Dora B. Schilke Club to Meet At Riverside Park

The most important women's lodge event for the summer in this vicinity will be the annual meeting of the Dora B. Schilke Past Matrons' club, of Eastern Oregon, to which the La Grande past matrons will be hostesses tomorrow at Riverside park.

Fifty women visitors from Union, Baker and Wallawa counties, which comprise the association, will arrive here at about noon, to be greeted by local members. At 1 o'clock picnic luncheon will be served at the park and an elaborate and particularly interesting program has been arranged for the afternoon.

The annual session of the past matrons, representing leaders of the Eastern Star chapters for a period of years in several cities, is not only an outstanding lodge meeting of the summer but it is one of the most important of the entire year. It is a rare and happy occasion indeed when 70 or 80 women who have held the highest office in such an organization, are assembled together. Since the organization several years ago of the Dora B. Schilke association, named in honor of the late Mrs. Dora Schilke, who was prominent in Eastern Star circles, extremely interesting annual meetings with local past matron clubs taking their turn as hostesses have been held.

Officers of the La Grande club this morning extended a cordial invitation to all past matrons of this vicinity and to any who might be visiting here from other places, to attend tomorrow.

Members of the Wawohpie campfire group had an enjoyable early morning breakfast hike Sunday, going to Dutch springs, where they cooked a camp breakfast. The group is planning a breakfast hike to Pine Cone where they have a morning dip for this coming Sunday.

Quite a number of La Grande members of the Smith-Cole family attended the family reunion at the G. G. Puckett ranch near Union Sunday at which about 75 were present. Mrs. Ollie Spodsmith of Bell River, Ill., who is visiting her sister, Mrs. S. C. Lapham, was one of the family present. The reunion is an annual event of much interest to the members.

Miss Alice Gauthier and Chester Godsey, both of Union, were united in marriage Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the parsonage of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, the Rev. J. A. Hall reading the ceremony. The couple was accompanied by the bride's parents, her sister, Miss Mildred Gauthier, and the bridegroom's mother.

Mrs. Godsey graduated from the Union high school this spring. She made her home here until about two years ago, and had a number of friends in the La Grande High school, which she also attended. Mr. Godsey is a farmer near Union.

Preceding the wedding, the bride was complimented at several affairs at Union.

For the pleasure of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Clifton, of Des Moines, Ia., and Burton Arrant, of California, Dr. and Mrs. R. E. Murphy had a few neighbors call for an informal hour last evening at their home on O avenue. Mr. and Mrs. Clifton are guests of Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Appleby, while Dr. and Mrs. Murphy had Mr. Arrant, who is a cousin of Dr. Murphy's, as their guest yesterday. He is head of the music department at the Whittier college of California.

It was particularly to hear Mr. Arrant, who is a skilled pianist, play that Dr. and Mrs. Murphy asked in the few couples. His group of numbers made the hour a memorably pleasant one. Mr. Arrant was here only for a short stay, going on this morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Arrant, who left last night for their home in Des Moines, La., by way of the Canadian Pacific, were also honored at several small dinner parties that took place during the past week.

Today, tomorrow and Thursday we shall continue the series of playing situations started last week. The cards of a Declarer's Closed Hand and Dummy will be shown, the contract and the original lead will be how Declarer should plan to play the hand. Make up your mind how you would answer that question after looking at the hands and before you read the explanation that follows.

In today's problem South is the Declarer: Diamonds trump; King of Clubs led; score love-all (nothing-nothing).

Plan of Declarer

Before playing to the first trick, Declarer can see that he is sure to make four-sold; but far from sure of the additional trick needed for game. He must lose the first trick and may lose two Spade tricks. His best chance for making game is to trump with an honor on the next Club lead which is sure to ensue on trick 2 and then lead two rounds of trumps. He should not trump with the Four because he may want to lead that card to put Dummy in the lead with his Eight. Trumping with an honor cannot cost a trick; Declarer has a total of nine trumps in his two hands while the combined adverse hands have only four. If they are all in one hand, they still can be drawn even after ruffing with the honor. If the four adverse trumps are divided equally, two leads will exhaust them and Declarer then can lead his three high Hearts with the hope of dropping the adverse Jack. If he does this he can put Dummy in with the Eight of trumps, making Dummy's Ten of Hearts discarding on it the Six of Spades and then try the Spade finesse for the Small Slam. Even

COOLIDGE CELEBRATES BIRTHDAY IN WISCONSIN WILDS

Photo copyright, 1928, by NEA Service, Inc. Transmitted by Telephoto. Far from the nation's celebrating throngs, President Coolidge and his family quietly celebrated the president's 54th birthday at the summer White House in the Wisconsin woods on July 4. The president also went fishing that day. Here is Mr. Coolidge, in fishing tuss, eating his big birthday cake—baked by Mrs. A. L. Cowen of Duluth, Minn.—while Mrs. Coolidge and young John Coolidge look on. The picture was taken on the lawn of Cedar Island lodge.

Attorney And Wife Both Are Given Judgeships in Miami, Fla., Court

MIAMI, Fla., (AP)—H. F. Atkinson of Miami and his wife, Mrs. Edith M. Atkinson, both answer when anybody calls "Judge Atkinson."

Mr. Atkinson is senior judge of the Tenth circuit court and Mrs. Atkinson presides over the juvenile court. Both were named again for office in the June Democratic state primary, over opposition, and Mrs. Atkinson led the ticket.

The parallel of their life work, however, ends almost where it began with the title of "Judge." Not even the breakfast table conversation runs to legal affairs, Mrs. Atkinson says.

"Our work is little related after all. My husband's principal concerns are technical matters of law and evidence with a minimum of human element. In my court the human side is paramount, the human point of view essential."

The only time their professional paths run parallel is when her husband, in a chancery case, encounters a domestic problem, usually of divorce and the disposition and maintenance of children.

There is nothing of formality in Mrs. Atkinson's court. There is no bench on a raised dais, the rules of evidence are often abridged and statute law is a poor second to the natural laws that govern human relationship. From a plain, square desk in a sunny, sparsely furnished little office Mrs. Atkinson, a pleasant faced woman of 40, dispenses justice. Only 29 girls and boys have been sent from the court to the state industrial school in the three and a half years she has occupied the bench. A larger number have gone to the county school, but a far greater number have gone back to more normal contacts with a probationary check on their movements.

Mrs. Atkinson began her legal career as secretary to the man who is now her husband. In 1916, four years after she met him, they were married and she continued her secretarial work. Then she went to law school, completing the three year course in two years and graduating at the head of her class. On the day of her graduation her husband was elected to the circuit bench. Mrs. Atkinson spent the following year in private practice, and her income was greater than the salary of her husband as circuit judge.

"Although I'm not a doctor, I've figured out that this toasting process really does take out the stuff that hurts the throat. Here's why. No other cigarette is toasted and no other cigarette is as easy on the throat as Luckies. It's as simple as A. B. C. to me. I know because I smoke them."
