Anna Langford, Mrs. Lena Berntson, Mrs. Stacie Lambert, Mrs. Grandy's daughters, Mrs. E. Osterling and Mrs. Sherd Williams and her daughters, Helen and Helen, and the honor.

Women of the Mooseheart Legion held a regular business session last evening with Mrs. A. N. Mayville, senior evening, presiding.

Little was done outside the routine order of business. A new member was voted into the organization.

Baptist Society In Enjoyable Meet

A splendid meeting of the Baptist Women's society took place yesterday afternoon when Mrs. Ray Briggs entertained 21 members of the organization at her home on Y avenue.

Mrs. William Shade, president of the society, presided at the interesting session. Mrs. O. F. Hess was leader for the day, having as her subject, "The Stewardship of the Needle." Miss Mildred Fox gave a talk on the mission study of the society, "The New Africa." The hostess served refreshments at the close of the afternoon.

The society will hold its next meeting on July 20 at the William Shade cabin near Hilgard when Mrs. J. W. Maguire will be the leader.

Miss Ada Farrell, of Coeur d'Alene, Ida., and Robert Porter, of Hot Lake, were married yesterday at the Episcopal rectory, the Rev. Oliver Riley officiating at the ceremony.

The couple was attended by Mr. and Mrs. Edward Lille. A reception was given in the evening at the Hot Lake sanatorium for Mr. and Mrs. Porter, who will make their home there in the future.

Guests and patients at Hot Lake were entertained last evening at a musical program given by Miss Bethel Trill, of La Grande, and Mrs. Harriette Brotherton, of Los Angeles. Both sopranos were in excellent voice and sang in delightful manner. Their program was one of melodious tunes, songs, pleasingly varied. Probably the most popular group Mrs. Brotherton gave was her first, "O Promise Me" and "Lullaby." Both these rich-toned and well loved numbers were especially suited for Mrs. Brotherton's voice. Miss Trill delighted the audience particularly with her second group, "By the Waters of Minnetonka" and "A Birthday." The songs with which Miss Trill sings and the musical spontaneous quality of her voice, made these two numbers very pleasing.

GRANGE HALL (Special)—One of the largest and most enjoyable parties held in the district for some time was given by the members of the J. D. Smutz family Wednesday evening at their home here.

The principal feature of the evening's amusement was the large display of fireworks which included sky-rockets, roman candles, sparklers and all sizes and descriptions of fire crackers. At twilight members of the party began to enjoy the boom of the powder and the noise was kept up during the whole evening. Games were enjoyed by those who did not care to take part in discharging the fireworks, but when the more spectacular explosives were fired all members of the party were interested spectators.

Refreshments were served later in the evening.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

This is a continuation of yesterday's Contract article which discussed the question of whether a game-going bid at No Trump set the declaration.

We will illustrate by showing two hands of opposite types, either of which North might have after South bid three No Trumps and West passed.

With No. 1 North would want to bid four Spades and to have the bid announce: "Partner, my hand is of such a character that the trump must be Spades. You are expected to let my Spade bid stand. You are not to rebid your No Trumps, nor are you to bid for a slam in Spades unless your hand is so wonderfully strong that my long Spades will assure such a slam."

With No. 2, North would want to bid four Spades but with a very different meaning than No. 1. In this case he would want his four Spades to mean: "My hand is so strong that sitting opposite to your three No Trumps I believe we probably can make a slam. My spade bid tells you that my hand has slam possibilities, if not probabilities, and also that I have the Ace of Spades. Under no circumstances are you to pass my Spade bid; I am not showing you length in Spades. You can bid four No Trumps if my bid does not seem to you to be slam promising, or you can bid five of any other suit to show the Ace of that suit. Should you do that, I will not permit your bid to stand, but will at least bid five No Trumps."

Of course both of the above meanings cannot be given to the overcall of three No Trumps with four Spades and, therefore, the most serviceable meaning should be selected. The further we test Contract bidding, the more important we find it not to sacrifice a game-producing bid for the sake of making a slam-indicator. Furthermore, with a hand of the No. 1 type, there is no way for North to save the situation except by playing upon the basis that the bid shows length; but with a hand of the No. 2 type, North may reach the slam contract by jumping his partner's No Trump should be considered overcall partner's game-going No Trump should be considered as a length-shower.

Next Friday, Minor overcalls will be considered and illustrated.
