OFFICE CAT

By Junius

They were playing cards in the waiting room. One of the players, a stranger, was getting a bad beating. Finally, he saw one of the others give himself three aces from the bottom of the pack. He turned to the man beside him and said: "Did you see that?"

"See what?" asked the man.

"Why, that fellow dealt himself three aces from the bottom of the pack."

"Well, what about it?" asked the man. "It was his deal wasn't it?"

Bill: "I sold him to an antique furniture dealer, and he's got the poor thing working 18 hours a day making worm holes in tables."

"Yes," he said, "I think the world is getting better."

"And may I ask why?" she answered.

For a moment he twirled the ring she had just handed back to him, held it in such a position as to make it flash brightly and then replied:

"This is the first time I have ever had an engagement ring returned without a fight or a protest."

"Johnny," said the minister reprovingly, as he met an urchin carrying a string of fish one Sunday afternoon, "did you catch those today?"

"Ye-es, sir," answered Johnny. "That's what they get for chasin' worms on Sunday."

HEALTH

HEAT STROKE OR SUN STROKE

By Carroll Eugene Cook, M. D. Chicago

Heat stroke and sun stroke, although commonly regarded as separate ailments, are identical. They differ only in that sun stroke occurs in the open air under the sun, while heat stroke takes place usually in hot confined rooms.

One would expect this sickness to be more common in the south, but the converse is true, as the southerner has become acclimated, whereas the northerner during the hot monhts falls a ready victim. Men, by reason of occupation, furnish most of the cases.

The consideration of this illness brings up the discussion of the heat balance of the body. Heat is generated in the body by the chemical use of food. The heat produced is dissipated by radiation and during hot weather particularly by sweating. Certain foods such as meats, fats and alcohol increase heat production tremendously. Likewise heavy muscular work, such as plowing, planting, hoeing, harvesting, stoking, and digging, produces a rise in the body temperature. If the atmosphere is cool, dry, and circulating, this extre heat is carried away. If the outside temperature is high, the body cannot lose heat by radiation. Likewise, if the humidity is high, loss of heat by evaporation does not occur and the body temperature rises. If in addition no breeze is blowing or if the individual wears heavy nonporus clothing or many articles of clothing a layer of highly humid hot air collects around the person and no loss of body heat can take place. The aggregation of the above point leads to heat stroke or sun stroke.

The attack is usually ushered in by the falling of the individual to the ground in total unconsciousness. Occasionally it may be a slow stupor accompanied by nosebleed. However, following the onset, heat stroke takes two forms, one with a high fever, and one with a temperature below normal. In the type with high temperature, the patient is unconscious, hot and dry to the touch, the pulse 100 to 180, full and bounding. Occasionally convulsions occur and these may be followed by a period of deep unconsciousness.

In the other type, the patient is cold, blue and exhausted, the fingers and toes are cold. The temperature ranges from 55 to 96 F. The pulse is weak, thready, and around 100. No convulsions are found, but instead total collapse.

Prevention is the best treatment. During the hot weather, meats, fats and alcoholic beverages should be taken in minimum amounts. Food should consist chiefly of vegetables, bread, potatoes, fruits and small amounts of meat. Large amounts of water or cool liquids are beneficial to promote perspiration. Light porous clothing is advantageous and few pieces should be worn. Natural or artificial breezes aid in circulating the air. The humidity should be kept low, and if this is impossible, work should be stopped temporarily.

POWER FOR MONTREAL

MONTREAL (AP)—A project for diverting water in the St. Lawrence river between Lake St. Francis and Lake St. Louis to furnish electric power to the region surrounding Montreal has been approved by the Dominion government. Some $20,000,000 will be spent on the hydro-electric development, with the government receiving $20,000 rent annually for the first five years and $50,000 for the next five.

AT THE THEATERS

Ward and Van With F. & M. Idea Wednesday

Ward and Van, musical comedians of vaudeville fame come to the Arcade theater Wednesday heading Fanchon and Marco's "Great White Way" idea.

It has been several years since these popular lads were first lured from the vaudeville footlights to play the picture theaters and the booking now to play the West Coast circuit was only made by Fanchon and Marco securing their release from eastern contracts.

Aggie Ward is the partner who has such a desperate time in keeping his trousers in place while trying to make sounds on a violin. His partner, Tony Van, in the meantime strums on the harp and tries to co-operate in producing harmony.

The stage setting for the "Great White Way" idea is an exact replica of the view from one of New York's skyscrapers overlooking Broadway.

In addition to Ward and Van, Fanchon and Marco have included Vina Zolle, coloratura soprano, and Elmer Hurling, baritone in the idea. Both Miss Zolle and Hurling have excellent voices which blend together well, making an ideal singing team. Their rendition of "Song of the Isle" has brought to them no end of praise from patrons of West Coast theaters in which the act has already played.

Last Day Of "Wheel Of Chance" At the Star

The dirtiest kitchen in the world! And a silk-cushioned room adjoining! Such is the strange, contrasting set used in the filming of "The Wheel of Chance," Richard Barthelmess' starring feature now playing at the Star theater.

The set, which plays an important part in this film version of Fannie Hurst's story, is where Margaret Livingston, in the role of Winnie Ross, plies her feminine wiles on unsuspecting manhood. The silkened room is the one that captivates Barthelmess in the role of Jason, the other twin brother, and the kitchen is the place that crumbles his illusions and brings about the break between himself and the woman who was dragging him down.

The kitchen is chiefly notable for its unwashed dishes, "undies" hanging to dry, and countless cigarettes burning into the wood work. The other room is an exquisitely feminine arrangement of couches, cushions and drapes of gay silks, Aphrodisian statuary and pictures on the wall.

"The Wheel of Chance" is the third Alfred Santell Production to be made by Barthelmess, the other two being "The Patent Leather Kid" and "The Little Shepherd of Kingdom Come." Barthelmess is supported by an exceptionally noteworthy cast including Lina Basquette, who was leading lady in "The Noose," Margaret Livingston, Bodil Rosing, Warner Oland, Sidney Franklin, Ray and Roy Berendzen (two boys of three years), Martha Franklin, Ann Schaeffer, Jacob Abrams, Charles Clary, Spec O'Donnell, Joseph Girard and others.
