If a man expects to have enough money to pay his bills, he must take the risk of appearing stingy now and then.

Heard the other day of a man who while tanked up on bootleg liquor was bitten by a rattler. The man recovered but the snake died.

Doctor—You are in bad shape and you must take a vacation. Patient—But doctor, I'm in the midst of my vacation now.

Doctor—Then you must take a vacation from your vacation.

Young Man: "Take my seat, madam."

She: "Thanks, I get off at the next stop, too."

Our philosophy is that the world ends every night and starts out new again every morning.

Business Man in Heaven: It's not that I mind the harp playing, you understand. It's just that I can't see any future in it.

When you see a little ant hurrying along the sidewalk it probably is going to a picnic.

The brother who wastes his part of the family fortune never forgives the other brothers for saving theirs.

"Is it true that our older generation was more moral than we?"

"No. It just took the old man longer to light the oil lamp in the parlor, than it does now to push the button."

It certainly is pathetic when youth calls to youth and then gets the wrong number.

Hilarious Comedy To Open At Colonial

One of the season's most unusual productions has been booked at the Colonial theater here beginning Sunday.

The picture is "The Big Noise," a First National Picture based on a story written directly for the screen by Ben Hecht, the prominent short story writer and novelist.

Hecht has drawn from his vast experiences as a reporter and feature writer in Chicago dailies for his plot for "The Big Noise," which involves a political campaign in which a nonentity is made famous through publicity for a short space of time, then dropped back into oblivion when the purpose has been served.

Chester Conklin has the best role of his career as the "headliner" who rises to fame with breath-taking rapidity and sinks into obscurity at the same bewildering gait.

Alice White and Jack Egan have the ingenue and juvenile leads respectively, and Sam Hardy and Ned Sparks, both veteran troupers, play important comedy roles. David Torrence, Rodd Rosing, Fred O'Grady and other prominent players are in supporting roles.

Allan Dwan directed "The Big Noise" from Thomas Geraghty's adaptation of Hecht's story.

Gloria Swanson's "Sadie Thompson" Coming Sunday

Gloria Swanson's second independent production, "Sadie Thompson," will be the feature film at the Arcade theater Sunday. Raoul Walsh, director of "What Price Glory?" made the film, also collaborating with Miss Swanson on the scenario, and acting the role of Sergeant O'Hara. W. Somerset Maugham's classic story, "Miss Atkinson," is the original source on which the film, "Sadie Thompson" is based.

Lionel Barrymore appears in the film as Alfred Atkinson, a self-appointed and officious reformer. Mr. and Mrs. McHail are played, respectively, by Charles Lane and Florence Midgley. James Marcus, Will Stanton and Sophia Ortega are also in the cast.

"Sadie Thompson" is the narrative of an intolerant individual's insistent projection of his dominant personality into the pitifully weak and feminine existence of an outcast girl who is trying to "live and let live." Maugham's classic is a drama of tolerance, a colorful, romantic, thrilling story of human souls in conflict. Greatest of all Maugham's literary creations is "Miss Thompson" the gauntly dressed lady who flaunts a parasol and tilts a high-hat feather at a Marine as readily as she flares into stinging resentment at self-appointed intruders into lives of others. Gloria Swanson has said that she likes "Sadie Thompson" better than any other one of her screen characterizations; that she was happiest in acting the part. Hence, film-goers who attend the Arcade theater will be seeing on the screen Gloria Swanson's favorite character and W. Somerset Maugham's greatest literary character.

Humor, wistful and sardonic; anger, sudden and bitter; soul-struggle, exhausting and killing; love, sacred and profane; these are the essence of Gloria Swanson's film, "Sadie Thompson," just as they were the soul and body of Maugham's classic story.

Wonder if the newest Kellogg plan for outlawing war has any reference to the possible necessity of aggressive defense?

"Homestruck" Showing at Star on Sunday

The most popular musical comedy star, the toast of Broadway, dreaming of a vine covered cottage and the happiness to be found by his hearth; this is the role played by Viola Dana in her latest starring vehicle, for FBO, "Homestruck," which is coming to the Star theater Sunday when it begins a two-day run. This is the most powerful and at the same time the most interesting part that the gifted actress has ever interpreted.

She has achieved a heart-grIPPING note of realism in her portrayal of a girl who has been born and reared in the theatrical world, but who cherishes in her heart dreams of an ideal home life and the joys of a little house of her own. The poignancy of the drama reaches its peak when the actress realizes all her ambitions, and then at the height of happiness, her newly-found glory vanishes in a tragic incident. Under the direction of Ralph Ince, the screen story is woven in such a fashion that the picture will be remembered a long time by those who see it as a splendid example of powerful drama with bright touches of comedy. The cast includes: Alan Brooks, Tom Gallery, Nigel Barrie, George Irving, Charles Howard. The story was written by Peter Milne and the continuity by Ewart Adamson.

HOOPER AND COOLIDGE TO WAGE WAR ON TROUT

Superior, Wis., July 14 (AP)—Old Mountain, dean of Brule trout, might do well to keep in the shade of the rocks and watch his food next week, for two prominent citizens will be on the river.

President Coolidge will have competition of merit when Secretary Hoover arrives at Cedar Island lodge for a two-day visit. The republican nominee is an experienced angler, and knows the streams and rivers of this region.

The question interesting members of the presidential party is whether the president or his guest will catch the largest trout.

ADVENTURER DEPORTED

BUDAPEST, Hungary, July 14 (AP)—A self styled scion of the Spanish royal family has been deported from Hungary.

The man, who gave his name as Prince Louis Bourbon, was said by police to be an American named Glueky. He was ousted on the technical charge that his American passport was irregular.
