BARBARA FRIETCHIE TO-DATE
Most of the family were at the parlor window watching the parade go by. Suddenly the mother turned to her daughter—"Where's your auntie?"

"Upstairs," came the reply, "waiting for him."
"Money!" exclaimed the mother, "can't we afford a flag?"

"I always encourage my husband to recline in an easy chair and put his feet on top of the radiator."
"Why so?"

"When he goes to bed there is usually about $4.00 in small change in the chair."

This is a presidential year and from the signs we believe when it is over the people are going to know there has been an election, in spite of all efforts to keep it secret.

AT THE THEATERS

"Canyon of Adventure" Stars Ken Maynard

"The Canyon of Adventure," Ken Maynard's latest Western feature produced by Charles H. Rogers for First National Pictures is now showing at the Colonial theater.

This popular Western star who has come to the fore of public favor with such rapidity during the past year, will be seen in a picture that far surpasses anything he has done to date. The story was written especially for him by Marion Jackson, who has been responsible for practically all of his picture material.

"The Canyon of Adventure" tells of the early days of California when the Spanish dons and grandees ruled with an iron hand. It tells of their huge land grants, given them by the King of Spain and the efforts of the hated gringo land grabbers to secure this land, just before its entry into the Union. Maynard has a typical role in that of a whimsical and fast moving U. S. land agent who is endeavoring to save these lands for their owner by registering them with the government land office before the time day set. It is by far the best thing he has done to date and shows an entirely new side of Ken's ability. "The Canyon of Adventure" will prove that he is an actor of ability, as well as one of the most daring stunt riders.

An all star cast in Virginia Browne Fair— who has the leading feminine role — Eric Mayne, Theodore Lorch and William Frayne have been assembled in support.

Albert Rogell directed and Harry J. Brown supervised the production.

Lon Chaney Now Playing At The Arcade

Lon Chaney has one odd boast—he is the only actor in the world who has practically become a proverb. It happened in Hollywood when some wise-cracker pointed to a beetle and remarked "Don't step on it—it may be Lon Chaney." That remark has been published, cartooned and repeated thousands of times.

times since in every country in the world until it is literally a new proverb.

Chaney, who appears in his latest Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer vehicle, "Laugh, Clown, Laugh," now playing at the Arcade theater, is one of the most interesting figures on the screen, as well as the greatest boxoffice attraction. Born in Colorado Springs, he first saw the inside of a theater as a prop boy in his brother's playhouse. Later he became an actor in musical comedy; a dancer, comedian and singer; then a stage manager.

Early in the picture industry he became interested in films. He played Western heavies and then became a director, directing J. Warren Kerrigan in a series of pictures. He returned to acting to play "The Frog" in "The Miracle Man" and became famous overnight. Since then he has scored many consistent triumphs. Among his successes since he has been under contract to Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer are "He Who Gets Slapped," "The Unholy Three," "Tell It to the Marines," "The Unknown," "The Big City" and others.

Chaney is also famous as being the only screen player chosen as one of the authors in Encyclopaedia Britannica. He has contributed the chapter on make-up.

Picture Of Unusual Merit At The Star

There will be shown here for the first time Friday at the Star theater the "Tiffany-Stahl" production, "Streets of Shanghai," a story which dramatically portrays an exciting incident in the mysterious city of Shanghai involving a pretty American girl and a marine. The story runs in an unbroken continuity and sustains the interest throughout.

The story tells of the meeting of an American mission teacher with the handsome marine who is stationed at the United States consulate in the Chinese city. Frantic at the thought that one of her pupils had been kidnapped by a nefarious band she traces the girl to a room in a certain quarter of the city; and there she is aided by several marines who learn her story and aid her in rescuing her charge. The handsome young marine is immediately smitten by the charms of the little lady, and the next few weeks sees him paying her ardent court. But in the work of rescue the schoolteacher has aroused the suspicion of a powerful Chinese mandarin whose son is also in love with the mission teacher. He has his
