Honor Mrs. Glenn At Post-Nuptial Surprise Shower

Mrs. Howard Glenn (Dorothea Harrison), whose recent wedding was an important event, was honored at a delightful post-nuptial shower on Monday evening when a group of her friends surprised her at her apartments. A social evening was enjoyed and of an appropriate hour the visitors served refreshments. Mrs. Glenn received a number of lovely gifts in the miscellaneous shower.

Mr. and Mrs. Glenn returned last week from a honeymoon trip to Hatcher national park and are at home at the Grande Ronde apartments.

At the shower Monday evening were Mrs. Minnie Mertz, Wilcox; Dean Wright, Lewis Motzart, Catherine Humphreys, Mary Vaughn Hendrickson, Irene Spencer, Ruth Harrison, Marjorie Walden and the bride's mother, Mrs. M. A. Hayden.

With Mrs. Putnam Yeck, president, in charge the La Grande W. C. T. U. met in an interesting business session yesterday afternoon at the Methodist Church South. Approximately 20 members attended the meeting which was devoted mainly to a discussion of plans for the approaching county conference at Union, Aug. 29. Mrs. Walter Madson, Mrs. Frank Millering and Mrs. Yeck were chosen the delegates from the La Grande society to the convention. Judging from the interest evinced yesterday there will be a large representation of the local organization at the county meeting which will be an afternoon and evening session.

Suggestions that an essay contest on temperance subjects, to be selected later, will be held in the seventh and eighth grades this fall by the organization were favorably regarded and will be given final consideration at the county meeting next week. Providing the contest is inaugurated, prizes will be offered. The W. C. T. U. will meet here again on Sept. 18, the third Tuesday in the month, at Mrs. Yeck's home at 152 V avenue.

Mrs. Ed Strick presided at a regular meeting of the L. S. to the U. of L. K. and E. last night at the K. of P. hall. Routine business was transacted during the brief session, which was followed by social hour when refreshments were served. There was an approximate attendance of 15.

When Good Taste Counts

Good taste in service and good taste in food—two important considerations when you are "feeding out."

How pleasant it is, therefore, to find such excellent taste in both of these essentials at the Sacajawea! Carefully prepared food—expertly planned menus—attentive and well-trained service!

In this locality, though has not lived here for 25 years, most of those present being her girlhood friends. The five "boys" present have been friends and neighbors for half a century and the many stories and jokes told by them were greatly enjoyed and quite worth while, as it was an unwritten history of the early days.

The lunch was beautiful with baskets of flowers, gray cushions, and garden seats. Point refreshments were served late in the afternoon. Those present besides the honor guest and hostesses were Mrs. Eugene Loer, who is visiting from Portland, Mrs. Julia Duncan, Mrs. J. O. Zeck, Mrs. Merton Bennett, Mrs. M. E. Hammond, Mrs. Frank Whittier, Mrs. Fred Lehman, Mrs. W. F. Kennedy, Mrs. Fred Myrbo, Mr. and Mrs. James Golub, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Dean, Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Wilson, George South and Truman Wright.

Pondosa, Ore. (Special)—Mrs. L. E. Hall and Mrs. Ray also were honor guests at a picnic held in Dunham Wright's orchard Friday morning. The ladies who were made their home in Wilmington, Calif. lived at Perry many years ago. Mrs. Roger Hansen and Mrs. Harvey Hansen arranged the affair at a picnic. An abundant picnic supper was served and later games were enjoyed until a late hour. About 25 friends attended the affair. Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hansen, and Mrs. Fred Lehman, came out from La Grande to attend. Mrs. Hall and Mrs. Ray left Monday to spend a few days at Rainierville.

Bridge Pointers

By Milton C. Work

Continuing a series started yesterday, of hands in which a slight difference in the method, we give today Nos. 2 and 3. In both of which South is the Declarer, the contract is No Trump, and West's lead is the Jack of Spades. Make up your mind how you would play both Nos. 2 and 3 before you read the explanation that follows.

The Difference in Management of The Two Hands

In No. 2 Declarer, winning the first trick, can count two Spades, three Hearts, and Diamond and three Clubs—nine tricks as absolutely sure. There is also a probability of three more Club tricks which would produce a small Slam and a chance of one more Heart trick which would produce a Grand Slam. Declarer's play therefore is obvious. He should lead a club, winning in Dummys, and attempt to run Dummys' clubs, as he probably can; the adversaries have a total of five and a 3-2 division of five is to be expected. If one adversary should have four Clubs, Declarer would lead a fourth Club from Dummy, taking out the high adverse Club and then put Dummys in with the Queen of Hearts to cash the two remaining Clubs, his chance for small Slam in such case being that the Hearts will run.

In No. 3, the situation is very different. In that case he sure high-card tricks total only eight—one short of game! and Dummys has no entry to run his long Clubs should one adversary have four. If Declarer should follow the plan outlined for No. 2 and attempt to run Dummys' Clubs, he probably would make only eight tricks if the adverse Clubs should be divided 4-1. The chances are three to one in favor of the normal 3-2 division, but the risk that this will be taken. To trick 2 Declarer should lead a small Club from Closed Hand and duck it in Dummys; this will give him two spades, two Hearts, one Diamond and five Clubs—a total of ten tricks—even if the adverse Clubs be divided 4-1. With the adverse Clubs divided 3-2, this play will cost a trick; but it will be an important one as it will not affect contract or game.

Add cream whipped until firm, flavoring and salt and turn into a mold decorated with peaches. Let stand on ice to thoroughly chill and become firm. Serve with baked custard made with yolks of eggs.

The Future Mrs. Tunney

Here's the first picture of Miss Mary Josephine Lauder, wealthy heiress and society girl of Greenwich, Conn., to whom "Gene" Tunney, the heavyweight champion, is engaged.

Just as anybody might have guessed, it was a woman—'est in female—that explains "Gene" Tunney's retirement from the boxing ring. She is Miss Mary Josephine Lauder of Greenwich, Conn., prominent in society and granddaughter of George Lauder, who made a fortune in the early days of the steel industry with Andrew Carnegie. Their engagement was announced recently.

The announcement of the engagement discloses that the champion's views on women have changed quite a bit in the past two years. In an interview just before his first fight with Jack Dempsey at Philadelphia in September, 1924, Tunney said: "There is neither time nor inclination in my busy objective and subjective life for that frisky—woman. Woman to me is myste-

Sport Clothes Limited In Fall Fashions

By Hazel Keavis

(Associated Press Fashion Editor) PARIS, (AP)—Sport clothes for general wear are off the fashion map. Paris showed them off in one big push, after two seasons of threatening.

The battle against sport clothes was over before it had even begun. The biggest dressmakers simply did not show sport clothes for anything but show, in their fall collections, and that ended it. The few sport togs that trickled into the autumn showings are definitely labeled "for riding" or "for golf." The casual two-piece garments of wool that constituted a large part of last fall's creations, are few and far between this year.

The two-piece suit of tweed or heavy wool, made on tailored lines. The autumn tweed suits are nearly all colored with fur, mostly beaver, raccoon or cross fox. When flange fur is used it is apt to form cuffs also, and a few suits have scarf collars of cloth with fur ends. There are modernistic wool sweaters to wear with the tweed suits, at many dress houses, but that is the closest the dressmakers come to suggesting that they are sport attire.

Zig-zag and diagonal stripes and fancy weaves are extensively used for one-piece wool dresses for wear under long coats of wool mixtures. More often than not the same fancy material as the dress is used to line the coat, carrying out the ensemble idea.

Flora and inimitable. But that was before he met Miss Lauder.

Punishment For Accidents Scored

By Mrs. Agnes Lyne

There is no memory that riddles so long in the heart of a child as the recollection of punishment for crimes he didn't mean to do—things that just happened to him out of a clear sky.

The vase fell. The new suit simply tore itself. And heaven only knows how the glass of milk fell off the table.

The child, intent upon climbing a fence, is oblivious to the perils the procedure holds for his new suit. His clothes, quite rightly, do not occupy his attention. To expect a child to hold in mind such adult values is to deprive him of his own rightful and wholesome interests.

The technique of handling the adult environment is mastered only after repeated explanations and cautions have made plain that such actions as placing a glass of milk too near the elbow, or turning a cartwheel in the vicinity of the mantelpiece, are almost certain to have disastrous results.

When this sort of catastrophe occurs it is well to suppress the natural impulse to scold or punish and to bear in mind that the child's faith in parental justice is more precious than any vase no matter how costly. Kindness and explanation will do more to prevent a recurrence of the mishap than punishment and blame.
