HYPOCHISY REWARDED—Wherefore the Lord said, Forasmuch as this people draw near me with their mouth and with their lips do honour me, but have removed their hearts far from me.

A women's saving and loan company, established in a large city, managed and financed by women, with women officials only, has been running six and a half years and now has resources of more than $700,000. Where are those who used to think a woman hardly competent to handle the butter and egg money? In the graveyard, of course, with headstones larger than those of the three or four wives who made it possible for them to accumulate money enough to afford headstones.

People are asking whether the Italia's expedition was worth while. That is one of the questions which can never be answered. It failed of its original purpose. But if the general purpose of such adventure be the sum of human knowledge, then the Italia has added its share. Its faults and failures lie plain before the reader. Others may profit by its sorry example. But if Amundsen be lost—Amundsen who suffered through Nobile before, yet went, at once to the rescue from an unhesitating sense of duty to humanity—there will be a good deal of feeling that fate did not make a fair exchange.

FRANKIE YALE AND DR. NOGUCHI

Frankie Yale, murdered gang leader, was buried in Brooklyn the other day with a $50,000 funeral. Money was spent lavishly to give this precious plug-ugly an imposing send-off; obviously the various illicit pursuits of Yale and his henchmen were highly lucrative.

A day or so after this great funeral there was an oddly-contrasting little item in the papers—a dispatch from New York revealing that Dr. Hideyo Noguchi, the Japanese scientist who lost his life in Africa a few weeks ago fighting yellow fever, had left an estate of just $12,000. On this money his widow must live for the rest of her life.

Set those two stories side by side—the story of Frankie Yale's $50,000 funeral and the story of Dr. Noguchi's $12,000 estate—and see what sort of comment you are moved to make about our civilization.

Yale was a "bad man"—a thoroughly harmful citizen, who stayed out of jail only because of the inefficiency of our system of detecting and punishing crime. Dr. Noguchi was one of this century's greatest benefactors. He gave his life in an effort to free a continent from a deadly scourge. Few men in modern times have served the world much better. Yet the bad man, who preyed on society, died rich; and the scientist died poor, in comparison.

One of the so-called "intellectual" writers the other day, discussing Bernard Shaw's proposal to equalize incomes, declared with great heat that it is a silly idea. In the long run, he said, society pays every man exactly what that man is worth to society. To support his argument he pointed out that Shaw himself gets a very large income, for the simple reason that Shaw is a very talented writer and as such is worth much to society.

The twin incidents of Frankie Yale's funeral and Dr. Noguchi's estate show the falsity of that writer's claim. Society does not always pay every man exactly what he is worth. Far from it. If it did Frankie Yale would have died in debt and Dr. Noguchi would have been many times a millionaire.

That, of course, is not to say that Shaw's equality-of-income idea is the solution. Indeed, it will take many years of thought and discussion to find out just what the solution is. But the whole thing is a symptom; a symptom of something radically wrong with our present makeup.

ABE MARTIN

Some of these times Mayor Jimmy Walker is going to take so much time primping up that everybody will be gone when he gets there. Who ever dreamed the time would come when the farmer and the Arctic explorer would have anything in common?

YELLOW CORN IS SCARCE ON MART

Berries Not Overly Plentiful—Fruits Are in Liberal Supply

PORTLAND, Ore., July 28 (AP)—Lemons continued to hold the center of interest on local wholesale markets this morning, with dealers asking from $10 to $12 for what stocks were available. Several houses were completely out. Some dealers think the high prices prevailing here now are caused by a temporary shortage which will be satisfied with the arrival of fresh supplies.

Yellow corn was scarce on the market this morning, nominally quoted at $1.50 per sack of about six dozen. White corn was in fair supply and sold mostly around $1.125 per sack.

New potatoes continued in light supply, digging operations having apparently not gotten under way sufficiently to supply the market due to the hot spell. Best offerings today sold as high as $1.75 per sack.

Berries were not overly plentiful this morning and the quality of most offerings not especially good. Loganberries and raspberries sold around $1.50 per crate, while blackberries went mostly at 50c.

Tomatoes were somewhat easier, market around $2.50, while Yukonima brought about 25c less. Apples, plums, peaches, pears and apricots were in liberal supply and about steady at yesterday's easy prices.

Pineapples were not notably changed on putter and eggs but both markets were firm with movement heavy.

Country dressed meats moved a little better and what small accumulations there were in veal and lamb was about cleaned up. Beef continued in oversupply and was easy. Prices were unchanged from yesterday.

At steady prices, with light hens at steady prices, with light hens a cent higher at 10c.
