Kelly Trial Is Recessed Due To Juror's Actions

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 24 (AP)—The Kelly murder trial was recessed today and a superior court judge summoned to take the witness stand after a tentative juror chosen to hear evidence against Lee "Pat" Kelly, accused "butcher boy" killer of Mrs. Myrtle Melius, declared she discussed the case with other tentative jurors and Judge Robert Wilson. That Kelly may be tried by a jury consisting largely of women of about the same age as the victim became evident yesterday at the opening of the 29-year-old girl's testimony trial when his attorney, S. S. Hahn, frequently prompted by Kelly, employed numerous challenges to weed men out of the jury box. When court adjourned eight women and three men held tentative places on the jury that will represent both prosecution and defense holding 18 remaining challenges for selection of the twelfth juror.
The demand of Kelly's attorney that Frank Melius, husband of the slain woman, be held in contempt of court for failure to obey a subpoena which instructed him to bring "four barrels of whiskey and 200 bottles of beer" into court threw a sensation into the opening trial session.

MULTNOMAH CO. FIRES BURNING

As all of the fires are laid either to small boys with camp fires, to cigarette throwers or careless smokers, or motorists it was decided today that until the danger season is over the police and fire departments will rigidly patrol the affected districts.
While the white shield home, and a score of valuable residences were in the path of the flames yesterday, no danger was reported today.
Killogg Saved
Elsewhere in the northwest, the fire situation was menacing. This is especially true in Idaho and on the Idaho-Montana border. Killogg Idaho was saved only by a change in wind, and four additional blazes were reported in the Idaho forest. More than 400 firefighters are guarding the Johnnagan and Doris fires in Idaho.
In Oregon, the La Grande fire, burning for a week, was under control. The Coolidge fire menace is believed past.

COUNTY JUDGE PRESENTS PLAN FOR COURT HOUSE

any repairs until after giving the voters the privilege to allow us to increase our levy to build a new building, then it is too late to make any repairs before spring thereby making it necessary to secure quarters around town such as we can get until well along next summer. In the meantime the building would have to stand open exposed to the elements all winter and spring which would add many more dollars to the present damage.
It is my idea not to do any more repairing on the inside than is absolutely necessary, until after the voters have a chance to express their wishes. If the school board takes it over such as putting the roof on and heating system, would only add to the necessary requirements for school purposes.
This is a matter of vital importance to the tax payers of the county, and if the plan as outlined above is not feasible and for the best interests of all concerned, will be glad to hear objections to the above mentioned plan, and have submitted by any one interested a better plan.
Yours truly,
U. G. Condit

INTERVIEWS ON COURT HOUSE

In the business district.
Hugh E. Brady, president of the Union county chamber of commerce and justice of the peace: "I believe that if there could be an adequate disposal of the property we should build a new court house. The court house should be centrally located. If we did repair this building a new building or at least a new wing would be absolutely necessary within 20 years. A new school is a necessity anyway and we had better act now and have a permanent court house."
George H. Curry, president of the La Grande Realty board: "This is a question for our county judge and commissioners to give careful consideration. The old court house was far from ideal. A court house such as we all would like to point to with pride would probably cost two hundred thousand dollars, which means additional taxation. I am waiting for more specific information."
George T. Cochran, city attorney: "I am in favor of building a new court house. It is necessary that the building have jury rooms for both men and women which the old court house did not provide, and it is necessary that there be a grand jury room, court reporter room, library room, conference room, county clerk office, county judge office and circuit judge office in addition to the court room proper. All these can never be provided in the present court house."
J. P. Morelock: "It is the opportunity time to build a new one. We have the best county in the state and far from the best court house. I don't believe repair of the building should be considered and I say tear down the building. It is not adequate either as a required court house or remodeled school house. I don't want to substitute anything for our schools. Now is the time for the citizens of Union county to have a new court house, one that is up to the county standard in other things. I want to see a new building. We would put thirty thousand in repairs and still have nothing."
R. F. Taylor: "Taxes are high, but we do need a new court house and it looks like this is the time to build it. It will be handier and an improvement for the whole county."
A. J. Stange, vice president of the M. K. Lumber company: "The first requirement is to put a roof on the building and protect what remains, providing temporary quarters and keeping county business moving. Then if the people vote in favor of a new court house the old building will not have to be preserved in any way and will provide quarters while the new one is being built. It is extremely important that a roof be put on as possible from winter as soon as possible."
In yesterday's interviews T. J. Scroggin was quoted as saying that he was "not in favor of rebuilding for economic reasons." It should have read "For economic reasons, I would not be in favor of building a new court house." Mr. Scroggin went on to say that the county tax burden is heavy enough now.
