HOOPER BIDS GOOD-BYE TO BIRTH PLACE

Other fields and the abundance of the crop of more than 15,000 who swamped this little town for his homecoming, the great day in the village's history passed into the realm of memories which most of the town's old natives will often recall. They think of Hoover as he passed again into the modest little cottage of his birth for breakfast with Mrs. Jennie Sellers, as he went to pay his homage at the graves of his mother and father atop the hill to the eastward, and as he set out on his "last resting place" which proved so elusive that two trips were necessary to locate it. And finally, perhaps, will come the most impressive recollection of all—that of the distinguished native son as he stately, leading down the hill, the last behind the brick high school to receive the acclamation of the throng overflowing the tents. It was in that place and in that setting that the republican standard bearer gave his second dealing first with boyhood memories and secondly with farm relief.

Propose Farm Conference

WEST BRANCH, Ia., Aug. 22 (AP)—An agricultural conference in which Frank O. Lowden, of Illinois, and other farm leaders will be asked to participate in the search for a common ground upon which to act for farm relief, was proposed here last night by Herbert Hoover in his homecoming address in the heart of the corn belt. "In formulating recommendations for legislation to carry out the proposals of the party," the republican presidential candidate said, "I trust that we may have the full assistance of the leaders of agriculture to the value of the study which sincere farm leaders have given to this question of farm legislation. They have all contributed to the realization that the problem must be solved. They will be invited to conference. Outstanding farmers such as Governor Lowden will be asked to join in the search for common ground upon which we can act."

Time Uncertain

The calling of such a conference naturally is predicated upon Hoover's election, but the nominee did not indicate whether it would be his purpose to call it before or after his inauguration. His democratic opponent has announced that if he should be elected he would induce the farm leaders to meet immediately after November 6.

Moore At Home

Hoover seemed to be more at home in feeling an audience of his fellow Iowans than he has been at any other meeting of the campaign. He was given an ovation as he appeared and another as the meeting broke up after the singing of "The Star Spangled Banner" in which the republican standard bearer was distinguished. The women's hiking contest with the exception that the start will be at Hot Lake at 7:30 a. m.
